Red Guns Knock Out Two U.S. Naval Attack Boats

N. Viets Stepping Up Major Highway Attacks

SAIGON (UPI)—Communists have knocked two U.S. Navy attack vessels out of action, the U.S. command said Tuesday, and North Vietnamese troops stepped up their attacks along the two major highways running from Cambodia to Saigon.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said U.S. air attacks were continuing against North Vietnam as well as against Communist forces and supply lines in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Fighting spurted upward markedly in Cambodia, particularly along Highway 1 linking Saigon and Phnom Penh. Cambodian sources said a major offensive similar to the one in South Vietnam may be forming but it was too soon to tell for sure.

In South Vietnam, a new battle seemed to be shaping up around An Loc, the battered provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon. North Vietnamese troops also slipped around the town and attacked near Lai Khe—about halfway to Saigon.

Both An Loc and Lai Khe are astride Highway 13—the vital north-south highway from Saigon to Cambodia where a 20,000-man South Vietnamese division has been trying to move northward for more than a week.

With the attacks along Highway 1 in Cambodia, the Communists may be trying to secure the two main roads from Saigon to Cambodia. The only other roads are Highways 22 and 14 which branch off Highways 1 and 13.

Eight-engine B52s raided Haiphong Sunday and fighterbombers attacked both Haiphong and Hanoi.

(The North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks said 47 civilians were killed and 101 injured in Haiphong. It said a final count had not been made in Hanoi but a number of civilians, including women and children, were killed.)

The U.S. command said it attacked oil storage areas on the outskirts of both towns but the Soviet Union said four of its merchant ships anchored at Haiphong were damaged in the raid.

The U.S. command said two American sailors were killed and 16 wounded in separate attacks on the guided missile destroyer Buchanan and the frigate Worden.

The Buchanan was hit by North Vietnamese coastal batteries Monday. One sailor died and seven were wounded.

Oath Upheld In Supreme Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A sharply divided Supreme Court ruled 4 to 3 today that states can require employes to sign a broad loyalty oath opposing the overthrow of government by force, violence or illegal means.

The decision upholding a Massachusetts oath seemingly represented a switch of direction by the Court which, in the past, has invalidated loyalty procedures in such states as Florida, Arizona, Maryland, New York and Washington.

The latter laws were struck down on grounds they required a state employe to swear he was not a member of the Communist party or similar organization.

The Massachusetts oath was in two parts. The first pledged to uphold and defend the Constitution, which was approved by a lower federal court. The second, however, required the employe to swear he "opposes the overthrow of the government of the United States of America or of this commonwealth by force, violence or by any illegal or unconstitutional method."

The lower court had thrown this out as "hopelessly vague" but the Supreme Court's majority opinion by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger reinstated it.

Dissenting were Justices William O. Douglas, Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. The two newest members of the Court — Justices Lewis F. Powell Jr., and William H. Rehnquist —did not participate in the decision.

Speaking for the majority, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said he did not find the challenged section unconstitutionally vague. He said the oath is "no more than an amenity" and there is no record of prosecutions or harassment in connection with it.

The case was brought to the high court by Mrs. Lucretia Peteros Richardson, a research sociologist, who was fired from a job at the Boston State Hospital because she refused to sign the oath.

Mrs. Richardson sued in Federal District Court in Boston for back pay based on an alleged breach of contract and to have the law declared unconstitutional.

Douglas, speaking for himself, said the section is "plainly unconstitutional" under earlier Supreme Court decisions.

U.S. Firm: All Out Viet Effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) —U.S. officials said today "everything is open" for U.S. air and naval power to do whatever is considered necessary to stop the North Vietnamese offensive of South Vietnam and to protect President Nixon's Vietnamization policy.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this morning that U.S. air strikes were continuing in North Vietnam, as well as South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, "at this very moment."

Laird and other administration officials also specifically refused to rule out possible future strikes at Hanoi and Haiphong—targets of controversial weekend raids by American bombers.

As for the suspended Vietnam peace talks in Paris, Laird said it was "the height of irresponsibility" to talk about resuming them while the North Vietnamese were still pursuing what he called their invasion of South Vietnam.

Laird said if North Vietnamese divisions withdrew, "then, the suggestion of negotiations would be a viable alternative.

"As long as the violations are continuing," he said, "talk about further negotiations at this time is the height of irresponsibility."

The White House declined to respond directly to questions about the bombing and other phases of U.S. military operations in Vietnam. Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, said Laird was "stating the authorized position of the United States Government," and added: "It will not be stated by any sources in Saigon or elsewhere."

In his testimony before the Foreign Relations Committee, Laird also said the U.S. naval buildup would continue as "absolutely essential and urgent" insurance to protect remaining American troops in South Vietnam.

Nixon Aide Agrees To Senate ITT Quizzing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Presidential Assistant Peter M. Flanigan agreed today to give "limited" Senate testimony about his role in settlement of a huge government antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT).

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, revealed the break in the White House-Senate impasse over the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to become attorney general by reading to the panel a letter from Flanigan dated today.

Some key Democrats had said they would not vote on Kleindienst's confirmation unless Flanigan testified.

In his letter, Flanigan noted that last week Presidential Counsel John W. Dean III "explained that I could not accept an invitation calling for testimony relating to the performance of my duties as a member of the immediate staff of the President.

"Since that time, several members of the Judiciary Committee have indicated that testimony from me relates solely to my limited involvement in assisting former Assistant Attorney General (Richard W.) McLaren in obtaining independent financial analysis and (ITT President Harold S.) Geneen's participation in a group meeting in February 1971.

"If the committee feels that my testimony in respect to the foregoing would be of assistance in its consideration of Kleindienst's confirmation and the scope of my appearance is limited accordingly, I would welcome the opportunity to appear and testify before your committee," Flanigan said.

Some Democrats on the committee had demanded earlier in the day that McLaren and Kleindienst be recalled to the witness stand in addition to Flanigan.

The White House said Flanigan's agreement to appear before the committee did not constitute a reversal of the doctrine of executive privilege. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said executive privilege was never actually invoked on the question of Flanigan's appearance.

Flanigan's testimony, Ziegler said, will be limited to his role "as a conduit for the Justice Department in obtaining a financial analysis in prosecuting an antitrust case" —the Justice Department's suit to force ITT to divest istelf of three subsidiaries.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said he was satisfied with Flanigan's offer, saying it had

Guidance System Off, Then Fixed

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Electrical interference knocked out Apollo 16's main guidance system for 18 minutes today but the astronauts fixed it with instructions radioed from the ground and pressed on toward their Wednesday rendezvous with the moon.

The loss of the main guidance system was the most serious trouble in the first two days of the 12-day mission to the unexplored lunar highlands. It occurred when the moonship was 164,000 miles from earth.

Controllers found the source of the problem and radioed commands up to Thomas K. Mattingly, the pilot of the command ship Casper, who quickly fixed the system after an alarm sounded at 3:12 a.m. EST.

"We're go at this time," Flight director Philip Schaffer reported after the complex electronic device used to steer the astronauts through trackless space was back in service.

Mattingly and his companions, John W. Young and Charles M. Duke, lost two hours of sleep because of the trouble and when they awoke at 11 a.m. EST they were told that the interference had been eliminated with a change in procedures.

"Now, you're talking," said Young. "That's the best news I've heard today."

The problem involved a gyroscope-controlled navigation platform suspended so that it can swivel freely, regardless of the position of the spacecraft.

The platform is aligned to star references and is supposed to retain this "fix" and provide a reference against which movements of the spacecraft can be measured.

But instead of moving freely, this crucial navigation device locked in one position, making it useless for navigation.

Guidance controller Gary Coen said there was nothing wrong with the inertial platform itself.

He said an all-out effort was underway by teams of engineers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which designed the guidance and navigation system, to work up new procedures which would eliminate such interference for the rest of the 12-day mission.

Apollo 16 has a backup guidance system that was not affected, but mission control said if the primary system had been knocked out permanently, the astronauts would not have been permitted to swing into lunar orbit Wednesday. Instead they would have looped around the moon and returned to earth.

Reds Say 13,650 Men Lost

PARIS (UPI) — Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, Viet Cong foreign minister, said today South Vietnamese forces have lost 13,650 men in the Communist offensive which, she said, was launched to defeat President Nixon's "Vietnamization" program.

Madame Binh told France-Inter, the government-run French national broadcasting network, that American troops were involved in the fighting and that the Communists did not rule out a new U.S. "military adventure" against North Vietnam.

Madame Binh's statement was broadcast while the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations urged a resumption of the suspended Paris peace talks. However, the Communists so far have failed to formally request such a meeting through liaison officers.

Communist diplomats did not explain the delay. North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy, while urging an immediate halt to the U.S. bombings, told a news conference Monday the Communists wanted the conference to resume its regular sessions April 27. The conference was adjourned indefinitely March 23 by President Nixon because, he charged, it had become a sounding board for Communist propaganda.

Madame Binh said, "Our general and ultimate objective is to defeat the American policy of Vietnamizing the war." She said "the two pillars of this policy—the machine of (police) repression and the army of the Saigon administration are collapsing."

Madame Binh said Saigon forces so far had lost 13,650 men, 150 planes and 166 tanks or military vehicles in the fighting. She claimed further that Communist forces were especially successful in the Mekong River Delta which, she said, has been portrayed by Saigon and Washington as a throughly pacified region.

"We are ready for any military adventure of which Mr. Nixon is capable as he has proved by the massive bombings of Hanoi and Haiphong which even (former President Lyndon B.) Mr. Johnson had not dared to do," she said in reply to a question on whether she expected a possible ground attack on North Vietnam.

She claimed that American forces have been engaged in the fighting. She said the 1st Battalion of the 196th U.S. Infantry has been moved from Da Nang to the northern front near Hue while the 3rd Marine Division, which has been moved to Okinawa from Vietnam, has been moved back aboard ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Communist diplomatic sources earlier said they did not expect an early resumption of the peace talks.

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Bank of America official confirmed today that the government has announced regulations enabling broad government scrutiny of a citizen's financial dealings will go into effect July 1.

Robert H. Fabian, senior vice president and general counsel of the bank, also said the rules extend not only to bank transactions but dealings in securities, certain credit usage and travelers' check purchases.

The fundamental requirement is that all banks in the U.S. keep photostatic records of nearly all checks made out by customers. Federal officials then could subpoena the copies for criminal and tax investigation.

(The Independent-Journal reported in March that William L. Dickey, deputy assistant secretary of the Treasury Department, had said the rules had been written but not put into effect.)

Banks will not be required to keep check records of large business firms, routine payroll checks issued by large companies, routine government checks and insurance claim checks.

The records must be kept five years.

Unusually large currency transactions by customers also must be reported to the government, specifically withdrawals of at least $10,000 by a person who would not ordinarily take such a sum from a bank and out-of-the county dispatches of securities totaling $5,000, including letters of credit and stock certificates, according to the banker.

Aside from banks, securities

Big Firms' Profits Are Called Excessive

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. estimated today that 10 per cent of the nation's largest companies are violating the law by collecting excessive profits.

But Lrayson contended that the administration's goal of halving the rate of inflation is still attainable.

"We are on course," he told a hearing of Congress' Joint Economic Committee, where he ran into some sharply critical questioning.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the committee chairman, said the wage-price control system has been "a pathetic failure and the sooner we change it the better."

His figures, Grayson said, "clearly refute the repeated assertion by organized labor that wages have been held down while prices have climbed disproportionately."

"In fact, the opposite has been true," he said. "...Hourly wages had the sharper and quicker post-freeze 'bulge.'"

He said all prices—including the 22 per cent of all commodities, chiefly food, which are not controlled—have risen at an annual rate of 4.9 per cent. Food rose the most, 9.3 per cent.

With uncontrolled products excluded, he said, consumer prices between November and February rose "only 2.9 per cent,'(which put the increase "within the Price Commission's goal of 2.5 per cent."

In setting up Phase II, President Nixon said he wanted to cut the rate of inflation in half, bringing it down to between 2 and 3 per cent by the end of this year.

Grayson said only 11 per cent of companies with sales of $100 million a year or more—which must notify him before raising prices—have failed to file for a price increase.

Increases, in whole or part, have been granted 2,825 firms. Increases have been denied to 140 firms and 1,070 applications have been withdrawn or cancelled, Grayson said.

He said the commission has so far analyzed reports from only 129 of the companies which must notify it of price increases, either before or after they go into effect.

Of the 129 reports, 51 "were in excess of their base period profit-margin" and 78 were not. Under commission rules, firms must not increase their profit margins even if they increase prices.

Airliner Crashes In Nairobi; 118 Aboard

NAIROBI (UPI)—An East African Airways Super VC10 carrying 107 passengers and 11 crewmen crashed today during takeoff from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. "Approximately half the passengers survived," the airline said.

San Rafael Council Is Redeveloper

The San Rafael City Council last night placed another hat atop its head — it became the city's redevelopment agency. (Other San Rafael City Council stories, page 7.)

It also hired the Oakland law firm of Goldfarb and Owens, represented at the regular semi- monthly council meeting by Steven H. Goldfarb, who last week had instructed the council on the workings of community redevelopment.

The ordinance forming the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency passed unanimously and goes into effect 30 days after its passage. The new agency will be guided by the state's Community Redevelopment Law.

The city thus can finance downtown redevelopment, generate commercial development and bring "substantial numbers" of jobs to San Rafael, Goldfarb had told the council last week.

The next step for the agency, according to Goldfarb, is to formulate a revitalization plan. The county assessor then can create a tax area within redevelopment boundaries.

Once such a tax area is set up, revenues from any increase in assessment would go to the agency to pay for improvements.

Goldfarb will receive no more than $6,000 for his work with the agency, at a rate of $50 an hour. His job will include giving legal advice and drafting and reviewing redevelopment plans.

Tax Service President Urges Strict Standards

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The head of the nation's largest tax preparation service today urged Congress to require people in his business to be registered with the government and to adhere to other professional standards.

"Consumers need protection from abuses by some tax preparation services," said Henry W. Bloch, president of H & R Block Inc., a firm which did $90 million worth of business last year.

"This is one of the few industries you need practically no money to enter," he said. "There's nothing to prevent a 12 year old from making out a tax return."

In testimony prepared for the House subcommittee on legal and monetary affairs, which is considering legislation dealing with tax preparers, Bloch took exception to the statement printed on the front of this year's tax returns quoting Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Jonnie M. Walters.

The message said "Most American taxpayers can make their own tax return for 1971." But Bloch said accountants and lawyers disagree with that, and he considered it an "illconsidered statement."

"I have always advocated that taxes, in order to be equitable, must be complex," he said. "Further, many Americans prefer to pay someone to prepare their returns even though by careful study of the instructions they could manage their own."

He said the growth of his own business showed that Americans want such a service and any legislation governing it should "not be unduly restrictive or so prejudicial" as to limit its development.

Specifically, he said legislation should set a standard of competence for tax preparers by specifying their training; spell out financial standards for the firms in the business; prohibit false or misleading advertising; and require registration to make sure the standards are complied with.

He also suggested that the Internal Revenue Service be given authority to obtain injunctions against firms which prepare false or fraudulent returns.

Meany Rips Arbitration Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —AFL-CIO President George Meany said today proposals to give the White House power to force settlements in transportation labor disputes are "anti-labor measures masquerading as public interest legislation and we intend to fight them with all the strength at our command."

"The essential question raised by these proposals," Meany told the Senate labor subcommittee, "is whether the government should be granted the authority to fix wages, hours and working conditions for employes even in privately owned sectors of the economy through some form of compulsory arbitration.

UNION STANCE

"As a matter of basic principle, the AFL-CIO is firmly and unequivocally opposed to any such attempt to undermine free collective bargaining, or the right to strike which is essential to collective bargaining," Meany said in testimony prepared for the subcommittee.

The 77-year-old leader of the 13.6-million-member federation said the AFL-CIO opposed both an administration bill and one offered by Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., mainly because both contain a "final offer" selection.

Under that provision, the President could name an impartial panel to choose between the final labor and management offers and impose this as the solution to the dispute. Meany said this approach would not work and would lead to low employe morale and lower productivity.

"There is a natural resistance to purported solutions handed down from on high," he told the panel. "Government dictated solutions are bound to lead to restiveness and low productivity. They cannot lead to the harmony essential for industrial peace and high productivity."

WEIMAR REPUBLIC

Meany said that Prof. Merton Bernstein of Ohio State reported the "final offer selection" approach was first tried in the Weimar Republic in pre-Hitler Germany and met with only little success before being abandoned.

The labor leader also said a number of noted labor arbitrators had testified that this approach "would be utterly unworkable" because it is "remote from the realities of collective bargaining."

Meany said the right to strike was basic to the effectiveness of collective bargaining for unions, and that the administration and backers of the legislation were mostly interested in banning strikes that were effective.

MOVES CAUTIOUSLY INTO FLAMES

An Air Force recruiting sergeant hastens to move an auto parked beside a U.S. Navy station wagon set ablaze by demonstrations in San Francisco, protesting the renewed bombing of North Vietnam. Some 1,500 took part in the demonstration yesterday. Across the bay folksinger Joan Baez led 200 protesters at the Alameda Naval Air Station. Seventy persons were arrested during the two rallies — 29 in San Francisco and 41 at the naval station.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

War On Leftists

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — Uruguay's war on leftist guerrillas flared again yesterday as security forces chasing terrorist suspects killed seven persons and wounded two others in a gun battle outside a Communist Party social club in Montevideo.

The victims were all members of Uruguay's Communist party. Police sources said after the battle that the dead had no records of subversion, leading to considerable controversy over the killings, which brought to 19 the number of persons slain in four days of fighting between security forces and Tupamaro terrorists.

Film Editor Hijacks Airliner

CHICAGO (UPI) — A man described as a "drifting film editor hard up for money" hijacked a Miami-to-Chicago Delta Air Lines plane yesterday, but surrendered meekly to authorities about 40 minutes after the jet landed at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

Greene

William Herbert Greene III, 30, of Berea, Ohio, was scheduled for arraignment today on air piracy charges.

He was arrested as he came out the door of the plane which was carrying 85 passengers and a crew of six.

Greene was quoted as saying he wanted "the standard extortion rate for a big jet, $500,000 in small bills."

Rejects Offer

GENEVA (UPI) — The West today turned down a Soviet proposal for an immediate ban on all chemical weapons because the measure excludes verification steps to prevent cheating.

British disarmament negotiator Henry C. Hainworth said both Western and non-aligned countries would want assurance of compliance before signing such a treaty.

SALT Talks Off

HELSINKI (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union canceled a planned meeting at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today at the request of the Soviets, conference source said.

No reason was given but the sources denied that the postponement of the meeting until next Thursday had anything to do with the intensified fighting in Indochina.

Miners Hijack Plane

NUERNBERG, Germany (UPI) — Two Czechoslovakian miners hijacked a small twin-engine passenger plane carrying 11 persons on a flight from Prague to Marienbad today, forced the pilot to land at Nuernberg and asked for asylum.

Police said the hijackers fired shots aboard the pane and the copilot was hit in the chest. He was taken by ambulance to a hospital but police said he was not seriously hurt. The hijackers surrendered peacefully.

The hijackers were identified as Antoni Larik, 24, and Jan Dolesel, 27.

Rail Conference

LONDON (UPI) — National union chiefs met today to consider the possibility of a government crackdown on a railway workers' slowdown strike that has knotted Britain's transport system.

The cabinet of the Trades Union Congress, the over-all national labor organization, met leaders of the three railway unions fresh from their own meeting with Employment Minister Maurice MacMillan.

Political and union observers said a showdown between the Conservative party government and the nation's trade unions hung in the balance.

The strike was in its second day today.

Sadat Says Egypt Can Repel Israel

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat warned Monday that an Israeli attack could come "at any moment" but said Egypt was prepared to repel any such strike.

In Israel air raid sirens sounded throughout the country, mourning its nearly 6,000 war dead in 25 years of statehood.

In a three-hour briefing to the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party, Sadat said his country was "in a state of complete preparedness because we expect an Israeli aggression, using the pretext of a preemptive war, at any moment..."

In his speech, carried by Cairo Radio, Sadat said of the prospects for a peace settlement: "The doors have been closed to all the solutions that meet our basic principles, due to Israel's arrogance and the American stance. We have taken the decision to enter the battle and this is final."

In Tel Aviv, Prime Minister Golda Meir in a speech to the relatives of fallen soldiers said the nation must never forget "why our children went to war and why they died" in the three wars since the 1948 war of independence.

Muskie, McGovern Would Pull Out All American Forces

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Charging President Nixon has "broken" his promise to end the Indochina war, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has said he will pull all U.S. forces out of the war within 60 days if he is elected President.

Muskie and a rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. George S. McGovern, cricitized administration war moves in campaign appearances Monday.

Muskie, in an address at a Washington fund-raising dinner, said his only condition for ending the war would be the release of American prisoners and an accounting by the Communists for men missing in action. He announced he would broadcast a major speech on the war on Pennsylvania television stations tonight. The Pennsylvania primary is scheduled one week from today.

McGovern, campaigning in Massachusetts which also will hold its primary April 25, promised a quick and total withdrawal of American forces from Southeast Asia. He predicted expanded U.S. bombing of North Vietnam would move the Communists away from the peace table.

"If anything," McGovern said, "the stepped up bombing will only serve to unite the will of the Viet Cong in the same way as continued Nazi raids over England united the British in World War II."

In other political developments:

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Muskie's main foe in the Pennsylvania primary, pledged he would propose a total overhaul of the federal tax system within the first 100 days of his administration if he is elected President. At Philadelphia, Humphrey charged income tax forms "make crooks out of taxpayers" and are so complicated "it takes a college degree" to fill them out.

—The Democratic National Committee issued a 104-page review of its case against the re-election of President Nixon which accused Nixon of coming close "to playing politics with our prisoners of war."

—Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace said at Pittsburgh he would do better in Pennsylvania "than most experts think." Originally, he had not planned to campaign in Pennsylvania but said he revised his plans after receiving "many requests" to appear in the state.

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said at New York City the administration was clinging to "unwise economic policies" and has failed to stem inflation and substantially reduce unemployment.

HEY MR. TAXPAYER! YOU'RE WANTED!

If you're tired of politically appointed government agencies making decisions that will cost you millions of dollars, if you're frightened of regional authorities that don't have to answer to the electorate . . .

YOU CAN BEGIN PUTTING A STOP TO IT . . . NOW

By Attending & Protesting the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District's Public Hearings On A Ferry Boat Grant Application before the U.S. Government's Urban Mass Transportation Administration Wednesday Night, April 19 — at 8 p.m. Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza Administration Building.

WHY SHOULD YOU BE THERE? BECAUSE . . .

• An expanded ferry system will increase an already admitted annual operating deficit for buses by $1.5 to $1.9 million.

• The Bridge District is grabbing 50% of the new Gas Sales Tax Revenues. Marin County, alone, will lose $4.5 million in the next five years.

• The District spent $10 million on buses to transport over 6000 people a day. Now, it wants to spend $19 million to transport just 2000 people by ferry.

• Since the new bus system, ferry commuters have declined 25%.

• Users of the Bridge and buses may well pay for the increased ferry deficit by higher tolls and fares.

Evidence will be presented that the District already has plans to raid new revenues which should be available to cities and counties to offset rising property taxes.

Proof of the high cost of the ferry folly will be made public at the hearing. Ferryboat advocates will be there, too. But, it will be you, not the few ferry riders, who will pay the cost of the Great Ferry Boat Boondoggle.

ATTEND THE HEARINGS — This may be your last chance to be heard.

No Decision On Big Development

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, after listening to three and a half hours of discussion and complaint last night on the first part of the Madera del Presidio development, adjourned without making any decision.

It called a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. April 26 to continue deliberation on the proposed development.

About 90 Corte Madera residents attended the meeting, with about 30 standing in the rear of the crowded council chamber.

The parcel in question is known as Sunset Park of Marin, and will be developed by Harter and Odenthal Investment Co. of Orinda, in conjunction with Cal-West Communities, a Palo Alto firm.

Representatives of the development companies presented their plans for placing 142 units on 25 acres of the 75-acre site. Eventually 530 units are projected.

The developers said four basic architectural designs will alternate through the project. They also said they plan to build a pool, terrace and cabana and four tennis courts — two for Corte Madera residents and two for the exclusive use of the Sunset Park residents.

Later in the meeting, in response to complaints of density, the developers pointed out that this would be the most dense part of the whole project, and while there is not a great deal of open space in this section in the whole package 64 per cent of the land would be vacant.

Warner R. Odenthal said prices of the proposed units would range from $27,000 to $36,000.

Three neighboring residents have vowed a referendum campaign on the prezoning of the parcel, objecting to the density and design of the whole project.

Alfred E. Smyth of 36 Estrada Lane, a professional fireman, charged that "if there are two house fires in that area, there's no way they're going to be put out."

Smyth said all professional fire fighting organizations in the state, and he ticked off five, recommend a response of 12 men and three pieces of equipment within three minutes of a call. He said "Corte Madera doesn't approach that now and won't come close with 142 more units," even with the six new firemen the council has agreed to hire.

Commission chairman C. William Thomas said that is not a planning commission concern, that the commission must continue to act unless a moratorium is declared on all property in the town by the town council.

Morgan L. Griffiths, an architect, and chairman of the Corte Madera Board of Design, set the stage for stormy hearings before that board when he characterized the development as "a step backwards for housing in Corte Madera, but it'd be great for barracks at Fort Cronkhite."

Griffiths said the density of the development (8.9 units per acre, over 75 acres) would "change the whole character of Corte Madera," and proposed cutting the number of units on the site in half.

Dr. Wendell R. Wilkin of 73 Sonora Way, questioned the lines of sight through the development at eye level, and Griffiths said all people would see would be buildings, illustrating his point with a plot plan. Wilkin asked "You mean we won't see the massive open space?" and drew a laugh from the crowd.

The issue of schools arose when the planning commission read a letter received from the Mill Valley School District yesterday afternoon, estimating that 162 children would eventually enter the system from the development, and requesting a contingency school site on the property.

Warner R. Odenthal, one of the principal developers, said his firm had received assurances from Mill Valley school officials as long as 18 months ago that no space would be needed for schools. He said three possible contingency sites had been found in the development, and two existed on adjoining undeveloped land.

Mother Finds Bomb In School

LIMA, Ohio (UPI)—A woman visiting her child's elementary school Monday on P-TA business discovered a ticking, homemade bomb and carried it down two flights of stairs and out of the school.

Mrs. Barbara Kontose found the bomb—made of three sticks of explosives, copper wire and an alarm clock taped to a plywood board—in a restroom of the 800-student school building.

The school was evacuated and police were called to dismantle the device. Officers said they have no clues to who placed the bomb in the school.

Sonoma Out Of ABAG, In New Unit

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors officially withdrew from the Association of Bay Area Governments yesterday in favor of a new regional grouping with counties to the north.

The supervisors, after the unanimous vote, said the withdrawal was in accordance with the countywide bllot last April in which voters by a 3-1 margin told the supervisors to withdraw within a year.

The board gave chairman Henry Spomer authority to sign a joint powers agreement with Mendocino County for the new regional group, which Humboldt and Del Norte counties are also expected to join.

The supervisors had attempted to withdraw from ABAG before, but were denied permission by the state council on intergovernmental relations. The council reversed itself in a vote Wednesday, paving the way for the new association which will have the same powers as ABAG to process state and federal grant applications.

Carrier Scrapped

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The 888-foot aircraft carrier Princeton has been towed up the Willamette River where it will be scrapped. The Princeton, a 27,000-ton Korean War era carrier, acted as prime recovery ship for the Apollo 10 space mission.

Street Alternative Sought By District

Marinwood Community Service District directors last night asked Marin County and City of Novato planners to find an alternate to making Las Gallinas Avenue a main thoroughfare between Northgate and Pacheco Plaza.

Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager, said the directors agreed that proposals to extend the avenue from its northern end in Marinwood to the shopping center area in southern Novato would put too much traffic on a residential street. Board members ordered a letter written, calling for new frontage roads to provide an alternative to Highway 101 for north-south traffic.

Mrs. Bolding said the directors may discuss the problem further at an adjourned meeting May 9, if their letter draws any reaction from county and Novato officials.

Marinwood Community Services Board Also:

ADJOURNED — Set discussions for the May 9 meeting on the report of the board's salary and fringe benefits committee (submitted but not discussed last night) and on the preliminary fire department budget and 10-year fire protection plan.

COUNTY FARM — Voted to question county officials to see if funds will be included in the 1972-73 county budget to bring the old county farm complex up to standards making it acceptable for annexation to the Marinwood Fire District. The transfer has been delayed for years, pending improvements, Mrs. Bolding said.

OPEN SPACE — After extensive discussion, decided that the district should concentrate on local open space needs, rather than take a stand fgr or against formation of a regional park district.

RAISE — Approved a step in grade raise to Fireman William Doyle, to $788 a month.

RECREATION — Approved the summer program budget and pay schedule, and expressed support informally for more team activities. Reduced the overhead charge against the swimming pool budget from 20 per cent of pool revenues to 10 per cent.

Magazine Editor Honored Again

"Newsman of the Year" honors have been awarded Don Keown, editor of the Independent-Journal's Marin Magazine, for the second straight year by trustees of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley.

The selection was based on a nationwide review of religious material published in lay and religious periodicals in the past year, of the seminary trustees' publicity committee. Trustees from 28 states participated.

The award, including a $100 prize, was based on Marin Magazine articles about the history and meaning of Christmas and Easter.

Last Member Of Manson Family Is Sentenced

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The last member of the "Manson Family" charged in the 1969 series of murders was sentenced Monday to life imprisonment.

Bruce Davis, accused of killing musician Gary Hinman and movie stuntman Donald (Shorty) Shea, was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Raymond Choate. He was convicted March 14.

Ballistics Expert Continues Testimony

SAN JOSE (UPI) —A state ballistics expert told the Angela Davis trial today he was the last prosecution witness in the trial of San Quentin convict James E. McClain before the 1970 Marin County courtroom kidnapings and shoot-out.

Fred H. Wynbrandt, who testified Monday that hostage Judge Harold J. Haley was shot to death inside the kidnapers escape van, said under cross-examination today he had testified against McClain on Aug. 6, 1970.

The next day McClain, two other San Quentin inmates who were witnesses at his trial on charges of assaulting a guard, and an outside accomplice took Haley and four others hostage in Haley's courtroom.

McClain and Haley were among the four persons killed in a bloody gun battle outside the Marin County Courthouse.

Defense Attorney Howard Moore Jr. asked Wynbrandt today whether he had been a witness against McClain Aug. 6. Wynbrandt said he had. He said he was not in the court room the next day, however.

McClain was conducting his own defense before Haley, with convict Ruchell Magee on the stand and convict William E. Christmas in a nearby holding cell waiting to testify, when Jonathan Jackson, 17, smuggled guns into the courtroom to touch off the incident.

Wynbrandt testified Monday there was a "gaping hole" in Haley's head made by a blast from a shotgun with the muzzle extremely close or in contact with his face.

Earlier, 90 exhibits were admitted as state evidence, including six pistols, three rifles or carbines and three shotguns. All but one of the 12 guns were apparently recovered from the inside of the van.

Wynbrandt, who will be cross-examined by the defense today, told the court the van had 12 bullet marks—some entrance holes, some exit holes and some dimples from ricochets.

In addition to the shotgun blast, Haley was hit in the chest by a bullet from a .357 magnum pistol a kidnaper took from a deputy inside the courthouse.

Wynbrandt, chief of the bureau of technical services for the state Department of Justice, testified that the bullet that struck the judge was also fired from inside the van. He said two other slugs found in the van were fired from the weapon.

Four 'Town Meetings' On Tap

The first of four "town meetings" sponsored by Marin Municipal Water District will be held for the San Anselmo area at 8 p.m. Thursday in room 104 at Drake High School.

The schedule for the other three meetings is as follows:

San Rafael area, May 4, San Rafael High School cafeteria.

Terra Linda area, May 11, Terra Linda High School cafeteria.

All meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

The meetings have been scheduled to enable the citizens of Marin County to discuss with the district board and staff future water supply problems and solutions.

Following the four town hall meetings, a district-wide symposium will be held from 9:30 to 1 p.m. May 20 in Olney Hall at College of Marin.

Some Veterans Face Loss Of School Benefits

The Marin County Veterans Service officer has warned that some veterans will lose their G.I. educational benefits in May 1974 if unused by that time.

James V. Burdick said veterans affected by the 1974 date are those discharged between Jan. 31, 1955, and June 1, 1966.

The expiration date is fixed by a 1966 law which extended eligibility to post Korean War veterans with service between 1955 and 1966. Those discharged after June 1966 are not immediately affected, he said.

Deadline Set For Queen Race

Entries for the annual West Marin Junior Livestock Show queen contest will close the end of this week, according to Robert A. Borello, president of the West Marin Lions Club, sponsoring organization.

Entrants must be between 16 and 21 years of age and either a Marin County resident or student at Tomales High School.

The girl who compiles the most points by selling tickets will be crowned during the show, June 17 and 18. She also will receive a $500 scholarship, clothing and a trip to Disneyland.

Larkspur Man Robbery Suspect

Richard Dean Guendner, 21, of Larkspur was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on an armed robbery charge stemming from a hitchhiking incident in Larkspur Saturday.

Guendner was to plead to the charge today.

Larkspur police said Guendner was given a ride by a Tiburon man in front of the police station. He allegedly grabbed the driver by the neck and threatened him with a knife, then robbed him of $75, police said.

Arrigoni To Speak On Environment

Peter R. Arrigoni, chairman of the board of supervisors and running for reelection from the Second District, will speak on "What is Being Done to, or for Our Environment?" at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Burgar Hall of Fairfax Community Church in Fairfax.

The occasion is an observance of Earth Week and cosponsored by the Fairfax Community Church and St. Augustine's Episcopal Church.

A series of coffees have been scheduled for Arrigoni, all at 8 p.m. at the following homes: this Thursday, Virgil L. Jensen, 16 Blackhawk Drive, San Anselmo; next Tuesday, Lester A. Bricca on Sylvan Lane, Ross; April 26, Russell W. LaBelle and Harry Allens at LaBelle's home, 21 Crane Drive, Sleepy Hollow, San Anselmo; April 27 Peter Hunter and Alan Bradys at the Hunter home at 850 Bolinas Road, Fairfax.

He will also appear at a candidates night Friday at 8 p.m. at the Fine Arts Building at the College of Marin. Another candidates night has been scheduled for 8 p.m. April 29 at the same place.

Subdivision Plan Is Proposed

Belvedere Planning commissioners last night recommended to the city council that a planned small subdivision at the end of Belvedere Point be allowed only one access from Belvedere Road.

The subdivision proposal has been discussed by both the city council and the planning commission for nearly two years, according to commission secretary William H. Rafter.

He said the commission adjourned its meeting until April 24 at 8 p.m. in order to discuss recommendations of a planning study on Belvedere Cove.

A San Anselman Faces Pot Count

A San Anselmo man was arrested early today on suspicion of marijuana possession after he was stopped about 3 a.m. on Highway 101 near Paradise Drive by California Highway Patrol officers who said he had been driving erratically.

Jessie P. Wagonet, 24, of 15 Brookmount Circle, was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court to answer to the charge.

Officers said when they approached his car, they could see a container of what appeared to be marijuana.

Pot Suspects Are Arraigned

Two San Rafael youths arrested Sunday on suspicion of marijuana and liquor violations were arraigned in Marin Municipal Court, then released without bail.

Billy R. Dennis, 18, of 53 Glenaire Drive and Douglas W. Pusakr, 19, of 224 D Street were ordered to return to court Monday to plead.

The pair were arrested by the highway patrol about 1:30 p.m. near the Corte Madera offramp on Highway 101 when the car driven by Puskar appeared to be traveling erratically. A substance thought to be marijuana and a can of beer were found in the car, according to the highway patrol.

Youth Admits Burglary Count

Sentencing was set for May 30.

Health Conference

The board of directors of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County will meet at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow in the Coral Room of Marin General Hospital, to discuss a Marin County health facilities and services plan.

Meeting Canceled

The regular meeting of the Reed School District Board set for tonight at 8 o'clock has been canceled for lack of a quorum.

Youth Charged In Pot, Alcohol Counts

Peter Austin Schober, 18, of 53 Santa Maria Drive, Novato, is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday on suspicion of possession of marijuana and alcoholic beverage.

Schober was arrested by Novato police at Pioneer Memorial Park at 10:17 p.m. Saturday for reportedly possessing a can of malt liquor. Officers said they discovered a plastic bag containing what appeared to be marijuana and a hand-rolled cigarette when they searched Schober. He was booked and posted $300 bail.

Administrators' Pay Hiked In Tamalpais

The Tamalpais Union High School District board last night voted 4-1 to raise the salaries of its superintendent and assistant superintendent by 5 per cent.

The contracts will raise te salary of Supt. Wilbur D. Hawkins from $30,000 to $31,500 and Asst. Supt. Robert D. Torrey from $26,000 to $27,300, retroactive to July 1, 1971, pending Pay Board review.

Corlett questioned if the board could grant retroactive raises at all, and the board said it would consult Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino on the matter.

Corlett also questioned why the superintendent and assistant superintendent should receive a 5 per cent raise when the staff only received a 4.8 per cent increase. Hawkins said the board took the position that staff increases are guaranteed every year by their contracts, where administrative salaries are not.

Corlett also objected to multiple year contracts in general, Hawkins said today. The superintendent's contract runs from July 1, 1971 to June 30, 1975. The salary voted him last night applies to the 1971-1972 school year.

Torrey's contract runs from July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1974.

The Tamalpais Union High School Board also:

But committee liberals said they would not be bound by the limitations that Flanigan demanded as a condition of his appearance and served notice they would continue to press for testimony from other White House aides —including William E. Timmons and Herbert G. Klein.

Eastland said he would call a closed meeting of the committee to discuss Flanigan's offer and whether other White House witnesses should be called. With Ervin's support, however, it appeared virtually certain that Flanigan would testify under the conditions he laid down.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that if Flanigan testifies "I will feel absolutely no constraints by the conditions he has established in the letter." Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said he would continue to insist that other White House aides who have been mentioned in previous testimony be asked to appear.

The new demands followed testimony Monday by Richard J. Ramsden, a Wall Street financial analyst who was hired by Flanigan to write a report on what would happen if ITT was forced to divest itself of Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

Earlier in the investigation both McLaren, a federal judge who once headed the Justice Department's antitrust division, and Kleindienst testified their decision to reverse department policy and settle the suit.

houses, sellers of travelers' checks and credit card companies whose cards can be used in foreign companies also will be required to keep customer records, expected to be tested in court on constitutional grounds.

The regulations, expected to be tested in court on constitutional grounds, are enabled under the Bank Secrecy Act, signed by President Nixon last year. The legislation was said to have been intended as a means of cutting drug traffic and gold trading by keeping track of U.S. dollars in international transactions, although bankers had expressed concern it would extend to domestic bank dealings.

A precursor to the regulations came in a memorandum obtained by Capitol News Service in Sacramento, which filed a story in March with subscribing newspapers, including the I-J. The memo, which essentially revealed what has now come to pass, is believed, however, to be a bank's interoffice document.

The I-J's publication of the Capitol News Service report brought widespread complaint of "big brother" tactics from Marin residents, officials and at least one banker.

POLICY

day in favor of cutting off U.S. financing of the war at the end of this year. He testified in a public session after appearing earlier in the morning at a private session of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

As for reports from Saigon that Nixon had ordered a halt to bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong areas, Laird told reporters prior to his testimony that there was "no substance to uuch a report."

Another high administration official said, "What we will say is everything is open as clearly stated by Secretary Rogers — that we will do whatever is necessary to thwart invasion.

The Foreign Relations chairman, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., as he did on Monday while questioning Secretary of State William P. Rogers, was highly critical of U.S. Vietnam policy. He said in an opening statement:

"Apparently President Nixon thinks he can accomplish with air power alone what his predecessor failed to accomplish with air power ... and more than 500,000 American men."

Responding to questions by Fulbright, Laird said American commanders in Vietnam had the authority to order air attacks "below the DMZ (demilitarized zone), in the DMZ and above the DMZ," and he said those raids were continuing.

"The authority is there to develop as the tactical situation warrants," he said.

Laird said the North Vietnamese had "flagrantly" violated a 1968 agreement not to attack the South across the DMZ.

"Their (the North Vietnamese) decision to violate the 1968 understanding, to move divisions across the DMZ ... was something I could not explain and I will not try to give a reason to this committee for this violation, this flagrant violation," Laird said.

Both Rogers and a high administration source said, that no American ground troops would be re-introduced into South Vietnam.

Other officials also said Hanoi and Haiphong had not been necessarily ruled off limits to bombers.

—Sunday somewhere in the Gulf of Tonkin. One sailor was killed and nine injured.

Both ships were knocked out of action.

Radio Hanoi said five U.S. ships were set afire by Communist shore batteries.

On the ground, Viet Cong took control of all except the principal village in Hoai An District (county) in Binh Dinh Province, 290 miles north of Saigon on the central coast. Viet Cong also burned four refugee hamlets in the next northern province, Quang Nhai.

Communist gunners shelled the Quang Tri combat base and artillery base Pedro in Quang Tri province where the offensive began March 30.

Las Colindas Subdivision Protested

By BRUCE MARTIN

It was all too much for the proposed 16-lot subdivision to overcome during last night's meeting of the San Rafael City Council. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 1.)

Nearly every seat in the council chamber was filled as a string of protesting residents, a 212-signature petition and a moratorium plea were heard by the council which, in the end, denied an appeal to allow 16 residential lots at the north end of Wintergreen Terrace.

The subdivision plan, labeled Las Colindas Unit II, was located on 162 acres of land between Las Colindas and Lucas Valley roads. The plan by owner Jerome Meislin divided the area into 17 lots, the 17th to be 152 acres of open space.

The petition, presented by Carolee Krieger of 618 Las Colindas Road objected to dangers in "preparation of the land" and cited "an increased traffic hazard if more people live" near the intersection of Las Colindas and Wintergreen Terrace.

Jean Starkweather, of 612 Las Colindas, a teacher, presented a sample of the plant life she said would be endangered if a subdivision were built on the marshy and sloped 10 acres. And Lynn Parker of 641 Las Colindas worried about an underground runoff during rainy seasons and how it might affect his and other properties directly south of the subdivision.

Parker also expressed concern about "what any development will do to the hill above us."

A group called the Terra Linda Springs Homeowners Association, represented by A. W. Hoke of 915 Las Ovejas Avenue, then asked that the council impose a 90-day moratorium on the subdivision before making any decision.

"The area presents unusual underground conditions," Hoke said, adding that the conditions thereby create unusual problems for nearby homes. He gave garage flooding as an example.

"We're requesting time for soil studies and geographical analyses," Hoke said.

A spokesman for Murray and McCormick of Novato, representing owner Meislin, said water runofff would be intercepted by drainage provided for in subdivision plans. He added that the plan complied with all city ordinances, and that all services and utilities would be available, including police and fire protection.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr., in response to a question from Mayor C. Paul Bettini, said the subdivision as planned could handle rain drainage.

Some residents had asked a 40-foot easement for a thoroughfare, extending eastward about 600 feet from the end of Knockaboul Way to Wintergreen Terrace, thereby providing what Caillouette called "better circulation of traffic."

"It looks kind of Mickey Mouse," Bettini said of the lack of thoroughfare.

In denying the appeal, the council unanimously had decided that the street should be extended and that soil studies should be made.

San Rafael Council Approves Annexation

The San Rafael City Council last night added to the city six acres of what up till now had been known as the El Marinero Annexation.

The city envisions the property, located east of Highway 101 between North San Pedro Road and San Pablo Avenue, as being ultimately developed for office facilities. The site is adjacent to the Civic Center.

The council's vote was unanimous to add the property whose assessed valuation is $146,625.

At its previous meeting, the council had prezoned the property from planned commercial to administrative-professional.

Paul K. McMullen, who on April 3 was appointed by the council to fill a vacant San Rafael Board of Education seat, was sworn into office on April 10, city clerk Marion Grady reported last night. McMullen was to have been sworn in at last night's meeting but because of a school board meeting on April 11 he was sworn in early, she said.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

Stinson Fire District To Be Upgraded

Marin Municipal Water District or Stinson Beach County Water District may buy Stinson Beach Water Company in order to upgrade it and improve fire protection in Stinson Beach.

Marin Municipal will be the first agency approached and asked if it is interested, according to Proctor Jones, vice president of the Stinson Beach County Water District.

He said an engineering report made to a joint meeting of his board and that of the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District Friday revealed the water system does not have enough pressure to provide adequate fire protection. Water company officials, present at the meeting, said they would consider selling.

A joint committee of members from the two Sinson Beach boards will negotiate terms before June 1, Jones said.

The comapny services about 500 customers, he said, and by law it needn't have the high pressure required for fire use since it is a private company.

Berryessa Lake Plan Criticized

A federal plan eventually to phase out private resorts in favor of public recreation at Lake Berryessa in Napa County was criticized by some and praised by others yesterday during two Marin County hearings.

The hearings, held during the afternoon and evening at the Marin Civic Center, were part of a series being staged by federal officials to test public reaction to a National Park Service plan.

The hearings drew only sparse attendance — about 30 persons each.

Basically, the plan calls for seven resorts on the west side of the lake to be phased out and replaced with expanded "day use" facilities for the public.

Private development around the Bureau of Reclamation lake has been increasingly the center of controversy in recent years as resort owners have encouraged mobile home park development.

Such development has been allowed through a leasing arrangement among the federal government, Napa County and the resort owners or concessionnaires as they were referred to yesterday.

Most of those opposing the federal plan, such as David R. Munro of Mill Valley, said it was unfair to the resort owners who have developed recreational facilities at the lake at no cost to taxpayers.

He and others pointed to the multimillion-dollar expenditure required under the federal plan.

Jeff Hudson of San Rafael countered, however, that the picturesque setting of the lake is being destroyed by development.

Hudson, one of about six persons to speak yesterday afternoon, said he was horrified by what he found there on his first and only trip to the lake.

"There's nothing there to draw me back," he told the hearing board, made up of officials from the National Park Service, Bureau of Reclamation and Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

He urged the mobile homes be banished and the area returned to public use.

Teen-Ager Hurt In One-Car Accident

Michael Robert Colombini, 14, of 50 Fair Drive, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with face and head injuries, suffered in a one-car accident Saturday.

He was a passenger in a car driven by his brother, Richard Gregory Colombini, 16, which went off Coleman Drive south of Vineyard Drive about 4:48 p.m., according to police reports.

Taxpayers Group Is Against Ferry Fleet

Golden Gate Bridge District officials last night failed to gain support for their ferryboat fleet plans from directors of the Marin County Taxpayers Association.

Ashford D. Wood, taxpayers' association secretary, said Lowell Edington, chairman of the district board, conducted the meeting in the Marin County Civic Center. Bridge officials outlined their plans to seek an $18 million federal grant to finance purchase of a ferryboat fleet, he said.

The district speakers "confirmed that operating deficits would be more than originally expected and would exceed revenue from bridge tolls and transit fares," Wood reported.

"The bridge district did not answer the concerns of our association."

He said the association directors named their chairman, Donald M. Van Dyke, to speak against the federal grant application at a hearing at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the bridge district headquarters. The association board decided to stress that it will support district plans for bus transit service, but not the ferryboat proposals.

About 40 persons attended the two-hour meeting in the county planning commission chambers, Wood said, including a handful of bridge board members, the district's staff and directors and members of the taxpayer group.

Argument Over Divorce Ends, Wife Fires Shots

An argument over a divorce ended last night with a wife firing six shots at her estranged husband, but not hitting him, San Rafael police reported today.

Her estranged husband, Jarmen Andrew Smith, 32, of 400 Canal Street, Apt. 209, told police that he and his wife were in the process of getting a divorce, which she opposed. She came to his apartment about 10:45 p.m. and they argued, according to police reports.

Smith put his wife out the front door and a few moments later, she shot three bullets through the lower door and pieces of carpet were knocked into the air, he told police.

Another bullet went into a closet and through some shirts hanging in the closet until it fell onto the floor. Another shot was fired through the kitchen window and lodged in the refrigerator, police reported. The sixth bullet was not found.

Smith's roommate, James Peter Pozzi, fled out the back door when the shooting started and called police.

The bullets were .22-caliber, thought to have been fired from a rifle, according to police.

Greyhound Asks Fare Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Greyhound Lines-West has asued for a 13.5 per cent increase in its passenger fares and express rates in California.

The bus firm Monday filed an amended rate increase request with the state Public Utilities Commission, which granted Greyhound a 6.5 per cent hike last year.

The increase, which took effect last Nov. 23, was less than half of a 15 per cent hike which Greyhound had sought. It immediately asked the PUC for the remaining 8.5 per cent, but its Monday amendment raised the figure to 13.5 per cent.

The proposed increase would also apply to express shipments of Las Vegas-Tonopah-Reno stagelines, Orange Belt Stages, Peerless States, San Pedro Transit Lines and Vaca Valley Bus Lines.

Cliff Hanger By Bridge Ends Happily

Two Oakland brothers were hoisted to safety yesterday by rescuers after becoming stranded halfway down a 300-foot cliff at the north end of the Golden Gate Bridge.

A team of four California Highway Patrol officers, two military policemen, a Golden Gate Bridge worker and two Sausalito firemen worked to bring the pair up by rope after a Coast Guard helicopter had failed in its attempt to pluck them from the ledge.

The stranded men, Andre E. and William O. Woods, 19 and 22, along with their dog, Champ, had been trying to climb down the cliff face to get to the beach when they found they couldn't move in either direction.

Spotted about 3:20 p.m. by the highway patrol, they waited on the cliff face until the Coast Guard helicopter made its way toward them, but were unable to board it because of the danger of overhanging rocks and a swift updraft. The helicopter landed at the top of the cliff, and its crew assisted in ground rescue operations.

Richard J. Bettencourt of the Sausalito Fire Department's rescue squad tied a rope around himself, and was lowered over the side by the seven men. "I was a little worried myself going down on the rope," he said later.

Once there, he said, he tied the rope around one of the brothers and called for the rope crew to haul them up. He repeated the trip for the other brother, and the dog scrambled to safety on its own.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Needless Confusion About Water Supply

The forecast now is for intermittent rainstorms to continue for another month.

This is good news for Marin, where an unusually dry winter has posed the threat of unusually high summer fire hazards. It is bad news for owners of professional baseball clubs, already out of pocket plenty because of the players' strike and with attendance sharply down for the season's delayed opening.

Presumably it is good news for those who have been listening to the confusing information on "water shortage" put out by Marin Municipal Water District.

WITH RAINFALL only half of normal, MMWD general manager William R. Seeger a month ago talked about reservoirs being only three-fourths full, and suggested that some restrictions on water use might be necessary during the summer.

Questioned during a water board meeting last week, Seeger said he had never meant that water would be rationed. People might need to voluntarily limit use, he then said.

All this was confusing to those genuinely worried about the district's water supply. It was especially disturbing to the overwhelming majority who voted last year against a huge commitment by the district to bring Russian River water to Marin. Had they made a mistake? Was there really going to be a shortage?

AS SEEGER HIMSELF said during the campaign on the water district's Measure B last year, it would take three dry seasons — such as this one has been — following in succession to create an actual water shortage in the area served by MMWD.

Much of the confusion no doubt arose from the water district's report that reservoirs are "only three-fourths full."

The capacity of MMWD's reservoirs is more than 70,000 acre feet. The current annual water use in the district is 32,600 acre feet, according to figures put out by the district last year. Even in an extremely dry year, the "safe yield" is 34,000 acre feet — a little more than the current consumption, again according to the water district.

With the reservoirs three-fourths full, then, there is far more than enough water for the year's demand. Putting out scare stories about an impending shortage has served only to increase the doubts of Marinites about the credibility of MMWD —doubts which were shown at the polling places last November.

WE NEED MORE rainfall, because of the summer fire hazard. We should learn now to conserve water — a necessity which we in Marin have taken too much for granted. But if not another drop of rain fell until next fall, we would not face any water shortage this summer.

Marin Municipal Water District should try telling the plain facts. That perhaps should be the No. 1 requirement of the new "community relations director" the district plans to hire at a salary of $18,000 to $20,000 per year. It shouldn't cost that much to get the truth, but it would be worth it.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

No Effort Made To Correct Mobile Home Tax Inequity

By EARL G. WATERS

With all the discussions about tax reforms there is a large group of homeowners in the state who have so far escaped what would seem their fair share of the burden of government.

These are those who have taken to "mobile homes" as a mode of living. And there about 600,000 of these types of abodes permanently within the state.

No longer are these the migratory people of the great depression days. Today they are generally persons neither on the move nor financially strapped.

While many are retired, there are also many who find the modern mobile home a convenient place to raise their families. All look to local government for police, fire and other services. And the children attend the schools and use the public parks and recreational facilities.

TO MANY THERE IS a great inequity in this situation for the rest of the homeowners. For the total taxes paid upon these trailer homes in one year is only about $15 million. This is contrasted with the $2¼ billion paid by those living in single-family residences.

The reason for this is because the mobile homes are taxed in the same manner as automobiles. Each is registered with the State Department of Motor Vehicles. In addition to registration fees, the owner is charged an "in lieu" tax based upon the value of the trailer. The taxes are then distributed to the cities and counties of registration.

Los Angeles County, with about one-third of the state's population, realizes only about $1.5 million a year from these taxes, yet it has nearly 100,000 such homes. The same number of single-family homes are taxed somewhere around $70 million a year in local taxes.

The average home today is in the $20,000 cost range and is assessed at 25 per cent with an average $14 tax rate, which means the owner pays $700 property taxes.

Of course many of the trailer coaches are not in the $20,000 class. Those that are, which is about one-third of the total registered, pay only $340 taxes. But that is paid only if the mobile home is brand new. For the tax is on a depreciated scale and is reduced each year down to a minimum hardly worth mentioning. The depreciation period is 15 years for large "trailers" and only nine years for the smaller ones. The result of this tax schedule is that on the 600,000 coaches the average tax is only $25.

WHILE IT MAY BE said that since most of the trailer owners rent space in mobile parks they are indirectly paying taxes, the same could be argued for those renting apartments. The fact is that land used for mobile home parks is not assessed the same as land upon which permanent improvements have been made. The apartment dweller comes closer to paying his share of property taxes, albeit indirectly. In neither case, however, does the government consider rent payments as a form of property taxes for income tax purposes.

And it is hard to see the equity in a tax which, imposed upon a home that is nailed to the ground, is far greater than that made on a home of the same value which is theoretically mobile. It is also difficult to fathom the thinking which allows such an advantageous markdown in mobile home values while all others see their assessed values constantly being upped.

Despite this situation, which seems to be glaringly inequitable, no remedy has been advanced in property tax reforms so far proposed.

Novato Planning Commission Should Quit

An analysis of the recent Novato City Council election, which appeared in your excellent newspaper on April 12, concluded that the basic issue was growth. The issue is one of what kind of growth, if any. In my opinion, voter unrest stems mostly from the proliferation of apartments, townhouses, low income housing programs and social planning concepts approved and brought forth respectively, by our planning commission.

In this connection, I have today suggested to the planning commissioners that they resign now. It is important that the newly constituted council be free to create a new planning commission. Hopefully, the new members would be more qualified and more closely attuned to the wishes and the needs of Novato citizens.

Story About Shoot-Out Victim Resented

This letter is concerning the article about Donald Oliver in last Friday's paper.

I feel that a lot of unnecessary things were written, especially statements about Don's personal life, which should have been kept in strict confidence with his appointed psychiatrist.

I also think the picture of Don lying dead is unfair not only to Don, but also his wife.

I feel the writer of this article owes an apology not only to the readers of the I-J, but above all, Don's wife.

I am not the only one who feels this way, I've heard many people comment about this article and picture.

Much Contradiction On Water Supply

Recently there has been a great deal of contradictory information printed in the I-J regarding the "water shortage" which is facing Marin residents. As a voter against the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct, I am greatly concerned as to the exact status of our water supply.

I read in the I-J (apr. 13) that the reservoirs are at their same low level (75 per cent capacity) despite recent rains. In another part of the same edition, in response to a question by Dr. R. Stafford, M.D., Mr. Seeger is quoted as saying he "never indicated a serious water shortage." I assume your information comes from the MMWD, so why the discrepancy? Either the I-J is not reporting accurately or we are being misinformed by the MMWD.

If there is no shortage, then why the previous scare headlines? (Jan. 17, Water Rationing Looms for Marin; Apr. 6, Marin's Thirsty Reservoirs Not Helped by Late Rains)?

MMWD Priming Pump For New Bond Issue?

In November, 1971, Mr. Seeger, general manager of the Marin Municipal Water District, said it would take a three-year dry cycle to create a water shortage. In addition, he promised that an $11.5 million bond issue in 1970 (Proposition H) would supply our needs through 1975. Now, after one dry year, the MMWD has repeatedly warned in I-J headlines that we have a water shortage and that the probability of "water rationing" looms for this summer.

Because of obvious confusion from misleading water district reports, I asked the MMWD at their April 12, 1972, meeting whether we do in fact have a water shortage. As partially reported in the I-J (Apr. 13), Mr. Seeger stretched credulity by saying he had never suggested that a water shortage existed and that the newspapers had "misconstrued" information from the MMWD. In a classic non sequitur, Mr. Seeger said he never meant "water rationing" would be needed this summer. Instead he was suggesting that "voluntary water conservation" would be encouraged.

Surely the public deserves a more accurate account of what our water resources actually are. Is the MMWD priming the electorate for a revised standard version of the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct?

Marin EOC Fiasco Needs Investigation

After reading about Lomax and the Marin County EOC the past months in the I-J, with all its double-talk, alibis, cover-ups and mismanagement, I have reached the conclusion that this whole fiasco from the top to bottom has a very strong odor of an open barrel of rotten fish.

First, I blame the Marin County supervisors for not checking on the EOC months back when reports in the I-J stated that the EOC was not getting results with the federal funds being spent with no record of how they were being used.

On March 16, the I-J stated that Lomax was using EOC credit cards for his personal use and had not made a report of $62,000 which his office had received. This money has just faded away and Lomax and his staff claim they do not know where it was used, for what, or by whom.

The I-J editorial of Feb. 23 hit the nail right on the head by stating what a sorry mess this boondoggle has become. Instead of helping the poor, it has ended poverty only for those hired to run it. As a result, due to the lack of supervision and competence . . . the 27-member Marin County Economic Opportunity Council should be discharged for gross negligence.

Board chairman Robert Simmons and treasurer Chester Villalba claimed they did not know what Lomax and staff were doing, until the whole mess blew up in their faces. . .

To top this ridiculous situation, in the I-J of March 29 the EOC committee authorized the continued employment of the 25-member staff, even though the agency has no wgrking capital.

As of now this fiasco should be handed over to the grand jury . . . I hope that this investigation will not be swept under the rug as so many others have, here in Marin County.

Radio Free Europe Provides Issue Clouded By Emotions

WASHINGTON — One of those issues calculated to create the utmost ill will is before Congress, with the path to final decision sown with booby traps. Whether Radio Free Europe is a vestige of the cold war that should be closed out in light of the new Nixon approach to the Soviet Union or whether it is an invaluable window on the West for the peoples of Russia and Eastern Europe fed solely on government propaganda is the question.

It is an issue freighted with all the fears and suspicions of the past; the tragedy of refugees who have seen their homelands turned into prisons by Communist walls. Passionate partisans of RFE scoff at economizing by cutting off the $36 million for the operation. Their villain is chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who supported a bill providing funds for RFE only until the end of the present fiscal year on June 30. After that date its future is uncertain unless the administration acts quickly to push a new status for a further appropriation.

Fulbright points out that the cutoff date was initiated by Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey, a Republican member of the foreign relations committee. While Case is not enthusiastic about RFE, he would not oppose continuing it if some new framework could be estalbished.

HERE, IN MY OPINION, is an example of the cost of failing to grapple with a long-outmoded condition and simply letting drift take over. The Central Intelligence Agency provided the money for RFE for many years in a semi-secret fashion. A facade that public contributions supported both RFE and Radio Liberty was just that, since most of the money came from the CIA.

The time had long passed for the CIA to be in the business of operating a semi-clandestine propaganda station based in Munich. With the facts about CIA's involvement revealed, the moment was at hand to face up and ask Congress for a direct appropriation. The House Foreign Affairs Committee initiated a bill, later passed by the House, setting up a semi-governmental corporation to operate the two stations for a trial period of two years. That proposal died in conference when the conferees accepted the Case compromise for a June 30 cutoff.

What is the value of the broadcasts that RFE beams to the Soviet Union and the satellite states? Here intangibles galore enter in. The passionate partisans insist that the broadcasts keep alive the hope of dissent. The legislative reference branch of the Congress made a favorable report on RFE's operation which Senator Fulbright put in the Congressional Record.

But doubters believe the broadcasts are an irritant that stiffens the resistance of Communist governments to any dissent and make the lives of the dissenters even harsher than they would otherwise be. When Sec. of State William P. Rogers was before his committee, Fulbright repeatedly sought to draw him out on whether RFE and Radio Liberty were an impediment to any understanding with the Soviet Union. Rogers cited the series of agreements currently in the works, including the two-year cultural agreement just signed.

The CIA stopped funding the stations July 1, 1971, and the order from the top was to have no further connection with their operation. The CIA had done a study at the request of the Office of Management and Budget in the White House dealing solely with the cost of liquidating the operation. This would be considerable, since RFE has 2,600 employes, the majority refugees and many advanced in years.

WHY SHOULDN'T Germany share a part of the cost of the stations that broadcast from German soil? Or NATO? Why should the United States pick up the entire bill for RIAS, the radio station in Berlin with excellent programs mostly on the cultural side? These questions are being asked by Fulbright, Case and others as time runs out before the deadline when funds will cease.

There is a compromise which might assuage the partisan passions. That is for Congress to vote funds for an additional six months of operation beyond June 30. During that time a high-level panel to be named by the White House, perhaps jointly with Congress, would evaluate the broadcasts. The panel's report might take the matter out of the shot and shell of politics.

Middle-Sized Cities May Dominate America's Future

Our big cities are too big and our small towns are too small. The hope of the future lies in encouraging healthy growth of medium-sized urban areas of 50,000 to 500,000 population.

That viewpoint is rapidly emerging as a consensus among demographic experts and economists who are studying the nation's increasingly serious problem of population distribution. It was reflected in a recent report of President Nixon's National Commission on Population Growth.

CONSIDER THE PRESENT situation: Nearly 70 per cent of the American people are jammed together in metropolitan areas comprising less than 2 per cent of the nation's total land area. The remaining 30 per cent are scattered among 18,000 smaller cities and towns or in rural areas.

Of the 18,000 incorporated towns in America, about 75 per cent have fewer than 2,500 residents. In this day of fast automobiles and superhighways, a town that small simply is not going to make it economically. Its people will not settle for what's available in its stores when they can drive in an hour or less to a city with more extensive shopping facilities. Nor can such a small town support a decent hospital, adequate schools, or any degree of cultural life.

These very small towns — which, remember, account for three-fourths of all incorporated municipalities in America —are just kidding themselves if they think an industry some day will locate in their midst and turn them into boom towns. Industrial site-finders won't put a major plant in a place so small the employes would miss the shopping, entertainment, medical and educational facilities urban Americans have learned to take for granted.

TO SAY THAT very small towns are dying —and nothing is likely to revive them —is not to say that the only alternative is for Americans to keep crowding into big cities where they breathe polluted air, pay exorbitant prices, fray their nerves in traffic congestion, and generally get in each other's way.

The viable alternative, according to the national population commission, is to encourage the growth of hundreds of communities, much larger in geographical extent than the small towns of the past and much less dense in population than the big cities of the present.

Prof. Karl A. Fox of Iowa State University has coined the term "functional economic areas" to describe these living places of future America.

Each of them, as he sees it, would have a center city of 50,000 to 100,000 population, where most of the stores, hotels, restaurants, theaters, hospitals, etc. would be located. Surrounding this core city, for a radius of 25 to 50 miles (depending on commuting speeds), would be satellite towns and villages, none of them very large, but with an aggregate population of 100,000 to 400,000.

Industrial plants (and neighborhood shopping centers) could be located anywhere in the region. Studies show people today think little of driving 25 to 50 miles from home to work. Thus the whole area would function as a single economic unit, able to provide its people with most of the advantages of a good-sized city, but without the congestion and crime and pollution.

Is There Cost-Benefit Ratio In Ponying Up For Secrecy?

Four North Marin County Water District directors, past and present, have kept a promise at a cost of $42.50 each.

They paid the legal bill, $170, to appeal a superior court ruling that the district must release the names and salaries of employees to the Independent-Journal. (The cost was in addition to the regular retainer paid the water district's attorney.)

When they voted to appeal, the directors said they would pay the costs rather than charge the taxpayers from whom they were trying to conceal the information.

The fifth director, Frank V. Baggaclio, voted against the appeal and therefore didn't have to chip in.

The bill was paid by former directors Arnold Neise and Emil Renati and directors George A. Amaroli and Franklin Gustafson.

IT'S ENCOURAGING to report that public officials have lived up to their promises, but it might set a precedent for other public officials who are willing to pay for secrecy.

Such was the case in a community called Windy Willow when city councilmen shelled out $1,000 each to pay the fine for awarding contracts at a secret meeting.

When a newspaper revealed that the councilmen made $5,000 each on the contracts, the councilmen chipped in $10,000 each and bought the newspaper.

FOR ALL WE KNOW, someone in the League of California Cities might be working on a cost-benefit ratio on secret sessions.

For example it might be worth $15 each to councilmen to have a secret breakfast meeting on sale of City Hall, or school board members might be willing to pay $25 each to conduct a secret conference-telephone session on land purchase.

THE RECENT Novato City Council election with 11 candidates vying for three seats wasn't any secret, but it was mystifying to the extent very few people were willing to get out on a limb and make predictions.

Ruth Moscrop, a Novato astrologer, with the aid of the stars, accurately predicted that attorney Dorothy Young, a Capricorn, would win a council seat.

"The day before, I told her that Jupiter was on top of her sun and she would win," she said.

The champ was Wilfred H. Lieb, a former council candidate.

Working without the aid of the stars, Lieb not only picked all three winners, he picked them in order of finish.

Students Drum Up Interest For Walk

San Marin High School students are drumming up interest in a 10-mile walk Saturday to raise money for parks and open space.

Members of San Marin High's Ecology Action Club are presenting a play entitled "Ecoman Saves the Day" at elementary and junior high schools and explaining the walk, according to Norma Todd, ecology club faculty adviser.

An art contest is being conducted in elementary schools and an ecology flag will be awarded to the school that has the most participants in the way, she said.

Walkers will start from the former Lee Brothers Market, Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, between 10 a.m. and noon with the walk expected to end at 4 p.m. The route goes west from the starting point and continues in a wide loop extending to Sutro Avenue, back to the downtown area and ends at the starting point.

Walkers will have sponsors who agree to pay them a certain sum for each mile they walk and the money will be placed in a special account to be used for park land and open space.

The walk, open to everyone in the community, is sponsored by the San Marin and Novato High School Ecology Action clubs.

Schlesinger Will Be Honored Guest

Former presidential aide Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. will be the guest of honor at a fund-raising cocktail party for presidential candidate Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Ross home of Bennet Skewes-Cox, 47 Laurel Grove Avenue.

Larkspur Council To Install

The Larkspur City Council, tonight will conduct a public hearing on grading permits for the top of Little King Mountain, after canvassing ballots, swearing in new councilmen and electing a new mayor and vice-mayor.

Reorganization will begin at 8 o'clock in city hall, when new council members Robert H. Lee, Joan Sestak and William G. Fleckles are seated.

At 9 o'clock the proceedings will move across the street to St. Patrick's Center, to accomodate the large crowd anticipated for the Little King hearing.

Since their inception last October, the latest plans for development of the Adolph A. Tiscornia estate have drawn strong criticism from the community.

The grading permits requested would level the top of the mountain, removing approximately 360,000 cubic yards of earth which would be used to fill 25 acres of land across Magnolia Avenue, next to Corte Madera Creek.

Mansion To Be Special School Site

The Marin County Zoning Administrator yesterday authorized the use of a 40-year-old mansion near Tiburon as an experimental school for elementary school children.

The Marin Learning Center, a privately funded foundation, plans using the mansion at 4480 Paradise Drive as a school for 25 youngsters 4 to 8 years old.

The students, from various ethnic and cultural backgrounds, would receive highly individualized attention from high school and college students under supervision of trained teachers. The school is expected to open in the fall.

Cairns also approved construction of a 200-foot radio tower and small building at 4570 Redwood Highway, near San Rafael.

The tower, to be operated by radio KTIM (Marin Broadcasting Co.), must still be approved by the federal government.

Two Headlines Are Transposed

Jeffrey O'Connell, author of the no-fault automobile insurance concept, criticized lawyers as "dilatory and extravagant operators." Morton Friedman, a trial lawyer, spoke for a group of attorneys who have launched what they hope will become a statewide campaign against no-fault insurance.

Neutral Ground For ITT Hearings: How About Deserted Stadium?

WASHINGTON — As of this writing, the Senate Republicans are trying to work out a compromise on the ITT hearings, which have become snarled over the question of whether Peter Flanigan and other White House aides can testify before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The problem seems to be a case of "executive privilege." The White House has refused, up until now, to allow any of its staff to testify before a congressional committee on Capitol Hill.

The compromise would be for Flanigan and anyone else in the White House to be questioned on "neutral ground," away from Capitol Hill. This would save face for the executive branch and at the same time placate those senators who refuse to confirm Richard Kleindienst as attorney general as long as the White House will not allow Flanigan to testify.

Jack Anderson has offered to lend his offices on K Street to the committee, but for some reason the Republicans have turned him down.

Someone has suggested questioning Flanigan under the cherry blossoms by the Tidal Basin. But the park department has refused a permit on the grounds that the hot air produced by the hearings could hurt the flowers.

Another idea was to hold the hearings in Lafayette Park across the street from the White House. But the objection to this location is that there are a lot of pigeons flying around the park at this time of year.

ITT has offered to let the committee use one of its Avis garages, but the Democrats feel it would downgrade the hearings if they held them in a car rental agency that is only number two in the business.

The stadium seats 60,000 people and would probably be sold out for a sporting event of this kind.

The witness stand would be at home plate, and the committee could sit around the infield. Questions would be pitched from the mound. Many people think the fans would pay as much as $10 a seat to hear Flanigan's version of how he became involved in the ITT business.

TO PLACATE the Republicans, who might feel the Democrats wanted to turn the hearings into a circus, it has been suggested that all receipts from the event be donated to the Republican National Committee to finance their convention in San Diego.

The promoters of RFK Stadium have added something to assure a big crowd. They would permit the fans to participate in the hearings. If they believed Flanigan answered a question truthfully, they would raise their thumbs up. If they felt he was hedging on a question, they would put their thumbs down.

On the basis of the thumbs, the Senate committee could decide whether Flanigan was telling the truth or not. At the end of the day, if the thumbs-up prevail, Flanigan could return to the White House. If the thumbs-down have it, he would have to fight the two giant pandas that Mao presented to President Nixon.

$2,500 Fine For Passing Bad Checks

Robert Lee Lissi, a 39-year-old salesman was sentenced yesterday to pay a $2,500 fine and spend two years on probation for three counts of passing bad checks in 1966 and 1967.

Following an agreement worked out in return for the guilty plea, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner decided against a jail term for Lissi, who had a previous arrest record.

"Certainly it is not rehabilitative to him to lose his job," the judge said. He then ordered the grey-haired salesman to pay installments of $125 a month from his monthly take home pay estimated at about $800.

Lissi had claimed the $140 in bad checks were the result of a misunderstanding. He told a probation officer he thought a company in which he had invested $30,000 was depositing payroll checks in the bankrupt account, which was closed out before the final bad check was written.

The case was delayed because a warrant issued for Lissi's arrest in May 1967 was not served until November 1971.

Teen Pleads Guilty To Girl's Death

In a negotiated settlement, Robert Brian England of San Anselmo pleaded guilty yesterday to killing a teen-age girl in Sleepy Hollow with his car, whereupon a charge of injuring the girl and her companion was dismissed.

In the agreement worked out between Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, England's attorney William O. Weissich and Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas, England will be sentenced to up to a year in jail and probation.

However, actual sentencing was set for May 30.

England, 19, was arrested March 11 on Butterfield Road near the body of Alene Toneff, daughter of former San Francisco 49er Robert A. Toneff of Sleepy Hollow.

She and a friend, Kimberly Painter, were walking home from a movie when they were hit by a car on the shoulder of the road.

England is now serving a six-month jail term for violation of probation which required that he not drive a car.

Two Ordered To Pay Legal Fees

By LARRY MOWELL

For the first time in Marin County, two men represented by the public defender were ordered yesterday to pay for the traditionally free legal service.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court made it a condition of probation that James M. Petersen, 24, of San Rafael and Marston Stone Uhl, 20, of San Geronimo each pay $300 attorney's fees to Marin County.

Petersen was also ordered to serve 90 days in jail and spend three years on probation for burglary and Uhl was also sentenced to six months in jail with credit for three months already served plus two years of probation. Each was required to undergo therapy for drug use.

Judge Gardiner said he ordered the two men to pay under a state law which went into effect March 4.

"I am required to explore the possibility in every case," he told the Independent-Journal. "That doesn't mean they will be required to pay," he added.

He said a person must show only that he can't obtain a private lawyer to retain the public defender, but the criteria for determining whether a person must subsequently pay for that service is different.

In the cases of Petersen and Uhl he found they were healthy and able to work for the attorney's fee although they were without funds yesterday.

Public defender Harold J. Truett told the judge the fees might have been too high. "My guess is probably on the average plea situation we spend on the average of 10 hours," he said. He estimated the cost at $20 an hour.

Petersen was sentenced after pleading guilty to burglarizing the Corte Madera office of Dr. John F. Erlwein on Jan. 27. In her probation report, Georgia Sells, deputy probation officer, said the "amateurish" attempt had been a "cry for help" at a time when his marriage was breaking up and he was trying to get off speed.

She said he had started on drugs while serving with the Navy in Vietnam.

Uhl pleaded guilty to possessing stolen property March 7 when a burglary charge was dismissed.

Uhl, who was described in court as a heroin addict, was arrested Nov. 24 by San Rafael police with items allegedly taken in burglaries Aug. 30 in Fairfax and Nov. 23 in Mill Valley.

Judge Gardiner said he could serve hs sentence in a drug rehabilitation program at Napa State Hospital.

Man Treated

Jerry Urban, 30, of 127 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, was treated at 10:53 a.m. Saturday at Marin General Hospital for a broken left foot received, according to hospital records, in a car accident. Details of the accident were not available.

College Motor Home Park Wins Approval

Plans for a motor home park for Sonoma State College students was approved last night by the Rohnert Park City Council as a partial answer to the need for low-cost housing.

In doing so, the council overturned the planning commission decision to deny the request of Alexis Tellis of the Octagon Corp. to provide 150 motor home spaces on four acres on East Cotati Avenue near the college.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the council vote was 3-2 with councilmen Jack Buchanan and Warren K. Hopkins dissenting.

College president Thomas H. McGrath also sent a letter of support.

The council heard adjoining property owners including the Episcopal church oppose the plan, saying it would reduce land values.

Tellis said he planned to build a bath house for the students as well as a recreation hall and would set aside an area for gardening.

Nearly 100 students have been living illegally in various types of motor homes in an area known as Benson's Grove across the street from the college entrance. Tellis said the motor home trailer park would provide a place for these students where they could meet sewage and building standards.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

GENERAL PLAN — Asked that residents interested in serving on a citizens advisory committee to update the general plan notify city hall or council members.

BICYCLES — Endorsed the request of Sonoma State College for a bicycle path from Snyder Lane to the campus at an estimated cost of $5,000. Callinan said developers will be contacted for possible donations.

SCHOOLS — Tentatively set a joint meeting with the Cotati School District board for April 25 at the Carriage House restaurant.

ELECTION — Adjourned to today at 8 p.m. when newly elected councilmen will be sworn in and the mayor elected.

Strawberry Parents To Be Liable

Strawberry Recreation District directors last night decided to try to make parents pay for their children's willful destruction of district property.

The board took the action, according to recreation manager David E. Roberts, on advice of its attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann, who said under California law the parents could be held responsible if the district passed a resolution stating that they would be.

Roberts said the recreation center has experienced some broken windows and minor damage from vandals.

He said the board also discussed plans for the Strawberry patch flea market, to be held June 3. Money from the event will go toward building a playground for small children adjacent to the recreation center.

Space for booths at the flea market is available, he said. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

The board adjourned to April 26 to hear a report from its attorney Stephen H. Kaufmann on property acquisition by the district.

Five Plead Guilty To Pot Charge

Five persons arrested last June on marijuana charges changed their pleas to guilty of possessing the weed, whereupon two other charges were dropped in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

In a negotiated plea, Charlene Lorraine Johnson, 20, Mark Harrison Leroy, 20, Tauritz Reginald Woods, 24, and John Michael Whyte were allowed to plead to misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner sentenced each to four weekends in the county jail and ordered Woods to pay a $200 fine. The other three were finch $100 each.

In the case of the fifth defendant, Scott Lea Holcomb, 22, the judge ruled the possession a felony and set sentencing for May 24.

Charges of being in a place where narcotics are used and having drug paraphernalia were dismissed against all five.

They were arrested June 29 after narcotics agents followed a suspect to the home prior to an alleged sale of cocaine in San Rafael.

Heroin Charge Gets Jail Term

Dale Welbourn, 37, of San Francisco was sentenced in Marin Superior Court yesterday to four months in jail for possessing heroin. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed him on five years probation.

The district attorney recommended a suspended state prison sentence and a year in jail, but Judge Gardiner said the man's criminal record included no serious offense.

Welbourn was arrested Sept. 16 near the Marin Heliport with Julie Lee Harmon, 28, and Patrick Elmer Cox, 33, after alleged sales to narcotics agents. Agents said the trio was living in vans near the heliport.

Welbourn was originally charged with sale of heroin, but Miss Harmon was allowed to plead guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge.

Cox failed to make court appearances and a bench warrant has been issued.

Ross School District Has Fund Deficit

The Ross School District Board last night made clear its intention to cover the Ross recreation program's budget deficit of $650 and fund the summer school program with $800.

Formal action on these matters was postponed to later meetings.

According to Supt. Thomas A. Anderson, the board heard a report from Hope Braghetta, chairman of the Parent-Teacher Association summer school committee, on present plans for this year's summer activities. Following the report, the board agreed to finance the program partially.

The board also heard a report from Judith Goode, co-chairman of the Ross recreation program, stating that the program's $650 deficit resulted from unanticipated workmen's compensation and social security expenses.

The board decided, according to Anderson, to cover the remaining deficit after private contributions were sought by the recreation program.

The Board also accepted donations of books, records, art prints and magazine subscriptions to the Ross Library from William Guerin, Gary Anderson, Gloris Ladd and the Stephen Smith family.

Board May Add Charges To Teacher

The Tamalpais Union High School District board will meet Thursday at 7:30 a.m. to consider amending the charges against English teacher Kenneth A. Anderson.

According to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, the board will meet at Lyon's Restaurant, 189 Sir Frances Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae, to discuss adding two charges to the 10 lodged against Anderson. Hawkins declined today, to discuss what the new charges might involve.

The board initially voted May 13, 1971 to fire the 31-year old teacher, and has been attempting to do so ever since. March 16 attorneys from the district questioned Anderson about his possible involvement in three southern Marin bombings.

Four days later, March 20, the board hired attorney William O. Weissich to help Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino in the firing.

Hawkins said he expects all the necessary depositions in the case to be taken during the next two weeks, and the case will then go to trial. He made no estimate when the trial would actually begin.

To Elect Officers

The Marin County Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee, meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the county schools office in Corte Madera, will elect new officers and formulate policy for filling vacancies.

Garage Sale Control Fails In Petaluma

Plans for strict controls on garage sales fell by the wayside last night as the Petaluma City Council heard nearly two hours of complaints from housewives and homeowner groups.

After trying to amend the ordinance to make it more acceptable the council gave up entirely and voted to table it for at least a year. The ordinance would have limited residents to one garage sale per year and required them to buy a $3 permit from the police department to hold it.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said residents complained vigorously that the law would be an infringement on individual rights. Police Chief Larry D. Higgins had requested the ordinance and told the council it would help the department in recovering stolen items sometimes found at garage sales.

Residents said they believed the ordinance would have little effect on curbing crime since most sales are held merely to get rid of unwanted items and to make few dollars.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

GROWTH — Approved a policy setting a growth limit of 500 new living units per year and requiring developers to show that city and school facilities are or will be available for the proposed subdivision.

PARKING — Named councilmen Fred V. Mattei, John W. Cavanagh Jr. and Robert A. Brunner to meet with members of the downtown association to study the formation of a parking improvement district.

LA TERCERA — Heard City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer report that La Tercera Park should be complete within a year and that funds are available.

CHURCH Agreed to tour the Christian church recently acquired by the city and to consider possible uses for the building.

GRANT — Approved an application for a federal grant to help finance the $2 million project to enlarge the sewage plant.

PARKS — Heard Councilman Robert E. Daly report his committee will recommend that entire parks or recreation facilities should not be named for individuals unless required in the conditions of development.

BUDGET — Heard Meyer report the 1972-73 city budget will be presented at the June 12 meeting.

Jail Prisoner Attempts To Kill Himself

An Ohio man facing armed robbery charges in Marin Superior Court tried to kill himself in the Marin County Jail last night, according to sheriff's deputies.

They said Lloyd Leon Parsley, 27, of Dayton slashed his left arm and wrist and hung himself from the bars in his cell, but was cut down by deputies summoned by other inmates.

Parsley was rushed to Marin General Hospital by ambulance at 11:30 p.m. and treated for the wounds. He was also x-rayed to see if he had swallowed the razor blade, according to deputies.

He told deputies he tried to kill himself because he was highstrung and had nothing to live for.

Parsley and Robert Bell Holliday, 22, of Cincinnati were arrested March 28 after they allegedly robbed McDonald's Restaurant in San Rafael at gunpoint and fled with $240.

Police stopped their rented van a short time later as they tried to escape arrest.

A jury trial has been set for May 17 in Marin Superior Court.

San Anselmo Plans Festival Meeting

A meeting of the general committee of the Aug. 26 Country Days Parade and Festival in San Anselmo will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the community room of the Ross Valley Savings and Loan Association.

Merchants, members of the general public and people wanting to march in the parade are urged by the committee to attend.

Employee Is Suspect In Store Theft

An employee of Grand Auto in San Rafael, suspected of taking $1,004 from the store Friday night, yesterday surrendered himself and returned $850 of the money, San Rafael police reported today.

James Leland Prosser, 41, of 97 Clemente Court, Novato, was booked at Marin County Jail, then released on his own recognizance to appear today in Marin Municipal Court on suspicion of burglary and grand theft.

Store Mgr. Russell Henry Lathrop reported to police that someone had taken the money from the store safe sometime Thursday night or early Friday morning.

Police reported that there was no sign of forced entry and whoever took the money knew the combination to the safe which held the money.

New Status Wanted On Four Parcels

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended that four large parcels of land in the Novato area be designated agricultural preserves.

The vote was 3-2 with commissioners Ben F. Edwards and James F. Picchi dissenting. Chairman John C. Schoonover and Beverly Ehreth were absent.

Recommended for agricultural preserves were the Burdell Ranch on San Antonio Creek, 680 acres; the Olompali Ranch, north of Novato, 700 acres; the Magetti Ranch, 1,800 acres, and the West property, north of Hamilton Air Force Base, 1,250 acres.

Commissioners opposed agricultural preserve status for the Nunes Ranch, north and west of San Marin, 400 acres, and several small parcels along Seventh Street extended between San Marin Drive and downtown Novato.

Commissioners also scheduled a work program on revision of the Novato Area General Plan, which calls for an interim revised plan by July 3, according to Mark Williams, planning technician.

After the interim plan is established, an environmental study would be undertaken, he said.

Commissioners adjourned until 8 p.m. Thursday when they will consider applications from 14 businesses for variances for nonconforming signs.

Power Tools Stolen

Power tools valued at $210 were taken between 4:35 p.m. Friday and 8:30 a.m. yesterday from Apt. 408 at 108 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael, LeRoy Russell Erickson, an employee of Damia and Sons Construction Co. of Burlingame, reported yesterday to San Rafael police.

Planners Approve Restaurant Permits

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night approved permits for two restaurants, both of which will feature health foods along with beer and wine on their menus.

In another action, Marius Cordone lost his latest attempt to have seven lots on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard rezoned so that appartments could be built there.

One of the new restaurants, the Zebedee, will be at 42 Redhill Avenue next door to the Lion's Share, and will feature such varied food as carrot burgers and fertile eggs along with more conventional fare such as hamburgers and clams bordelaise.

The planning commission told the owners, Lewis M. Whitney and Susan G. Strandgaard, that they must clean up the outdoor area, where food will be served in pleasant weather, and provide at least 10 off-street parking spaces.

The use permit will be reviewed in six months, according to Jeanne Wright, commission secretary. The commission also told the owners they cannot have live music or entertainment, she said.

The other restaurant use permit, given to Darris Bruhn, was for Everybody's Natural Food Bakery, an establishment already in business at 137 Tunstead Avenue.

Bruhn was given permission to serve foods along with beer and wine to no more than 50 customers at a time. He will be allowed to present entertainment but no amplified music, Mrs. Wright said.

Nearby apartment dwellers had objected to the use permit, she said, because of possible noise. Bruhn was told he must make every effort to keep noise inside the building.

His permit will also be reviewed in six months.

His request was denied unanimously by the commission.

PIONEER CHILD psychologist Dr. Albertine Nash, 80, of Tiburon has also been a college lecturer, newspaper columnist, author and teacher at Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake High Schools from 1929 to 1953. She advises teachers and parents to teach children self-respect. These days she enjoys retirement in her unusual Tiburon home, raising vegetables and flowers.

By PAT BALMES

Children need to have self-respect and be treated with dignity by adults, according to Dr. Albertine Nash, a pioneer school psychologist who at 80 is enjoying retirement at her Tiburon home.

A teacher at Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake high schools from 1929 to 1953, Dr. Nash also has been a practicing child psychologist, a college lecturer, a newspaper columnist and a public speaker.

Dr. Nash lives in her French Norman home of 35 years on two acres at the tip of Tiburon Peninsula where she raises and preserves organic fruits and vegetables.

HER EDUCATION from grade school through her doctoral studies was entirely on scholarship. In 1914 she earned the bachelor of arts degree in education at Hunter College in New York City and then taught elementary school there for three years.

"I even taught 52 fourth-grade boys in 48 seats," she said with a laugh.

She received a master's degree in psychology from Columbia University in New York City and doctorate from Clark University in Worcester, Mass., and became a member of the New York Society of Clinical Psychologists.

Doing research for her dissertation, she wrote some questions to the late Dr. Fredrick Burke, then head of San Francisco State Normal School (San Francisco State College). He responded that questionnaires were stupid; she defended herself. For a year they corresponded briskly and then he wrote.

"As soon as you are finished, I will have a place for you."

He later said that bringing Albertine Nash there was one of the greatest contributions to education on the West Coast, according to former music teacher Barbara McKenzie, her colleague at Tamalpais High School.

Dr. Nash was a young instructor of educational methods of psychology for five years at San Francisco State Normal School.

SHE WAS also a practicing psychologist. She would sit and read a book for two or three weeks in a disturbed child's home so that she could listen to what was said and analyze his problem.

Her column, "Your Child and You," appeared in the San Francisco Examiner and she wrote newspaper features and a book on the exceptional child.

In San Francisco at Children's Hospital Clinic for Disturbed Children she worked with the out-patients.

"The clinic was just me," said Dr. Nash.

The field of psychology was new; a psychologist "did whatever he thought of to do."

SHE TAUGHT a clinical summer session on psychology for speech therapists in 1926 at University of California.

The psychologist was a popular speaker because she gave practical advice to parents "from the heart," according to Barbara McKenzie.

In 1924 Albertine married the late Walter Nash, American Federation of Labor metal trades representative, and they moved to a tiny Sausalito house.

"I could not think what to do. I went to Principal Ernest Weed of Tamalpais High School," she said. She was hired as an English teacher and the school's first psychologist, and was to be available to students with problems.

"I TAUGHT a class of gifted children. No one had done it here nor anyplace else, as far as I know. I also taught inferior children so that the other teachers would not feel that I was just taking the cream."

Another Tamalpais High School teacher, Lillian Roth, recalls Dr. Nash's "amazing photographic memory which enable her to quote verbatim a whole page of a German play or poem."

When Sir Francis Drake High School was started, Dr. Nash was asked to join the faculty. On June 30, 1953, the faculty accepted her resignation "with sincere regret."

Pointing out that her experience is not recent, she refused when asked for advice on rearing teen-agers. However her friendships with young people continue.

"Kids today are the same as they were then. I have been fortunate in my relationship with young people because they trust me. The only generation gap is the time I want them to go home and the time they finally do go," she said with a smile.

Of her 30 years in teaching, she said, "I liked to teach. I would sit and rock; what I wanted to talk about, we talked about. I just told them what I thought they needed to know. Never, in 30 years of teaching, did I ever have any disciplinary problem."

ASKED HOW to keep good discipline, Dr. Nash replied that children are not taught to have self-respect; they are not treated with dignity by their parents and teachers.

When she taught she sat facing the door. If a child came in she would say something nice about his coat; he did not have to be unruly to get her attention.

DR. NASH segregated quick students from slow ones into separate classrooms because "putting an intellectually and socially handicapped child with a group who are above him is discouraging to him and may lead to disciplinary problems." The slow ones were just as happy because they were achieving on their own level, not constantly being reminded of their limitations, she said.

"This idea of inferior children learning from superior children is the bunk. The inferior child will get into mischief or won't care what happens. He is just putting in time. I gave the inferior children a workbook I made up for them; they just scribbled on it. My teaching did not take. But they were working up to their abilities," she said.

A suggestion Dr. Nash had for parents was to encourage hobbies. She mentioned her neighbor's son who kept chickens and bees.

"The rooster crowed and the bees stung, but we all liked to hear the crowing, and I survived the bee stings. In all these years the boy never once caused me a moment's displeasure. He needed a hobby, had one, and had no need to create mischief. Let's not object to a horse or chickens or rabbits. If you take every legitimate interest from a child, he will seek other kinds," she said.

ASKED WHAT she thought of having school the year around, she replied that children go to school enough hours. Their mothers should assert themselves as teachers in summertime. When she was young, she learned housework, studied a musical instrument and read all the classics.

Asked how to cope with a rebellious teen-ager, Dr. Nash said that adolescents are victims of storm and stress. She would tell them, "You can have all the storm and stress you want, just be decent about it."

As an adolescent she too was a victim of storm and stress, interested in religion and social questions.

"All the girls wore corsets; my chum and I did not and we wore low heels. We were freaks. We came out of it; it was just a phase," she said.

"Kids today look like they are going to a fancy dress party. I would say to them, you cannot expect to be taken seriously if you look like that. If you want to be taken seriously, you have to look like you want to be taken seriously. If you want to be treated like a bum, then look like a bum."

Dr. Nash said she had once been asked what good a doctor of philosophy degree ever did her.

"It taught me how to learn," she answered. "It taught me about all the things I did not know. It kept me from being jealous of people who had a doctorate."

'Most Bizarre Society Lives In U.S.,' Dr. Laura Nader Says

By JOAN LISETOR

Using her years of research and study in the field of anthropology, Dr. Laura Nader rips apart the American judicial system much in the same way her brother, Ralph, does those he believes are doing injustices to the consumers in America.

The University of California professor of anthropology, speaking last night at Dominican College, said she has gone around the world to study the bizarre, only to find out that the most bizarre society exists in the United States, where we know so much and use so little of it.

Among the things we know are bad — but do nothing to improve — are prisons, automobiles and the court system.

Doctor Nader lived with the Zapotec Indians in Southern Mexico in order to study their judicial system and compare it to the American legal system. She found that the primitive people were familiar with their laws, which is in direct contrast to Americans.

"In America, the most legalistic country in the world, you find people with Ph.Ds in politics who are ignorant of the law," she said. "Where else is it a greater crime to steal from a phone booth than it is to pollute the earth? And where else do we have a legal system serving so few?"

Too much money goes into the enforcement of the law and not enough into the judiciary budget, she said, citing the fact that $70 million is spent annually to enforce marijuana laws, while the total judiciary budget in the United States is only $128 million.

If we got rid of victimless crimes, like marijuana possession, there would be more efficiency in the courts, and the judicial system could be expanded to meet the growing needs of the population, she said.

"Many articles are written on how the legal system should function, but few are available on how it does," she said.

Because there are "lots of little people who are never heard," she said, she expects the subject of small claims to become a major political issue. She claimed that this area in the courts has been taken over by collection agencies, leaving the area of small claims, like complaint management, in total inefficiency.

Incompetencies in the courts, cited by Doctor Nader, are ethnic language barriers and plea bargainings (allowing guilty pleas to lesser offenses.)

"Indians base the seriousness of the crime on the number of people affected by it. Murder only affects one person, but if you pollute the drinking water that affects the entire village," she explained.

Most Dining Room Space Is Wasted

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

The dining-room table that sits out there in the middle of all that space bugs me. Why?. Because space is precious; it's to be used, not wasted. And most dining rooms fritter away space we might better develop for some other family purpose.

Of course, if a family gathers 'round the table three times a day, the space is being properly used. But I'd say 90 per cent of the dining rooms in the United States and Canada are one-meal-a-day types. So they get the veto.

Once you decide to double-up in the dining room by adding equipment for another use, you'll go through an awkward stage — what to do with the table?

A classic solution is the island position where one end of the table is shoved against one wall. Another idea is illustrated today. It's the built-in banquette. It uses much less space than the island idea and is a good possibility for the young family that hasn't yet invested in hordes of chairs.

Using one corner of a room, this banquette solution would work nicely in a space where living room and dining room were actually one space.

It's easier to integrate the decorating scheme by using the same wall covering or wall color, and fabrics used for upholstery can be harmonious. Two or four pull-up chairs could be on permanent duty in the sitting area of the room, then quickly readjusted for the meal.

Carpeting can be the same throughout the area and table covers could be created out of fabrics usually designed for living room use rather than traditional tablecloths.

The fun of such an arrangement comes in its use of fabrics. Several pairs of slipcovers could be made. A slipcover for all seasons idea. Chair cushions and table covers should get the same switch-around. And if you start with one of the stain-repellent finishes on fabrics, or some permanent press types, your workload will not increase.

The seasons, or your reasons for giving a party, can suggest the color switch. Someone leaving on a trip to the Orient? Choose the colors of China: mauves, grays and wine reds. Christmas a big day? Mix the jewel tones of Christmas tree balls — bright blue, red, green, gold and silver. Find a cut-cotton plush or a high-luster Kodel polyester fabric. Add lots of crystal and fat candles in the same jewel colors. Add some fringe to the tablecover and corner bows to the chairseat covers. This little dining corner becomes an experiment in decorating, one you seldom explore when you have a traditional dining room.

Paris Designers Reveal Winter Ready-To-Wear

PARIS (UPI) —Designer Emanuel Ungaro resurrected the daytime midi skirt in his winter ready-to-wear fashion collection Saturday.

After only one season of midi-maxi in the winter 1970 shows, Paris designers staged the most inglorious retreat in history and gave them up largely under pressure from American manufacturers.

So far the winter ready-to-wear expositions in Paris have clung to conservative mid-knee hemlines under the ancient Paris philosophy that women must wear only one hemline.

But Ungaro, 38, an individualist who always has gone his own designing way, followed the theory that in the current social revolution women do not have to follow any "laws" when it comes to wearing clothes.

THE ONLY hemline Ungaro didn't use was the midi, which another fashion rebel, Pierre Cardin, displayed in his collection Friday.

Midi dresses and midi coats came in those geometric and floral prints that are Ungaro's trademark.

Red suspenders and slick vinyl jackets printed like gingham were among the new touches at the ready-to-wear winter fashion show of Andre Courreges yesterday.

The Courreges trademarks were sprinkled throughout the collection —his initials embroidered on T-shirts, snap buttons, wide decorative zippers in contrasting colors, little handbags that snap onto narrow belts, vinyl brief jackets and edgings.

Courreges even paraded a few of his classic white structured above-knee shift dresses and tailored white trouser suits that started the revolution 10 years ago for short skirts and trousers.

COATS AND dresses were way above the knee.

Wraparound or side-pleated skirts that were nearly minis went with battle jackets or coats in vinyl, short fake fur, corduroy, knitted wool or flannel.

Diamond Scratchy

Diamond is the hardest substance known, according to the American Gem Society. Using a scratch test to measure relative hardness, the diamond is on top because it scratches sapphire, which is next. Topaz is the third hardest substance known.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Help's As Near As Phone Or Public Mental Health Agency

DEAR RAP:

I am a 17-year-old boy who is mature and just like other guys except for one thing: I am homosexual. I like girls as friends. I go on dates with them and we get along great, so maybe I'm even bi-sexual.

I hate myself for these queer feelings. I know I'm sick in the head and sometimes I think suicide is the only way out. If my friends ever knew or even suspected, I'd kill myself for sure.

Is there any way I can get help without embarrassment? — SCARED

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I am almost 15, and just know I'm going to be a lesbian. I like girls better than boys, and even had a crush on one of my woman teachers, I can't stand the way I feel. So I avoid girls now, too, because I'm scared they'll find out I'm — NOT NORMAL

DEAR ALL of you who worry about homosexual tendencies or inclinations (and so many teenagers do!):

Help is as near as your telephone. Most cities these days have "crisis lines," "youth life lines," "teen hot lines" where young people may call in anonymously and talk out their problems. If more expert or in-depth counseling is indicated, they are referred to professionals.

Your County Mental Health Association will also refer you to close-in help. The number is listed in the phone book, and if you can't find it, ask your operator.

Often what teenagers believe to be homosexual feelings are only the natural attractions and curiosities of adolescence. Older teens sometimes fear they are "doomed for life" because of one or two unhappy expereinces. Needed here is reassurance, and a therapist can provide it in a single session.

But when there is a deep-rooted problem, then psychiatry is the answer for, before a patient can help himself, he must stop hating himself.

"Scared" asked, "Is there any way I can get help without embarrassment?" No one save your parents need know you are visiting a Mental Health Clinic. Naturally you'd prefer that your parents don't know either, but usually a psychiatrist works with the whole family, not just the underage patient. And adult approval is necessary before you receive treatment, in most states.

Summing it up: if you're worried about your "normalcy" don't be afraid to express your fears. You'd be surprised how many others worry too — and how often their fears are unfounded. — HELEN

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

I am 15, and Saturday I got drunk for the first and last time. But maybe that's one time too many. It was at a party, and this guy encouraged me on a liquor spree. After a while I encouraged him, I guess, too. Anyway I wasn't in the best condition for resisting and I don't really know what I did, but I know I made a big fool of myself.

Some kids brought me home and dumped me on the front lawn,&then rang the doorbell and drove off. So my mother found me almost passed out. Naturally I'm grounded and in big trouble and so awfully ashamed.

The kids know about it, but won't tell me what I did. The guy probably doesn't remember either, exactly. I haven't seen him since, but when I do, should I apologize or expect him to? Am I more to blame than he is? — E.A.

DEAR E.:

I'd expect an apology from HIM: He was the one who "encouraged" you — and sometimes it's pretty hard to say "No." If he doesn't tell you he's sorry, then pretend he doesn't exist. — SUE

DEAR E.:

You were both to blame, and so were the kids who dumped you on the front lawn and ran! Apologies? Fine, but the best solution is: CHANGE CROWDS! — HELEN

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Nylon Demise

The discovery of nylon 33 years ago marked the demise of silk as the major fiber for hosiery. Today, nylon is virtually the only fiber used for stockings and pantyhose.

Washing Hose

To launder hosiery safely, be sure to sort according to color and wash in a basin of warm water and mild suds. Rinse in warm water. Dry over a smooth rack, roll loosely, and keep in a compartmental drawer-organizer, stocking case or individual plastic sandwich bags.

More Stretch

Texturizing, which is a special process that imparts either a twist or a curl to yarn, gives nylon additional stretch and bulk. During the 1960's stretch yarns began to replace non-stretch yarns in hosiery.

Layered sweaters typify today's soft, glamourous look.

Symphony To Perform On Saturday

The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra will present the third concert in its Marin series at 8:15 p.m. Saturday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Guest conductor will be Dean Dixon, who will be making his debut with the orchestra in the regular series at the Opera House this week.

Featured in the Marin concert will be a new work, "Vox Clamantis," by Czech composer Petri Eben. It will receive its premiere performance on the West Coast in the Opera House series.

Other numbers to be performed are the Brahms Tragic Overture in D Minor, Opus 81, and Bruckner's Symphony No. 3 in D Major.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Juilliard School of Music and a master's degree from Columbia University Teachers' College. In 1941 he led the National Broadcasting Co. Summer Symphony Orchestra and two months later was the first black to conduct the New York Philharmonic.

Good seats are available for the Marin concert. Ticket information may be obtained from the Veterans Memorial box office at the Civic Center.

Gates Close At Old Zoo

MADRID (UPI)—The world's second oldest zoo closed its gates today, its animals having left it for new and happier grounds on the outskirts of town.

A convoy of trucks—a sort of Noah's Arc on wheels—has ferried a total of 458 animals from the downtown Retiro Park to a new 50-acre zoo at suburban Casa Del Campo in the past days.

The last consignment left today. It consisted of the zoo's 12 biggest animals, including a giraffe whose 15-foot high crate was lifted onto a truck by crane.

Novato Library Hikes Circulation 30 Pct.

The Novato Branch Library has boosted its book circulation about 30 per cent in its first year in its new building, 1720 Novato Boulevard, according to Martha Van Etten, branch librarian.

When the library moved from its former home, a store in the Tresch Triangle, circulation was 165,000 and now it is 214,000, she reported.

The first anniversary of the new branch library was Saturday.

Since the library has been open the meeting room has been used nearly every night of the week, Mrs. Van Etten reported. "About 14 different organizations use the room on a regular montly basis," she said.

The Friends of the Library have been helping through book sales and many organizations and individuals have given gifts, but the library "needs more books, more musical records, more periodicals and foreign language records," she said.

Pelican Players Offering Musical

A satirical musical, "76 Tennis Courts," featuring dancers Sherie Cross, Vivian Gebo and Julie Friedman, will be presented by the Pelican Players Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

All performances begin at 8:30 p.m., at the Tiburon Peninsula Club.

Directed by Paul Gebo and written by Alan Cundall, the show takes a look at life in Marin circa 1905. Roberta Brunstetter and Ron Rouda are the leading performers.

Chinese Pandas To Be Welcomed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first lady will officially welcome the Chinese pandas—Hsing Hsing and Ling Ling—to the National Zoo Thursday.

After a brief ceremony the mammals, gifts of Premier Chou En-lai, will be presented to the American people.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Warning Buzzer Should Sound When A Finesse Won't Work

Sometimes I think that the electronic wizards of this country are not really trying. They should be able to devise a buzzer that would go off like crazy to warn you that a finesse isn't going to work. It might help in the kind of hand shown today. Of course, if you're too frugal to buy the buzzer you can work out a way to make the slam anyway.

WIN IN DUMMY

West leads a club, and you win in dummy. You draw three rounds of trumps and then wonder what to discard on dummy's fourth club.

Should you discard the ten of hearts and rely on one red queen or the other to bring home the bacon? Or should you discard the queen of diamonds and try two heart finesses?

ACADEMIC QUESTIONS

As the cards lie, these are academic questions. All finesses fail. Nevertheless the contract can be made.

Don't be in a hurry to discard anything at all. Just cash a second and third club and then finesse a heart. It doesn't really matter whether you finesse the ten or the queen.

END-PLAYED

West is end-played. He can win the heart trick but must return a heart or a diamond. Either suit gives you a free finesse. You then lead a trump to dummy and discard your only remaining loser on dummy's last club.

You could make the contract another way if you peeked. After drawing trumps, run the clubs to discard the ten of hearts: and then lead the ace or queen of diamonds. West would have to win and return a heart, giving you a free finesse. This plan would not work if East had the king of diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

You are not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, and partner opens with three diamonds. The next player doubles.

You hold:
♥ - 9 7 5 2
♦ - 10 9 8 5 2
♣ - 9 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid five diamonds. If you are lucky, your jump may confuse the opponents into stopping at five of some suit. If so, don't bid any more. You will merely push them into a slam that they will make. If they double five diamonds, the penalty should be much smaller than the value of a slam.

Girl Arrested In Stab Case

She was taken to Marin County Juvenile hall. Her father, Charlei Jones, of 9 Cole Drive, Marin City, was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Matzo Ball Soup Quality Untouched

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson says reports that the quality of some matzo ball soup has been reduced to avoid administration profit guidelines are untrue.

Grayson said Sunday that he bought 30 cans of matzo ball soup to check for himself. "And the matzo ball soup has four matzo balls in it. It has not gone down to three," he said.

FAMILY SCENE — Diane and her convict husband William (in background) share a moment together while their five children gather around a television set in one of the big old houses used for San Quentin's family visiting program. The couple and their youngsters are enjoying 48 hours in which William has exchanged his cell for a homey setting in which he is reunited with his family.

FAMILY VISITING PROGRAM

A Togetherness Fills The Air

By MARY LEYDECKER

There was a honeymoon feeling in the air yesterday afternoon at San Quentin.

Several couples, who never left each other's touch, seemed unable to stop smiling. All the women wore corsages and their nicest clothes, and the men, although dressed in identical denim outfits, failed to fit the description that the word "convict" conjures up.

The occasion was the first anniversary of San Quentin's "family visiting" project — a program which is drawing raves both from inmates and prison officials.

The mechanics of the program (San Quentin officials wince when the words "conjugal visits" are used, saying it involves much more) revolve around two big old houses inside prison gates. They have been converted into apartments — one where whole families can gather and the other into pleasant bedrooms with a communal living room.

However, it's the people who fill the houses five days a week who make them come to life.

Yesterday's group included Steve, a cleancut looking young man who has a parole date in November, and his wife Lynn, who had come from Sacramento, taking time off from her job with the state.

She has been several times before — "the first time it was like we were strangers," Steve said. They had visited before that in prison visiting rooms, but it had been two years since they had touched each other.

The time spent together will make it easier to adjust again to married life when he is released, Steve said.

Another convict, Fred, seated nearby on the porch of the big house, with his arm also around his wife, agreed.

"You can't realize how quickly you adjust to being in here," he said, gesturing at the prison with its huge blocks of cells. "This (the family visits) helps prepare you for freedom," he added.

Fred, however, said ome men "feel visitors make their time harder to do," because leaving them after a few hours is so hard.

Also, he said, there are many men who have no families to come to visit. "I consider myself real lucky to have people standing behind me," he said. His parents once came from Los Angeles along with his wife for a 48-hour visit, he added.

"It's like when you check into a hotel," said another man, Ben, describing the facilities in the houses.

One contains four bedrooms — not elegantly but very comfortably furnished and each featuring a neatly made double bed.

There are no cooking facilities in this house, but visitors bring all the food necessary for the 19-hour visits allowed in this house.

"Kentucky fried chicken is the big item," said Lt. Robert West, the officer in charge of the visiting program. He also added that wives usually bring unaccustomed treats for their men — artichoke hearts, avocadoes and shrimp. One man, after his first family visit, said he "nearly died" of indigestion because he was unused to such rich fare, the lieutenant laughed.

Next door is another big house, converted into two complete flats with kitchens and extra bedrooms for children or other relatives.

Although the convicts want to spend every minute with their loved ones, they often get together with other families for shared fun, they said.

"We played Yahtzee (a dice game) with another couple one afternoon and we've barbecued with other families several times, Fred said.

The barbecuing, done like all the other cooking with food brought by the families, takes place in a spacious, terraced flower-filled garden behind one of the houses.

Yesterday, Gigi, who is Ben's wife, proudly brought out the two thick steaks she had brought for their supper.

Two families yesterday accounted for what seemed to be at least a dozen children as they played in the garden and tossed a ball in front of the big house. Diane, mother of five of the youngsters, said she had had no problem keeping the children within the bounds set by prison officials.

"They know they can't cross the street but here's plenty of room for them to play and they can watch television inside," she said.

"We've visited lots of times," Andrw, age 9, volunteered.

There have been absolutely no problems with the program, which is used by about 70 men a month, Lieutenant West said. No contraband has been brought in and no one has tried to walk away, he said.

One of the convicts pointed out it would be relatively easy to try to make a getaway from the hill behind the two houses at nighttime but he added, "Everyone knows that if anyone messes up, that's it."

Convicts who are considered to be lesser security risks and who have good behavior records may apply for the visiting program, West said. They can have repeat visits as space allows.

One of the first men who enjoyed a family visit told the lieutenant he "had forgotten what it was like to hold a loved one," when he was reunited with an 11-year-old daughter he had not seen since she was 6 months old.

Although the lieutenant praised the convicts who have made the program work, several yesterday also said they wanted to put in a good word for him. "He leaves us strictly alone —he's great," one said.

The men must report to the gate three times a day for head count but otherwise they are on their own.

Sonoma State Students Protest N. Viet Bombs

A dozen Sonoma State College students offered the college its first demonstration in more than a year yesterday in protest of the intensified bombings of North Vietnam and the presence of Marines on campus.

A Marine Corps recruiting table outside Stevenson Hall apparently spärked the demonstration as the handful of students carried signs and manned a table opposite the Marines to gather signatures for a statewide petition to place a peace initiative on the November ballot.

Protesters taunted the Marine recruiters, but drew no response. A Viet Cong flag led the procession as other students carried signs with anti-war slogans and one aimed directly at the Marines, saying, "Kill Women and Children — Join the Marines."

Recruiters from all branches of the military have visited the campus in recent years without incident. Campus officials said they believed the demonstration was caused by the bad timing of the Marines visit with the stepped-up air war.

Some students began circulating a petition to keep military recruiters off campus, but were reportedly getting mixed reactions from fellow classmates. A group of students argued with the demonstraters, saying the Marines also have the right of free expression.

Police Chief Hearing May Be Near End In Fairfax

The long-running hearing in Fairfax to determine whether outsted Police Chief James R. Orr will get his job back appeared last night to have an end in sight with only two more sessions scheduled.

Although last night's session was the 37th in a series which began last November, it drew a faithful audience of about 50 persons, many of whom knit or crochet during the proceedings.

The hearing sessions are quasi-judicial, with the city's board or review acting both as judge and jury, but the atmosphere is more that of a town meeting. There is always coffee and sometimes cookies — said to be supplied by the chief's wife.

Orr himself, tired, haggard and much thinner than when the hearings started, again last night recounted the differences between him and City Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

He spoke in a quiet voice as he said, "My opinion hasn't changed. He (Crowe) doesn't know a thing about police work —he's an administrator. I worked with what I had," the ousted chief said in reference to a department that Crowe claimed as badly mismanaged.

In an answer to a question by board member William T. Benson, Orr agreed to take a lie detector test, apparently in an effort to determine whether he or Crowe has told the truth in differing testimony.

The young woman, Marsha Kittelman, whom Orr is accused of having favored in her job as police clerk and of having shared a pacation with her, took the stand again last night, too.

Her hair piled regally atop her head, Mrs. Kittleman, whose husband sat in the front row, indignantly denied that she and the ousted chief had returned together from a vacation in the summer of 1971.

"I most certainly did not," she said firmly. Instead, she said, Orr and his daughter along with her husband came back from Lake Berryessa where the two families had gone three days earlier than she did.

She also told in a clear voice how Crowe had called her into his office last September, shortly after the vacation, and accused her of having forged time records. Because of his belief, she said, she was docked for seven days and five hours of pay.

Mrs. Kittelman said she did not forge the documents, which she said were merely records kept for the city council's benefit and not for pay purposes, but that she had filled in blank spaces going back about six months earlier in April.

Before that time, she said, she often had not filled in her hours because she always worked the same shift. In a department where apparently overtime was not paid, Mrs. Kittelman said payroll personnel only wanted to know if officers were on vacation or sick and Chief Orr made such reports.

The matter of the alleged forgery, Mrs. Kittelman said, had been the subject of a visit to her house last September by Councilman Francis J. O'Connell, who she said wanted to hear her side of the story.

She has never had the matter resolved, Mrs. Kittelman said, and has never received the pay which Crowe said was docked because she had taken too much vacation time in 1970.

What is supposed to be the next-to-last hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday. Monday has been tentatively set for final arguments by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers, a courtly man often compared to the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, and Leonard Shaw, a young former county prosecutor.

It is generally believed by those who have followed the hearings that the five-man board is split two-two with Chairman Freeman Blake, a neatly bearded high school teacher, due to cast the deciding vote.

Death Row Inmate Says State Errs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Quentin convict told California's Supreme Court yesterday that it erred when it replied to his appeal by abolishing the death penalty in this state.

Robert Page Anderson, a convicted murderer, declared in a petition that as a result of that error he should either go free or be resentenced to one to 15 years for manslaughter.

His petition contends that in its Seb. 18 decision the court not only abolished the death penalty but also wiped out all statutes setting other penalties for murder.

"This leaves the State of California completely without any statutes to govern and control punishment or penalty for the crime of murder," he held.

Anderson, who was convicted in 1965 in San Diego County, said the only penalty remaining is for manslaughter.

The convict cited the court's ruling: "Insofar as Penal Code Sections 190 and 190.1 purport to authorize the imposition of the death penalty, they are, accordingly, unconstitutional."

Federal Grants To Be Discussed

Applications for federal grants to expand its ferry and bus systems will be the subject of a public hearing by the Golden Gate Bridge District at 8 p.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

The applications are pending in the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, which asked for the public hearing to get public views on the proposed expansion.

One application is for a $12.3 million capital grant to pay for two-thirds of the $19 million ferry system. The other is for $1,085,212 to pay for two-thirds of the cost of 34 additional new buses, which would bring the fleet to 168 new buses.

The ferry grant would finance a system of three new 165-foot vessels serving Larkspur and Sausalito. The government has approved specifications for the vessels, but this approval did not extend to the grant itself.

Tiburon Woman Hurt In Accident

Alma Hilton Knubel, 63, of 4095 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes and chest pain received in an automobile accident Saturday, according to hospital reports.

According to San Rafael police, her car was eastbound on Second Street, San Rafael, when it ran a red light at 5:45 p.m. Saturday and hit a car northbound on C Street, driven by Larry Raymond Reynolds, 19, of 1122 B Street.

Two Hamilton Patrol Dogs Win

Two patrol dogs from Hamilton Air Force Base and their handlers won top honors recently in the Contra Costa County K-9 competition.

Sgt. Donald McNair and his dog "King," placed first and airman 1/c William Duncan and his dog also named King, placed second, according to the base information office. The handlers are from the 4661st Security Police Squadron.

They were in competition with working police dogs from police departments throughout Northern California. There were 32 dogs in competition.

Equal Rights To Assembly Floor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Caught in a crossfire between women liberationists and women laborites, an all-male Assembly committee has breathed new life into California's chances of ratifying the proposed U.S. equal rights amendment.

After a marathon hearing before an overflow crowd of more than 1,000 persons, the Judiciary Committee late Monday night endorsed the ratification on an 8-2 vote and ushered it to the Assembly floor.

Democratic presidential hopefuls Shirley Chisholm, Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern and Edmund Muskie each had thrown their weight behind swift approval of the amendment in separate messages to the committeemen.

Women's rights advocates told the committee that approval of the proposed 27th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution by the nation's most populated state was crucial in freeing "a supressed majority."

But women labor leaders said without protections the amendment would result in "equal exploitation" of both men and women by unscrupulous employers because current working protections for women would be voided.

"Equal rights should not mean loss of rights for women but an extension of them to all workers," said Ann Draper, representative of the Amalgamatee Clothing Workers.

She said it would be "scandalous and shameful" if the legislature ratified the amendment without preserving "every labor standard we sweated blood to get."

Luella Hanbury, another labor spokeswoman, berated the women's liberation movement, calling it a "white, upper and middle class crusade." She said if the amendment was not tied to guaranteed working conditions for all laborers it would mean a return of sweat shops.

Each labor representative said she or he wanted the proposed amendment to be ratified. But each said the amendment would be opposed vigorously by labor unless minimum working conditions now provided for women were extended to all workers.

Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, D-Sacramento, tried to meld the two women's forces into one by proposing an amendment to the ratification resolution.

His change would have hinged approval of the equal rights amendment on two bills currently before the Senate that would extend the laws on working conditions to men and set a minimum wage for all workers at $1.65 an hour.

But Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, author of the original resolution, said Z'berg was "loving the bill to death" and that such a move would be "attaching an impossible albatros around the neck of this (equal rights) amendment."

Coastline Protection Policy Clears Hurdle

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The conservation lobby's coastline protection bill today emerged virtually unscathed from a two-hour assault by builders, county supervisors and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The legislation, supported by more than 100 conservation groups including the Sierra Club, cleared a subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee on a 7-1 vote and went to the full committee.

Approval by Ways and Means and the Assembly itself is expected, although no one is giving odds on Senate approval of a strong bill to preserve the picturesque coast from threatened over-development.

On a series of rollcall votes Monday, the subcommittee rejected amendments proposed by opponents. Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, the bill's author, protested the changes would damage or "gut" the legislation.

A provision empowering six regional commissions to approve or deny applications for construction along the coastline drew heavy fire from PG and E and the builders.

Paul McCarron, representing the California Builders Council, said the legislation would establish a "de facto moratorium" on building along the coast which threatened to extend inland across California and deny citizens a site on which to build a home.

He warned of a tumbling "domino effect" but John Zierold, representing the Sierra Club, replied, "We are not blindly opposed to progress. We are opposed to blind progress. On a narrow strip of the coastline, we are seeing blind progress."

Malcolm MacKillop of PG & E cited the state's increasing demand for pollution-free electricity and proposed amendments to exempt from regional commission control currently proposed nuclear power plants and distribution systems.

Badham, legislative sponsor of the PG&E amendments, asserted "We've got a power crisis in California" and warned if power utilities were delayed in their planning, blackouts and brownouts could occur that would take up to 10 years to correct.

The amendments were defeated 2-7.

Also turned down were amendments suggested by the County Supervisors Association of California to give locally elected officials the majority vote on the regional commissions.

Paper Reports Lobbyists Fighting Ecological Bills

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—With coastal protection legislation as its target, a group of lobbyists from business, labor and government reportedly have been meeting for more than a year to plan ways for blocking environmental measures.

The Sacramento Bee reported Monday that at least 34 lobbyists who are members of an organization called "Committee to Kill Ecology Legislation" have been meeting "secretly" in the Senator Hotel.

The newspaper said Jack Crose, a top aide to Jess Unruh when he was Assembly speaker, was described as the spokesman for the group.

Crose, now a lobbyist for a group of Santa Monica landowners, said in the Bee article that the committee "is only an informational meeting operation.

"We get together and we review bills," Crose said. "There is no solid position taken by the group on any bill."

But the Bee reported one lobbyist who was asked to join the group as saying, "We were asked if we wanted to kick in some money to kill some bills."

Crose denied that any money was solicited.

He said the organization is considering 10 or 12 issues this year but that its attention was focused on coastal protection legislation by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, Beverly Hills, and Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville.

Dead Body Is Identified

The body of a man found dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound on April 10 on Panoramic Highway has been identified through fingerprints as that of Gary Ray Allen, 24.

Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig said that Allen's family, including his father, Melvin Allen, lives in Glenwood, Ill. The father told Craig the last address he had had for his son was in Long Beach and he had no idea what his son was doing in Marin.

Allen, who had been seen earlier in the day hitchhiking in Mill Valley, had a note in his pocket telling of his intention to take his life.

A woman in Long Beach who was mentioned in the note was contacted, Craig said, and a check with Long Beach police turned up Allen's fingerprints.

Admission Day Bill Passes Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill changing Admission Day from Sept. 9 to the second Monday in September has narrowly passed the Assembly.

The measure by Assemblyman Peter R. Chacon, D-San Diego, was sent to the Senate Monday on a 54-14 vote, the bare minimum required. It contains an "urgency clause" that would permit it to take effect immediately after being signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Persons Working With Birds Risk Possible Parrot Fever

Psittacosis (parrot fever) is a disease of birds that may be passed along to man. Ornithosis is a more accurate name for the condition, because many nonpsittacine birds, such as pigeons and chickens, also harbor and transmit the disease. The causative viruses are found in the excreta of birds. On drying, the airborne dust is inhaled by humans and animals. One victim who ate robins became very ill.

PERSONS working with birds are at risk. One of the most serious epidemics occurred in Zulpich, Germany. Two apparently healthy parakeets infected everyone (26 people) who entered or passed the room where these birds were held. Ornithosis in man usually involves the lungs and produces a pneumonia similar to that encountered in many viral infections.

Seven to 15 days after exposure to an infected bird, the victim may develop chills and a fever ranging from 101 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit. Severe headache, weakness, loss of appetite, and muscle pains are the early manifestations. Cough follows within a few days and blood-streaked sputum may be brought up. Chest X-rays demonstrate a patchy pneumonitis. A specific diagnosis of ornithosis is based on a positive sputum or antibody blood test. The tetracyclines are the best remedies.

DURING the past decade, Dr. George C. Sutton and his colleagues at Northwestern University Medical School and Cook County Hospital (Chicago) have seen an increasing number of people with heart trouble caused by a related infection (chlamydia). Forty of 319 persons with a rare cardiac disorder had positive laboratory tests for this infection. Of these, 17 had been in contact with parakeets, canaries, pheasants, or pigeons; three with infected dogs, and one had kissed a person hospitalized with ornithosis. Our robin eater was also in this group.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

VASCULAR ACCIDENTS

Mrs. G. writes: My husband never overate, his weight was normal, he never lost his temper, and though he worked hard as a farmer, he got plenty of sleep. Yet he died at 61 of a cerebral hemorrhage. What caused this stroke?

REPLY

A weakened blood vessel in the brain. This may have been an inherent weakness or it could have been caused by arteriosclerosis. This weakness of the artery may have existed for many decades and he might have died 10 years earlier if he had not taken care of himself. Heredity plays a role and so does chance in how and when we die.

MENTAL STATUS

M. T. writes: How can a person determine if he is mentally competent?

REPLY

A short discussion with your physician, psychiatrist or psychologist will solve this problem. Much depends upon the person's appearance and the gist of the conversation. Psychological tests also are helpful.

KNEE REFLEXES

L. Y. writes: My knees do not jerk when they are tapped with a hammer. What is the reason for the absence of this reflex?

REPLY

Sluggish or absent knee jerk reflexes do no harm so long as both knees behave in this way.

Road Closing For Facility Is Endorsed

The San Geronimo Valley Association last night endorsed closing a portion of Castro Road off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Forest Knolls to provide for a new combination post office and library.

Association vice president Betty Gardner said landowner Fred Grange is planning the improvements.

The association made known its position in a letter to the board of supervisors.

In another letter to the board, the association called new county septic tank regulations inconsistent because of officials' failure to crack down on persons living in vehicles in scattered parts of the San Geronimo Valley, Mrs. Gardner said.

Flag Pledge Is Resumed

EXETER, N.H. (UPI) —The pledge of allegiance to the flag was resumed at Exeter High School today for the first time in a week.

Some students refused to salute because they believed there was no equality in America, Principal Burton G. MacArthur said. So MacArthur suspended the ceremony last Monday.

He said the teachers would rather drop the exercise than tolerate disrespect. "It's a frustrating experience for the teachers to see a student standing and not saluting and not be able to do anything about it," he said.

But the school board overruled him and ordered the ceremony resumed while a special committee discussed the problem.

City Cleanup Campaign To Start

Novato will hold its annual spring cleanup campaign, Trash Bash 4, with the collection point at Rowland and Redwood boulevards Saturday and on April 29.

Residents can bring their trash to the collection site from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Rodney B. Brown, city administrative assistant.

Trash must be bagged, boxed or bundled, he said. Dirt, gravel, concrete or car parts won't be accepted.

Persons arriving with loads containing loose material or items too large to fit into collection trucks will be given slips to deposit the loads at the Redwood Sanitary Landfill Inc. dump, north of Novato, Brown said.

The city will pay $1.50 of the cost of the loads taken to the dump, Brown said. The dump charge varies according to the size of the load.

A recycling depot will be manned at the Rowland Boulevard collection site by members of Beleaguered Earth and the San Marin High School Ecology Action Club. Bottles, cans and newspapers will be accepted.

Developer's Wife Seeks Dissolution

The wife of Kurt Heath, millionaire Tiburon developer, filed suit yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to end their marriage of 20 years.

Citing irreconcilable differences, Phyllis J. Heath asked the court to end the marriage and give her custody of the couple's two daughters, Claudia, 18, and Michele, 16.

She said her husband makes $7,500 a month on holdings worth approximately $2 million and asked $3,600 a month support for herself and the children.

Heath, who bought controlling interest in 212 acres of Tiburon hills in 1958 has built 36 apartments known as El Marinero and still controls the subdivision of that name. Some of the land, which offers a spectacular view of San Francisco and bay waters, has been sold for luxury home sites.

Heath, according to his wife's petition, also owns two office buildings on Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, heads the Heath Land Co. and owns lots throughout the United States.

The couple married in 1952 in Carmel, but separated Jan. 18. The Heaths live at 99 Sugarloaf Drive.

Community Dinner Celebrates Opening

The Kairos Community Development Council Inc. will celebrate its opening with a community dinner Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Cotati Veterans Memorial Building.

The council organized by Sonoma State College students acts as a switchboard and clearinghouse for persons with problems. The dinner will include ham, potato salad, green beans, French bread and dessert for 35 cents. Entertainment also is planned.

Sharp Fire-Call Dip, 1971 Study Reveals

The Marin County Fire Department responded to 494 fire calls and battled 219 grass, brush or forest fires during 1971, according to County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli's annual report.

Both figures reflect a sharp decrease from 1970 totals. In that year, the county fire department answered 634 calls and fought 357 grass, brush or forest fires.

Pedroli was unable to explain the drop in fire calls. "Our children-caused fires dropped from 59 to 22," he said. "I" guess they found something better to do than set fires. Otherwise, I suppose it was just one of those years that we didn't get many calls."

A total of 211 acres burned in 1971, compared to 759 in 1970 and 613 in 1969.

The two largest grass fires — on July 8 and August 16 — took place on the hillside area of Terra Linda, within the City of San Rafael. Each fire consumed 40 acres.

Airplanes from the state Division of Forestry were used by the county on July 14 to slow down the front lines of a grass fire near Forest Knolls. Four chemical drops were made from the plane to allow fire fighters to encircle the fire perimeter.

"The demand for the service of the Point Reyes Station Ambulance has proved to be a needed service for the West Marin Area," said Pedroli. A total of 114 calls were made by the Point Reyes station ambulance during 1971.

The largest structural fire was Dec. 25 at Santa Venetia Middle School causing an estimated $100,000 to building and contents.

The department in 1971 answered 275 emergency calls, compared with 328 in 1970 and 269 in 1969.

The department also responded to 50 false alarms.

Assessment Notices To Be Mailed Out

SPORT NOTES

Girls Athletics Serious Business

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Girls sports at Redwood High School is really getting serious these days. Those of us in the fun and games department of the I-J normally greet the results of girls' sporting events with a smile, a friendly wave to all the women's libbers of America, and one paragraph of type.

But things are changing — at least at Redwood High.

For the first time, the Girls Athletic Association at Redwood will be presenting scholarships to two college-bound senior girls. The girls must have lettered in either varsity or junior varsity on one of the girls Marin County Athletic League teams during their senior year. The girls must have a 2.0 (C) grade point average to qualify for the scholarships, according to the three-paragraph release from the Redwood Student News Bureau.

KTIM'S ANNUAL Sportsman's Club Banquet once again will be open to the public after the success of last year's first try at opening the dinner to all comers. The banquet, honoring the two outstanding athletes from each of Marin County's high schools, will be May 9 at the Alvarado Inn, Ignacio, said the station's sports director, Bob Dinsmore.

Guest speaker for the prep stars will be forward Joe Ellis of the Golden State Warriors. Cost is $6 and reservations can be made by telephoning KTIM.

JOHN TADDEUCCI of San Rafael, promotions director of the Giants, will be out of action for a couple of weeks after undergoing back surgery yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco. Report from the hospital today was that all is A-Okay with John who is resting comfortably.

ALTHOUGH NAPA'S Ron Cerrudo didn't fatten his bank roll any after missing the cut in last week's Monsanto Open in Pensacola, Fla., he has already earned $12,360 to rank 62nd on the Professional Golfers Association money list. That's not bad pay.

IF YOU ARE a San Francisco 49er Ken Willard fan and see red when some unknowing people put the rap against him, here is a little rebuttal argument I'll pass along. Just say to the guy: "Ken Willard and Gale Sayers have eached played in the NFL for seven years. Which of them has gained more yardage? Which of them has scored more touchdowns?"

That will really get to the guy. Willard has gained 5,219 yards and has scored 40 touchdowns. Sayers has gained 4,956 yards and has 39 touchdowns.

Then the guy will start screaming about injuries. But that's just the point. Willard doesn't get hurt.

In Willard's first game of the year in the '72 season, he has a good chance to pass a guy named Hugh McElhenny on the all-time NFL list of ground gainers. Willard currently ranks 13th on the list, one notch and 62 yards behind the former 49er star. Willard has gained his yardage in seven years to McElhenny's 13.

Interesting.

Special Olympics Saturday

The Olympic Games are coming to San Rafael High School Saturday.

Some 200 students from Marin County Public Schools' special education classes, Marin Aid to Retarded Children, Cedar's Development Foundation of Ross, and Easter Seal Society Recreation for the Handicapped, will line up at the San Rafael High Athletic Field at 9 a.m. for the opening ceremonies. The inaugural festivities will include a lighting of the Special Olympic torch and participation of the Hamilton Air Force Base, Redwood and Novato high schools' color guards.

NBA Braves Sign Squire Pick McAdoo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) —It would appear that before Robert McAdoo sees any court action with the National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves he will see some court action of the legal kind.

The Braves announced Monday they had signed McAdoo, their number one draft choice, to a multi-year contract although McAdoo earlier had signed with the Virginia Squires of the rival American Basketball Association.

The Braves did not disclose the terms of McAdoo's contract at a news conference called to announce the signing.

Braves attorney Arnold Gardner announced that McAdoo, who played for North Carolina, filed suit in U.S. District Court here seeking to void a contract he signed with the Squires.

In the suit, McAdoo claimed the contract with the Squires should be declared void because he was 20-years-old and a minor when he signed the pact.

McAdoo's mother was also camed as a plaintiff in the action.

"We hope we can dispose of this matter amicably with Virginia," Gardner said.

Braves owner Paul Snyder and general manager Eddie Donovan said McAdoo signed with the Braves Monday but that the contract was negotiated Saturday in Los Angeles.

"I've always wanted to play in the NBA," McAdoo said, "Now I think I'll get my chance."

FUENTES FINED

Giants Lose To Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — It was not a very good day for the San Francisco Giants Monday.

First, second baseman Tito Fuentes was given a $100 fine for throwing his helmet toward the Giants' dugout after umpire Chris Pelekoudas called him out for running out of the baseline to avid a sixth inning tag by Houston Astro third baseman Doug Rader.

The Giants will lick their wounds and send Don Carrithers, 5-3 last year, to the mound in San Diego tonight, 7:30, against Padre righthander Tom Phoebus, 3-11 last year.

In the game last night, big Lee May signaled home Roger Metzger to break a 2-2 tie as the Astros exploded for the 7-2 win. May went two-for-four and drove in two runs.

Doug Rader, coming back after an operation on his left shoulder last September, shared hitting honors with May. Radar had a two-run homer for the Astros' first two runs in the fifth and a two-run triple to climax a three-run rally in the eighth.

Rader, despite his muscular 6-3, 215-pound frame, was powerless last season because every time he extended his left arm to swing, his shoulder came out of the socket he had to keep his arms close to his body and all he could do was punch at the ball.

"Everything has healed up perfectly," Rader said. "It'd have been all over if it hadn't. There is no comparison between this year and last year (in swinging the bat)."

After a frustrating season last year, it is quite satisfying to Rader to be able to have power again. He thinks he can hit 20 home runs this year without having to concentrate on them.

He hit 25 in 1970, but fell off to 12 last season.

Houston opens a two-game series in Cincinnati tonight with Ken Forsch, 8-8 last season, going against Don Gullett, 16-6.

Bunce, Musso Canada Bound

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don Bunce, a late blooming quarterback who piloted Stanford to the Rose Bowl, has singed a three-year contract with the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League.

The Lions also signed University of Alabama star running back Johnny Musso, who had been the No. 3 draft choice of the Chicago Bears. The Bears balked as his demand for a no-cut contract.

It was learned that Bunce inked the contract Sunday for two years, with the third year negotiable.

"I didn't want a no-cut clause because the way some contracts are designed this might mean you get less of a salary or bonus," he said. "I honestly didn't want one."

The contract is contingent on Bunce's acceptance to the university of British Columbia Medical school. If accepted, the Lions will pay part of his medical school costs, a spokesman said.

Bunce said he was "really happy with that part of it." He said he plans to apply this summer for the fall of 1973.

A's Defeat Cal, Face Kansas City

OAKLAND (UPI) — The union conscious Oakland Athletics hosted unbeaten Kansas City today in an American League headliner.

The A's, on strike themselves last week with other major league teams, declined to cross picket lines Monday at the University of California campus for an exhibition game with the Bears' varsity.

So the contest was moved to the Coliseum, where a scanty crowd of about 200 watched them defeat the college boys, 75.

Some 35 unions, representing the building and trades, were picketing on the campus, seeking wages comparable to those of workers outside the school system.

Most of the A's regulars were saved for tonight's series with Kansas City.

Joe Horlen, hoping for a spot on the A's roster, went five innings for the big leaguers and was touched for four runs, two unearned. Diego Segui and Jim Roland finished up, with Roland getting the win.

The Kansas City Royals bring a 3-0 Western Division record into the Oakland game. The A's are 1-1 on the young season.

Suns' Johnson To Undergo Knee Surgery

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Gus Johnson, nine-year veteran of the National Basketball Association seeking a comeback with the Phoenix Suns, will undergo knee surgery next week.

Jerry Colangelo, Suns' general manager, said the operation is for removal of cartilage on the inside of Johnson's right knee. Doctors were "very optimistic" Johnson could play again, he said.

MC CORMICK SIGNS WITH PHOENIX

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mike McCormick, a Cy Young award winner in 1967 and cut March 29 by the San Francisco Giants, has signed with the Phoenix Giants of the Pacific Coast League.

General Manager Rosey Ryan of the San Francisco AA farm club, said, "Mike will pitch in regular rotation with out team. We're leaving on a road trip to Albuquerque, and he'll pitch in that series in about three days.

Mrs. Kuscsik Wins Marathon's Gal Go

BOSTON (UPI) —Nina Kuscsik started running four years ago because her bicycle had a flat tire. Now she's running for "personal satisfaction."

Mrs. Kuscsik, 33, the mother of three children, hit a new peak in personal satisfaction Monday as she overcame some troublesome leg cramps for an easy win in the tradition-shattering women's division of the 56th annual Boston Marathon.

Finland's Olavi Suomalainen, who had never before run in a marathon but needed the credits for a shot at making his country's Olympic team, captured the men's division.

In other Marathon highlights:

—Kathy Miller of Syracuse, N.Y., who stunned officials five years ago by entering under the name "K. Switzer" when the Marathon was still exclusively a man's race, finished third in the women's division and had a better time than nearly 400 men.

—Comedian Dick Gregory, who says he's down to 98 pounds in his year-long antiwar fast, ran about 25 miles but pulled a muscle in his right leg and failed to finish.

—The 64-year-old sentimental favorite in the race, John A. Kelley, competed in his 41st Marathon but was not among the first 700 finishers and his time was not recorded.

—The field of 1,081 starters was so crowded when the gun went off that hundreds of runners had to walk for the first eighth of a mile because there was no room to move.

Mrs. Kuscsik led from start to finish in the women's division, the first ever run as part of a Marathon sponsored by the Boston Athletic Association. She ran the 26-mile, 385-yard course in 3:08:58, finishing after 390 men, but bettering 682 other men and the other eight women in the race.

Mrs. Kuscsik, who delayed a news conference for 45 minutes because she "felt ill," said she was bothered by leg cramps at the 14-mile mark because she "went too fast for myself and should have paced myself better."

But she said she was spurred on by "excellent crowd support" among thousands of spectators who lined the route.

Mrs. Miller, the former Kathy Switzer, said she found the race satisfying. She completed the race in 3:29.50, behind Mrs. Kuscsik and Elaine Pederson, a stewardess supervisor from San Francisco.

It was on April 19, 1967 that "K. Switzer" became the first woman to be officially entered in the race, only to have Jock Semple, a member of the Marathon committee, try to push her off the road shortly after the start. She stayed in that race, however, when a group of male runners formed a wedge around her.

Suomalainen, making his first Marathon run, gained ground on "Heartbreak Hill" —where many other runners have faltered in past years —and fought off a late challenge by Colombia's Victor Manuel Mora at the finish.

The blond, 25-year-old engineer student said he "began to feel better" when he got on the hill. He overtook Mexican Jacinto Sabinal about 4 1-2 miles from the finish line, then outran the fast-closing Mora by fewer than 100 yards. Suomalainen finished in 2:15:39, 18 seconds ahead of Mora.

Rangers, Chicago Tonight

Ed Giacomin, who has played goal in all seven Stanley Cup playoff games this season, has a twisted knee and it may impair him when the Rangers take on the Chicago Black Hawks tonight in the second game of their best-of-seven semifinal series. The Rangers won the opener in Chicago 3-2 Sunday night.

In the other semifinal game tonight, the Boston Bruins, who swept past Toronto in the quarterfinals, entertain the St. Louis Blues. The Blues, who finished third in the West Division, made it to the semifinals with a sudden death victory over Minnesota in the seventh and deciding game Sunday afternoon.

White Sox Bombed Lee

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Ironically, the spray-hitting McCraw was inserted in the sixth inning only after slugging Indian first baseman Chris Chambliss pulled a hamstring muscle running out an infield grounder in the fifth inning.

When McCraw came to bat with two on and two out in the eighth, he kept looking into the dugout for a pinch hitter. But manager Ken Aspromonte gave the lefty the go-ahead and McCraw responded by belting a one-two pitch into the right field stands.

In the only other American League game, Baltimore shut out New York, 4-0. In the National League, Houston drubbed San Francisco, 7-2; St. Louis edged Philadelphia, 5-4; and Los Angeles bombed Atlanta, 8-3.

Manny Mota and Willie Davis, who find it very comfortable batting back-to-back in front of Frank Robinson in the Dodger lineup, combined for seven hits and five rbis in the victory over Atlanta. Each hit a two-run homer while Mota added three singles and Davis hit two. Frank Robinson chipped in with two walks, one with the bases loaded, and a single. Hoyt Wilhelm made his 1,055th appearance and got the save for the Dodgers although Chris Cannizzaro was charged with three passed balls in the ninth while trying to catch William's knuckle ball.

The St. Louis-Philadelphia game had a frantic finish and Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst said, "we damn near blew that one and we've blown two already." The Cards took a 5-3 lead in the top of the ninth as Ted Simmons doubled in a run and scored on Dal Maxvill's sacrifice fly. But the Phils came back for a run in the last of the ninth and had the bases loaded before Al Santorini got Tim McCarver to ground out to end the game.

In an apparent reference to the number of Phils who complained about called strikes, Schoendienst said, "I've never seen so much griping as I have in the last five years on balls thrown right down the middle. The strike zone is so small now, you have to throw through a shoe box."

The Orioles, who don't seem to be missing Frank Robinson, blanked the Yanks on Dave McNally's four-hitter. Brooks Robinson, who wasn't booed this time, triggered a three-run seventh with a run-scoring double. The Orioles, going for their fourth straight 100 victory season, will have more difficulty reaching that goal in a shorter season. But manager Earl Weaver said, "98 to go, right! It's going to be more fun than doing it in a longer season."

Bengals Sign Cal End White

CINCINNATI (UPI) — All America defensive end Sherm White of California has signed a contract with the Cincinnati Bengals.

White, 23, who led the Bears in tackles in 1970 and 1971, was the second player selected in the 1972 draft of the National Football League. He is considered an outstanding pass rusher because of his height and speed.

Loose Triumphs, 8-0, In Softball Contest

Sam King pitched a two-hit shutout and Loose rallied for five runs in the third inning to defeat Cain's Tires, 8-0, last night in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball league play at Albert Park.

Don Rump, playing well enough to get a team named after him, drove in the winning run as Don Rump Golf Shop defeated Mike's Bar and Grill, 3-4. Rich Carrol threw a three-hitter to give Marin Supply a 15-3 romp over M&S Brokers.

Redwood, Novato Golf Teams Win

The Redwood High School Giants and the Novato Hornets continued undefeated yesterday in Marin County Athletic League golf action, but the surprise award goes to the Drake Links squad, which carded the best score of the day in trouncing Marin Catholic.

Redwood dropped Tamalpais with a 206-222 decision at the Meadow Club in Fairfax, while Novato took San Rafael, 205-210, in a rescheduled match of last week, at Peacock Gap.

Drake, which had been winless in two unspectacular MCAL starts this year, belted the Wildcats by carding a sharp 204 to Marin Catholic's 241 at the Meadow Club.

In a non-league match yesterday, the Terra Linda Trojans defeated Pinole Valley High School at Franklin Canyon, 3½-2½ in match play.

PREP OF THE WEEK

Quiet Powell 'A Competitor'

By LEW CODDINGTON

For somebody who starts slowly and finishes "coasting," Joe Powell III doesn't do badly at all.

Last Friday, for example, the Novato High School sprinter won the 10-yard dash, the 220, and the long jump, and anchored the victorious 440 relay team, as the Hornets forced undefeated Redwood down to the final two events before losing, 75-61.

"Joe is a real competitor in his own quiet way," said Novato's interim track coach, Craig Bond. "He's not a gung-ho, scream-and-yell type. He's well-liked by the other athletes on the team.

"He's a natural athlete. He's got all the talent. He probably would be a standout in whatever he tried."

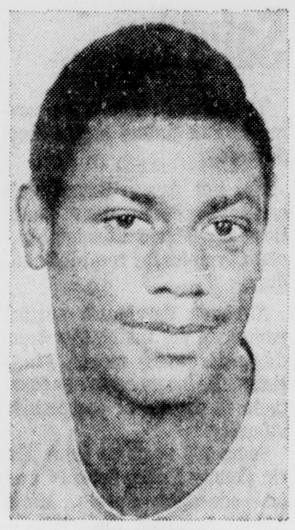
One of the things he's tried is football, and as a split end he finished sixth in receiving in the Marin County Athletic League last year. Another thing he's tried is basketball, and he has started as a forward two consecutive years, although he missed half of his sophomore season with a broken knuckle.

He seems to reserve his best qrformances for track, though, despite some difficulty in starting. "I have trouble getting out of the blocks quickly," y admitted, "and sometimes at the end of the race I coast." In the middle, there appears to be no stopping him.

"He needs to get lower at the start," said Bond. "Asqit is, he's standing straight up after three or four strides, and this cuts down on his time."

Powell's best time in the 100 is10.1 seconds, achieved twice, including the Redwood meet. It's the best in the MCAL this year. He has done 23.4 in the 220 and 20-8 in the long jump, despite a curious problem involving his take-off foot.

"During my whole sophomore year, I took off on my left foot," he said. "Then Ed Nissen (Novato's triple jumper) showed me how to jump off my right foot."



JOE POWELL
Novato Sprinter

Powell developed soreness in the back of his right thigh for a while, but now is jumping better. The soreness led to an incident after which, he says, he nearly quit the team.

"We had a meet against Tamalpais and coach Patterson (Bob, who resigned last week) sat me down in the long jump because of the leg. He said we wouldn't need the points to win. But it came down to where we needed the points, and he didn't use me. I was on the verge of quitting because of this." Tam and Novato tied, 68-68.

This was an ironic twist, because it was Patterson, along with sprinter Gary Allison, who persuaded Powell to come out for track in the first place last year. "I wasn't going to do it until they talked me into it," he said.

Powell is the son of a carer Air Force Chief Warrant Officer currently stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base, and a member of an athletic family. Two sisters -- Rene, a freshman, and Brenda, an eighth-grader — run track at San Jose Junior High School in Novato. A brother, Carl, a freshman at San Jose, does "everything I do," Joe says. Their father, Joe Powell Jr., has played basketball and baseball.

The Powells may not be around next year. The elder Joe will retire in October, and the family will be looking around for a place to settle permanently, and may go back east.

As a result of the general uncertainty, Joe hasn't made up his mind yet about such things as college, or even a possible profession. He carries a C average in classes, enjoying Black Literature the most, and was disappointed he could only take one semester of it.

Joe has little time for any activities outside of athletic practice. "I play basketball constantly, because it's indoors," he said. "In my spare time, I sleep."

FISH AND GAME

Abalone Anglers Find Success

By AL GIDDINGS

It was a great weekend for abalone, clam and poke pole fishermen. I checked with the game wardens who worked the Marin County and Sonoma County abalone beds after previously asking them to keep an accurate count of the number of peopie checked and the number of abalones taken.

Here is the report for last Saturday. At the old Palamarin ranch, now part of the Point Reyes National Seashore near Bolinas, I checked 16 abalone pickers there with 65 abalones for an average of four per fisherman. On a small bed near Point Reyes, eight fishermen had 33, checked by wardens Russ Ild and George Nelson. Again the average was four abalones per person. Department of Fish and Game Capt. Robert Bradford and his crew checked the parking lot at Pierce Point. I had not contacted them early enough, but their estimate was 80 people with almost all limits.

ABOUT TWO weeks ago, the Sonoma County wardens reported a take of 380 or so abalones by 100 or so fishermen from Pedotti Reef. The tide then was a minus .5, or just a fair low tide. Saturday with a -1.4 tide, the 338 abalone pickers took 1,191 abalones as reported by Warden Joe Peelan of that area. That averages out to three and one-half abalones per person. An early report from Fort Ross was 150 carloads of people, generally all taking limits or near limits of abalones. These figures give a final result of approximately 700 people checked taking approximately 3,000 abalones for a 4 plus average.

But getting back to the Pedotti Ranch, the abalone pickers there have been doing this for years. The ranch owners charge for access, so all are welcome. My point is that abalones can take a lot of pressure if the beds are properly used. By this I mean that care must be taken to leave undersized abalones alone. These are the spawners. The wardens at Pedotti only made three citations for undersized abalones. There is no pollution, illegal diving with scuba gear is kept at a minimum and overlimits are a rarity. I think it was a great weekend, especially Saturday with those calm seas, which permitted many anglers to take home a feed of abalones. I hope you were one of the lucky ones.

MY SON, ANDY, and wife, Mary, tried it Sunday at Palamarin. Mary got two, combing the shoreline rocks, and Andy got five, working offshore in a wet suit. He had no competition. There wasn't another diver within two blocks of him. He worked offshore, probably 200 yards out in an untouched area. It was rough, and he had his problems, but everyone felt that they had a great outing. A lot of rugged people were happy doing their thing and hurting nothing. Next year those abalones will be back and it will be done all over again. It would be a shame to close these areas and to waste such a great resource.

There were nine "out of the county" clam diggers noted in Bolinas Lagoon digging away. It's closed by the Health Department, so we just warned them away.

OTHER NEWS: Howard Goerndt and his son, Mike, reported taking two bass, 20 and 12 pounds, at Sausalito using live anchovies near the anchovy pens there. Stanten Nash of the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary says that he took his 15-year-old son on their first rockfishing trip together a week ago on the Blue Horizon. His son, Stan, caught a 35-pound ling cod which was the fishing thrill of his life. He says, "Thanks for the recommendations!"

Frank Spencer Keeper of the Marin Rod and Gun Club Pier, says, "bass fishing is getting hot!" From April 9 to April 14 some 21 stripers, averaging eight pounds, were taken from the pier. Top fish was a 14½ pounder taken by Ray Swanson.

Mike Brennan, the recreation director of Nicasio Lake, says the bluegill fishing was slow but many of the 100 anglers there last Saturday had black bass. Marty Medin of Woodacre got two last Friday, fishing most of the afternoon, using plastic eels.

Now, I'm going to cook some abalone steaks!

Lions' Lineman Parson Traded To Cardinals

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions Friday acquired defensive lineman Joe Schmeising from the St. Louis Cardinals in a straight plaer swap. The Lions sent offensive lineman Ray Parson to the Cardinals.

Schmeising, 27, is a five-year veteran in the National Football League. He is 6 feet 4-½ inches tall, weights 260 pounds and plays both defensive tackle and defensive end. He was drafted in 1967 by the Cardinals from New Mexico State where he played middle linebacker.

Parson, 25, played last year on the Lions' special teams. He missed his entire rookie season in 1970 because of knee surgery. Parson was drafted in 1970 on graduation from University of Minnesota where he played tight end.

coach, was equally optimistic about the signing.

"I think he'll increase the potential of this club considerably," Ramsay stated. "For a 69 player —to be as quick and agile as he is and to play the kind of defense he has played — I envision him being able to play a small forward, and to do a good job of it."

Ramsay, who has set goal of getting the Braves into the playoffs next season, said he thinks the addition of McAdoo will give Buffalo one of the toughest front lines in the NBA.

"With players like McAdoo, John Hummer, Bob Kauffman and Elmore Smith, this gives us a very tough front line. I think it's competitive with any in the league," said Ramsay.

Solar Salute's Albany Arrival Set Wednesday

ALBANY (UPI)—Solar Salute, the West's leading candidate for the Kentucky Derby, will arrive at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday for the $100,000 California Derby three days later.

Winner of the $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby in his last start for his seventh straight victory, Solar Salute is the favorite for the mile and an eighth.

In Thursday's featured purse, Pink Khal ($10.40) scored a one and a half length victory over favored Win For Me Only.

Terra Linda Nine Stymied By Moroski

The three-hit pitching of Novato High School's Marty Moroski tripped up the devil-may-care baserunners from Terra Linda High yesterday, as the Hornets squeezed out a 4-3 Marin County Athletic League baseball victory.

Moroski made the Trojan run total seem misleading, as none of the three runs were earned. The senior hurler picked up his second victory in MCAL competition as the Hornets captured their third straight triumph and moved into undisputed second place at 3-1, half a game behind Redwood (3-0). Redwood and Novato were to collide today at 4 p.m. at Novato.

Stan Conte belted a single and a double for the Hornets, picking up a pair of runs-batted-in with the third-inning two-bagger.

Terra Linda was at the mercy of Moroski throughout, and only got the three runs on smart baserunning (the Trojans had an amazing total of nine stolen bases) and Novato miscues.

Dennis Stanley hit safely twice for Novato, and Bill Busher also collected a pair of hits. The duo combined in the bottom of the sixth to get the winning run, as Busher followed Stanley's double with a base hit, to plate the key tally.

Terra Linda got its runs on a single, hit batsman, and a two-base error in the first, and added the last score in the seventh on a Moroski wild pitch.

Brian Wall had three stolen bases, pinch runner Huey Williams added two more, and Steve Withers also had a pair of thefts for the speedy Trojans.

BOWLING TIPS

By MARION LADEWIG

It may seem strange, but if you are consistently getting Brooklyn (1-2) hits, you should change your starting position a board or so to the left. There will be nights when you are getting too much hook, and this may be necessary. It's foolish to live with the out-of-pocket hits when you can do something about it.

Insurance Firm Moves To Marin

Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co., which will open a huge data processing plant at Lucas Valley Road and Highway 101 in 1974, will not wait that long before moving to Marin.

The company's San Francisco processing center, which handles policy entries and accounting for 11 branch offices in the Western states, will move into Northgate Industrial Park this year, about Sept. 1. It will take temporary space in the Margarita Office Building now under construction at Mitchell Boulevard and Paul Drive, then move across the Highway when the $12 million computer center is completed in 1974.

The processing center in San Francisco is moving this year because of space demands at Fireman's Fund home office at California and Presidio.

Fireman's Fund said the move will create a number of job openings, and an employment office will open soon at Northgate Industrial Park to accept job applications.

LARKSPUR ISLE APARTMENTS — This 186-unit townhouse project is just about completed at Larkspur Plaza near the Disco Wonderworld store. Almost 50 units have already been rented and 30 families have taken up residence in the new units.

2 Developments Nearly Complete

Two large townhouse developments, with rentals ranging from $190 to $330, are just about completed in Marin County.

One is Larkspur Isle Apartments, located on Larkspur Plaza Road near Disco Wonderworld. The other is Channing Heights, a 254-unit project atop a hill at the end of Professional Center Parkway in the Northgate area of San Rafael.

Developers are the Shareholders Real Estate Group, which flourished in Southern California and more recently in Phoenix. The two Marin County projects are the company's first ventures in Northern California. Two others under way are 414 units at Scotchhollow in the San Mateo foothills and another in Daly City.

Rentals and management are handled by Capital Real Estate Management, headed by executive vice president Ted R. Lennon. He can be reached at Larkspur Isle Apartments. Capital Real Estate Management is a Shareholders' subsidiary which manages the apartments built by the parent company.

About 50 of the Larkspur Isle Apartments are already rented, and 30 families have moved in. All 186 units should be completed in a month or two. It is a water-oriented housing development, with the winding Corte Madera Creek forming its eastern boundary.

Units come in one bedroom, one bedroom with den, and two bedrooms. Furnished and unfurnished apartments are available.

Units at Channing Heights come in singles, one bedroom, one bedroom and den, two bedrooms and one bath, two bedrooms and two baths, and two-bedroom townhouses. Channing Heights also will have a clubhouse with all recreation amenities, plus a private meeting room which can be reserved by tenants.

Kaiser Spokesman Predicts Increase

OAKLAND (BW) — In response to queries regarding recent price actions in the steel industry, a spokesman for Kaiser Steel Corp. said, "for the past several years the steel industry has been plagued by unsatisfactory earnings due to rising costs and unsteady demand.

"The industry faces another 7 per cent increase in labor costs this summer. Unless productivity increases by a like amount it is difficult to see how any steel company can pledge not to raise prices this year.

Wall Street Spirits Are High Today

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market moved sharply higher in active trading during the first two hours today with investors brimming with confidence from corporate earnings reports.

Of the 1,583 issues crossing the tape, 748 advanced and 385 declined. The two-hour volume amounted to more than 7,170,000 shares.

The major thrust of the market stems from glowing first quarter earnings reports, analysts said. Also, most economic reports coming out of Washington have reflected improving business health.

The market has been virtually ignoring news developments, particularly the Vietnam war escalation during the past week.

The same pattern was true on the American Stock Exchange where prices were higher in fairly active trading. Ozark Airlines was the most active issue, up 3-4 at 11 7-8 on 128,700 shares.

Maybe It's Time To Have A Fling

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 5000 MIF Fund, reinvesting all capital gains and income dividends. I am retired on pensions of $550 per month, have savings equal to invested capital. There are just two of us and I do not think we will ever need these shares for living expenses. Should we take our distributions, which last year amounted to $2,500, and invest elsewhere or what? Is this a good place for my money? — C.J.

A. Your conservative fund has performed in line with the averages in recent periods, although its longer-term record is better than average. In 1971 the return from income and capital gains combined amounted to a modest 5.8 per cent. A larger return could be achieved, with safety of principal guaranteed, in bonds or bank certificates of deposit.

If, however, you are primarily interested in gradual growth with moderate return, a portfolio of high-quality growth stocks would be more suitable. In this category are: American Express (OTC), Bristol-Myers (NYSE), Nabisco (NYSE) and Tampax (OTC).

A 3-for-1 split has been proposed for the first issue and a 4-for-1 for the last named. From what you write, your financial situation is secure and heirs are not a consideration. Why not use the $2,500 realized last year from MIF for a vacation trip?

Q. I bought DCA Development at $28. What is your advice?

A. Announcement of a $3 million to $4 million loss for 1971 dropped these ASE shares 50 per cent in two sessions. The anticipated deficit reflects the stricter accounting methods recently adopted by realty companies.

Lack of working capital forced the closing of one tile plant and production cutbacks at another. Liquidity problems also resulted in the default on an institutionally held debt obligation. Switch to a healthier situation.

FACES FULBRIGHT — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird faces Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, during a hearing this morning in Washington in which the secretary said American warplanes are out on raids "at this moment" in North Vietnam. Seated with Laird is Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Red Guns Knock Out Two U.S. Naval Attack Boats

N. Viets Stepping Up Major Highway Attacks

SAIGON (UPI)—Communists have knocked two U.S. Navy attack vessels out of action, the U.S. command said Tuesday, and North Vietnamese troops stepped up their attacks along the two major highways running from Cambodia to Saigon.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said U.S. air attacks were continuing against North Vietnam as well as against Communist forces and supply lines in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Fighting spurted upward markedly in Cambodia, particularly along Highway 1 linking Saigon and Phnom Penh. Cambodian sources said a major offensive similar to the one in South Vietnam may be forming but it was too soon to tell for sure.

In South Vietnam, a new battle seemed to be shaping up around An Loc, the battered provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon. North Vietnamese troops also slipped around the town and attacked near Lai Khe—about halfway to Saigon.

Both An Loc and Lai Khe are astride Highway 13—the vital north-south highway from Saigon to Cambodia where a 20,000-man South Vietnamese division has been trying to move northward for more than a week.

With the attacks along Highway 1 in Cambodia, the Communists may be trying to secure the two main roads from Saigon to Cambodia. The only other roads are Highways 22 and 14 which branch off Highways 1 and 13.

Eight-engine B52s raided Haiphong Sunday and fighterbombers attacked both Haiphong and Hanoi.

(The North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks said 47 civilians were killed and 101 injured in Haiphong. It said a final count had not been made in Hanoi but a number of civilians, including women and children, were killed.)

The U.S. command said it attacked oil storage areas on the outskirts of both towns but the Soviet Union said four of its merchant ships anchored at Haiphong were damaged in the raid.

The U.S. command said two American sailors were killed and 16 wounded in separate attacks on the guided missile destroyer Buchanan and the frigate Worden.

The Buchanan was hit by North Vietnamese coastal batteries Monday. One sailor died and seven were wounded.

Reds Say 13,650 Men Lost

PARIS (UPI) — Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, Viet Cong foreign minister, said today South Vietnamese forces have lost 13,650 men in the Communist offensive which, she said, was launched to defeat President Nixon's "Vietnamization" program.

Madame Binh told France-Inter, the government-run French national broadcasting network, that American troops were involved in the fighting and that the Communists did not rule out a new U.S. "military adventure" against North Vietnam.

Madame Binh's statement was broadcast while the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations urged a resumption of the suspended Paris peace talks. However, the Communists so far have failed to formally request such a meeting through liaison officers.

Communist diplomats did not explain the delay. North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy, while urging an immediate halt to the U.S. bombings, told a news conference Monday the Communists wanted the conference to resume its regular sessions April 27. The conference was adjourned indefinitely March 23 by President Nixon because, he charged, it had become a sounding board for Communist propaganda.

Madame Binh said, "Our general and ultimate objective is to defeat the American policy of Vietnamizing the war." She said "the two pillars of this policy—the machine of (police) repression and the army of the Saigon administration are collapsing."

Madame Binh said Saigon forces so far had lost 13,650 men, 150 planes and 166 tanks or military vehicles in the fighting. She claimed further that Communist forces were especially successful in the Mekong River Delta which, she said, has been portrayed by Saigon and Washington as a throughly pacified region.

"We are ready for any military adventure of which Mr. Nixon is capable as he has proved by the massive bombings of Hanoi and Haiphong which even (former President Lyndon B.) Mr. Johnson had not dared to do," she said in reply to a question on whether she expected a possible ground attack on North Vietnam.

She claimed that American forces have been engaged in the fighting. She said the 1st Battalion of the 196th U.S. Infantry has been moved from Da Nang to the northern front near Hue while the 3rd Marine Division, which has been moved to Okinawa from Vietnam, has been moved back aboard ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

Communist diplomatic sources earlier said they did not expect an early resumption of the peace talks.

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Bank of America official confirmed today that the government has announced regulations enabling broad government scrutiny of a citizen's financial dealings will go into effect July 1.

Robert H. Fabian, senior vice president and general counsel of the bank, also said the rules extend not only to bank transactions but dealings in securities, certain credit usage and travelers' check purchases.

The fundamental requirement is that all banks in the U.S. keep photostatic records of nearly all checks made out by customers. Federal officials then could subpoena the copies for criminal and tax investigation.

(The Independent-Journal reported in March that William L. Dickey, deputy assistant secretary of the Treasury Department, had said the rules had been written but not put into effect.)

Banks will not be required to keep check records of large business firms, routine payroll checks issued by large companies, routine government checks and insurance claim checks.

The records must be kept five years.

Unusually large currency transactions by customers also must be reported to the government, specifically withdrawals of at least $10,000 by a person who would not ordinarily take such a sum from a bank and out-of-the county dispatches of securities totaling $5,000, including letters of credit and stock certificates, according to the banker.

Aside from banks, securities

Oath Upheld In Supreme Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A sharply divided Supreme Court ruled 4 to 3 today that states can require employes to sign a broad loyalty oath opposing the overthrow of government by force, violence or illegal means.

The decision upholding a Massachusetts oath seemingly represented a switch of direction by the Court which, in the past, has invalidated loyalty procedures in such states as Florida, Arizona, Maryland, New York and Washington.

The latter laws were struck down on grounds they required a state employe to swear he was not a member of the Communist party or similar organization.

The Massachusetts oath was in two parts. The first pledged to uphold and defend the Constitution, which was approved by a lower federal court. The second, however, required the employe to swear he "opposes the overthrow of the government of the United States of America or of this commonwealth by force, violence or by any illegal or unconstitutional method."

The lower court had thrown this out as "hopelessly vague" but the Supreme Court's majority opinion by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger reinstated it.

Dissenting were Justices William O. Douglas, Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. The two newest members of the Court — Justices Lewis F. Powell Jr., and William H. Rehnquist —did not participate in the decision.

Speaking for the majority, Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said he did not find the challenged section unconstitutionally vague. He said the oath is "no more than an amenity" and there is no record of prosecutions or harassment in connection with it.

The case was brought to the high court by Mrs. Lucretia Peteros Richardson, a research sociologist, who was fired from a job at the Boston State Hospital because she refused to sign the oath.

Mrs. Richardson sued in Federal District Court in Boston for back pay based on an alleged breach of contract and to have the law declared unconstitutional.

Douglas, speaking for himself, said the section is "plainly unconstitutional" under earlier Supreme Court decisions.

U.S. Firm: All Out Viet Effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) —U.S. officials said today "everything is open" for U.S. air and naval power to do whatever is considered necessary to stop the North Vietnamese offensive of South Vietnam and to protect President Nixon's Vietnamization policy.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee this morning that U.S. air strikes were continuing in North Vietnam, as well as South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, "at this very moment."

Laird and other administration officials also specifically refused to rule out possible future strikes at Hanoi and Haiphong—targets of controversial weekend raids by American bombers.

As for the suspended Vietnam peace talks in Paris, Laird said it was "the height of irresponsibility" to talk about resuming them while the North Vietnamese were still pursuing what he called their invasion of South Vietnam.

Laird said if North Vietnamese divisions withdrew, "then, the suggestion of negotiations would be a viable alternative.

"As long as the violations are continuing," he said, "talk about further negotiations at this time is the height of irresponsibility."

The White House declined to respond directly to questions about the bombing and other phases of U.S. military operations in Vietnam. Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, said Laird was "stating the authorized position of the United States Government," and added: "It will not be stated by any sources in Saigon or elsewhere."

In his testimony before the Foreign Relations Committee, Laird also said the U.S. naval buildup would continue as "absolutely essential and urgent" insurance to protect remaining American troops in South Vietnam.

Guidance System Off, Then Fixed

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Electrical interference knocked out Apollo 16's main guidance system for 18 minutes today but the astronauts fixed it with instructions radioed from the ground and pressed on toward their Wednesday rendezvous with the moon.

The loss of the main guidance system was the most serious trouble in the first two days of the 12-day mission to the unexplored lunar highlands. It occurred when the moonship was 164,000 miles from earth.

Controllers found the source of the problem and radioed commands up to Thomas K. Mattingly, the pilot of the command ship Casper, who quickly fixed the system after an alarm sounded at 3:12 a.m. EST.

"We're go at this time," Flight director Philip Schaffer reported after the complex electronic device used to steer the astronauts through trackless space was back in service.

Mattingly and his companions, John W. Young and Charles M. Duke, lost two hours of sleep because of the trouble and when they awoke at 11 a.m. EST they were told that the interference had been eliminated with a change in procedures.

"Now, you're talking," said Young. "That's the best news I've heard today."

The problem involved a gyroscope-controlled navigation platform suspended so that it can swivel freely, regardless of the position of the spacecraft.

The platform is aligned to star references and is supposed to retain this "fix" and provide a reference against which movements of the spacecraft can be measured.

But instead of moving freely, this crucial navigation device locked in one position, making it useless for navigation.

Guidance controller Gary Coen said there was nothing wrong with the inertial platform itself.

He said an all-out effort was underway by teams of engineers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which designed the guidance and navigation system, to work up new procedures which would eliminate such interference for the rest of the 12-day mission.

Apollo 16 has a backup guidance system that was not affected, but mission control said if the primary system had been knocked out permanently, the astronauts would not have been permitted to swing into lunar orbit Wednesday. Instead they would have looped around the moon and returned to earth.

Nixon Aide Agrees To Senate ITT Quizzing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Presidential Assistant Peter M. Flanigan agreed today to give "limited" Senate testimony about his role in settlement of a huge government antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT).

Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, revealed the break in the White House-Senate impasse over the nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to become attorney general by reading to the panel a letter from Flanigan dated today.

Some key Democrats had said they would not vote on Kleindienst's confirmation unless Flanigan testified.

In his letter, Flanigan noted that last week Presidential Counsel John W. Dean III "explained that I could not accept an invitation calling for testimony relating to the performance of my duties as a member of the immediate staff of the President.

"Since that time, several members of the Judiciary Committee have indicated that testimony from me relates solely to my limited involvement in assisting former Assistant Attorney General (Richard W.) McLaren in obtaining independent financial analysis and (ITT President Harold S.) Geneen's participation in a group meeting in February 1971.

"If the committee feels that my testimony in respect to the foregoing would be of assistance in its consideration of Kleindienst's confirmation and the scope of my appearance is limited accordingly, I would welcome the opportunity to appear and testify before your committee," Flanigan said.

Some Democrats on the committee had demanded earlier in the day that McLaren and Kleindienst be recalled to the witness stand in addition to Flanigan.

The White House said Flanigan's agreement to appear before the committee did not constitute a reversal of the doctrine of executive privilege. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said executive privilege was never actually invoked on the question of Flanigan's appearance.

Flanigan's testimony, Ziegler said, will be limited to his role "as a conduit for the Justice Department in obtaining a financial analysis in prosecuting an antitrust case" —the Justice Department's suit to force ITT to divest istelf of three subsidiaries.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said he was satisfied with Flanigan's offer, saying it had

Big Firms' Profits Are Called Excessive

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. estimated today that 10 per cent of the nation's largest companies are violating the law by collecting excessive profits.

But Lrayson contended that the administration's goal of halving the rate of inflation is still attainable.

"We are on course," he told a hearing of Congress' Joint Economic Committee, where he ran into some sharply critical questioning.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., the committee chairman, said the wage-price control system has been "a pathetic failure and the sooner we change it the better."

His figures, Grayson said, "clearly refute the repeated assertion by organized labor that wages have been held down while prices have climbed disproportionately."

"In fact, the opposite has been true," he said. "...Hourly wages had the sharper and quicker post-freeze 'bulge.'"

He said all prices—including the 22 per cent of all commodities, chiefly food, which are not controlled—have risen at an annual rate of 4.9 per cent. Food rose the most, 9.3 per cent.

With uncontrolled products excluded, he said, consumer prices between November and February rose "only 2.9 per cent,'(which put the increase "within the Price Commission's goal of 2.5 per cent."

In setting up Phase II, President Nixon said he wanted to cut the rate of inflation in half, bringing it down to between 2 and 3 per cent by the end of this year.

Grayson said only 11 per cent of companies with sales of $100 million a year or more—which must notify him before raising prices—have failed to file for a price increase.

Increases, in whole or part, have been granted 2,825 firms. Increases have been denied to 140 firms and 1,070 applications have been withdrawn or cancelled, Grayson said.

He said the commission has so far analyzed reports from only 129 of the companies which must notify it of price increases, either before or after they go into effect.

Of the 129 reports, 51 "were in excess of their base period profit-margin" and 78 were not. Under commission rules, firms must not increase their profit margins even if they increase prices.

Airliner Crashes In Nairobi; 118 Aboard

NAIROBI (UPI)—An East African Airways Super VC10 carrying 107 passengers and 11 crewmen crashed today during takeoff from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. "Approximately half the passengers survived," the airline said.

San Rafael Council Is Redeveloper

The San Rafael City Council last night placed another hat atop its head — it became the city's redevelopment agency. (Other San Rafael City Council stories, page 7.)

It also hired the Oakland law firm of Goldfarb and Owens, represented at the regular semi- monthly council meeting by Steven H. Goldfarb, who last week had instructed the council on the workings of community redevelopment.

The ordinance forming the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency passed unanimously and goes into effect 30 days after its passage. The new agency will be guided by the state's Community Redevelopment Law.

The city thus can finance downtown redevelopment, generate commercial development and bring "substantial numbers" of jobs to San Rafael, Goldfarb had told the council last week.

The next step for the agency, according to Goldfarb, is to formulate a revitalization plan. The county assessor then can create a tax area within redevelopment boundaries.

Once such a tax area is set up, revenues from any increase in assessment would go to the agency to pay for improvements.

Goldfarb will receive no more than $6,000 for his work with the agency, at a rate of $50 an hour. His job will include giving legal advice and drafting and reviewing redevelopment plans.

Tax Service President Urges Strict Standards

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The head of the nation's largest tax preparation service today urged Congress to require people in his business to be registered with the government and to adhere to other professional standards.

"Consumers need protection from abuses by some tax preparation services," said Henry W. Bloch, president of H & R Block Inc., a firm which did $90 million worth of business last year.

"This is one of the few industries you need practically no money to enter," he said. "There's nothing to prevent a 12 year old from making out a tax return."

In testimony prepared for the House subcommittee on legal and monetary affairs, which is considering legislation dealing with tax preparers, Bloch took exception to the statement printed on the front of this year's tax returns quoting Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Jonnie M. Walters.

The message said "Most American taxpayers can make their own tax return for 1971." But Bloch said accountants and lawyers disagree with that, and he considered it an "illconsidered statement."

"I have always advocated that taxes, in order to be equitable, must be complex," he said. "Further, many Americans prefer to pay someone to prepare their returns even though by careful study of the instructions they could manage their own."

He said the growth of his own business showed that Americans want such a service and any legislation governing it should "not be unduly restrictive or so prejudicial" as to limit its development.

Specifically, he said legislation should set a standard of competence for tax preparers by specifying their training; spell out financial standards for the firms in the business; prohibit false or misleading advertising; and require registration to make sure the standards are complied with.

He also suggested that the Internal Revenue Service be given authority to obtain injunctions against firms which prepare false or fraudulent returns.

Meany Rips Arbitration Proposals

WASHINGTON (UPI) —AFL-CIO President George Meany said today proposals to give the White House power to force settlements in transportation labor disputes are "anti-labor measures masquerading as public interest legislation and we intend to fight them with all the strength at our command."

"The essential question raised by these proposals," Meany told the Senate labor subcommittee, "is whether the government should be granted the authority to fix wages, hours and working conditions for employes even in privately owned sectors of the economy through some form of compulsory arbitration.

UNION STANCE

"As a matter of basic principle, the AFL-CIO is firmly and unequivocally opposed to any such attempt to undermine free collective bargaining, or the right to strike which is essential to collective bargaining," Meany said in testimony prepared for the subcommittee.

The 77-year-old leader of the 13.6-million-member federation said the AFL-CIO opposed both an administration bill and one offered by Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., mainly because both contain a "final offer" selection.

Under that provision, the President could name an impartial panel to choose between the final labor and management offers and impose this as the solution to the dispute. Meany said this approach would not work and would lead to low employe morale and lower productivity.

"There is a natural resistance to purported solutions handed down from on high," he told the panel. "Government dictated solutions are bound to lead to restiveness and low productivity. They cannot lead to the harmony essential for industrial peace and high productivity."

WEIMAR REPUBLIC

Meany said that Prof. Merton Bernstein of Ohio State reported the "final offer selection" approach was first tried in the Weimar Republic in pre-Hitler Germany and met with only little success before being abandoned.

The labor leader also said a number of noted labor arbitrators had testified that this approach "would be utterly unworkable" because it is "remote from the realities of collective bargaining."

Meany said the right to strike was basic to the effectiveness of collective bargaining for unions, and that the administration and backers of the legislation were mostly interested in banning strikes that were effective.

MOVES CAUTIOUSLY INTO FLAMES

An Air Force recruiting sergeant hastens to move an auto parked beside a U.S. Navy station wagon set ablaze by demonstrations in San Francisco, protesting the renewed bombing of North Vietnam. Some 1,500 took part in the demonstration yesterday. Across the bay folksinger Joan Baez led 200 protesters at the Alameda Naval Air Station. Seventy persons were arrested during the two rallies — 29 in San Francisco and 41 at the naval station.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

War On Leftists

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — Uruguay's war on leftist guerrillas flared again yesterday as security forces chasing terrorist suspects killed seven persons and wounded two others in a gun battle outside a Communist Party social club in Montevideo.

The victims were all members of Uruguay's Communist party. Police sources said after the battle that the dead had no records of subversion, leading to considerable controversy over the killings, which brought to 19 the number of persons slain in four days of fighting between security forces and Tupamaro terrorists.

Rejects Offer

GENEVA (UPI) — The West today turned down a Soviet proposal for an immediate ban on all chemical weapons because the measure excludes verification steps to prevent cheating.

British disarmament negotiator Henry C. Hainworth said both Western and non-aligned countries would want assurance of compliance before signing such a treaty.

Film Editor Hijacks Airliner

CHICAGO (UPI) — A man described as a "drifting film editor hard up for money" hijacked a Miami-to-Chicago Delta Air Lines plane yesterday, but surrendered meekly to authorities about 40 minutes after the jet landed at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

Greene

William Herbert Greene III, 30, of Berea, Ohio, was scheduled for arraignment today on air piracy charges.

He was arrested as he came out the door of the plane which was carrying 85 passengers and a crew of six.

Greene was quoted as saying he wanted "the standard extortion rate for a big jet, $500,000 in small bills."

SALT Talks Off

HELSINKI (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union canceled a planned meeting at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) today at the request of the Soviets, conference source said.

No reason was given but the sources denied that the postponement of the meeting until next Thursday had anything to do with the intensified fighting in Indochina.

Miners Hijack Plane

NUERNBERG, Germany (UPI) — Two Czechoslovakian miners hijacked a small twin-engine passenger plane carrying 11 persons on a flight from Prague to Marienbad today, forced the pilot to land at Nuernberg and asked for asylum.

Police said the hijackers fired shots aboard the pane and the copilot was hit in the chest. He was taken by ambulance to a hospital but police said he was not seriously hurt. The hijackers surrendered peacefully.

The hijackers were identified as Antoni Larik, 24, and Jan Dolesel, 27.

Rail Conference

LONDON (UPI) — National union chiefs met today to consider the possibility of a government crackdown on a railway workers' slowdown strike that has knotted Britain's transport system.

The cabinet of the Trades Union Congress, the over-all national labor organization, met leaders of the three railway unions fresh from their own meeting with Employment Minister Maurice MacMillan.

Political and union observers said a showdown between the Conservative party government and the nation's trade unions hung in the balance.

The strike was in its second day today.

At LBJ's Bedside

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's doctor flew in from Atlanta yesterday to try to determine the seriousness of a sudden burst of heartbeats Johnson suffered in the afternoon.

Dr. J. Willis Hurst of Atlanta was summoned to the Brooke Army Medical Center where Johnson is recuperating.

Sadat Says Egypt Can Repel Israel

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat warned Monday that an Israeli attack could come "at any moment" but said Egypt was prepared to repel any such strike.

In Israel air raid sirens sounded throughout the country, mourning its nearly 6,000 war dead in 25 years of statehood.

In a three-hour briefing to the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party, Sadat said his country was "in a state of complete preparedness because we expect an Israeli aggression, using the pretext of a preemptive war, at any moment. . ."

In his speech, carried by Cairo Radio, Sadat said of the prospects for a peace settlement: "The doors have been closed to all the solutions that meet our basic principles, due to Israel's arrogance and the American stance. We have taken the decision to enter the battle and this is final."

In Tel Aviv, Prime Minister Golda Meir in a speech to the relatives of fallen soldiers said the nation must never forget "why our children went to war and why they died" in the three wars since the 1948 war of independence.

Muskie, McGovern Would Pull Out All American Forces

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Charging President Nixon has "broken" his promise to end the Indochina war, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie has said he will pull all U.S. forces out of the war within 60 days if he is elected President.

Muskie and a rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. George S. McGovern, cricitized administration war moves in campaign appearances Monday.

Muskie, in an address at a Washington fund-raising dinner, said his only condition for ending the war would be the release of American prisoners and an accounting by the Communists for men missing in action. He announced he would broadcast a major speech on the war on Pennsylvania television stations tonight. The Pennsylvania primary is scheduled one week from today.

McGovern, campaigning in Massachusetts which also will hold its primary April 25, promised a quick and total withdrawal of American forces from Southeast Asia. He predicted expanded U.S. bombing of North Vietnam would move the Communists away from the peace table.

"If anything," McGovern said, "the stepped up bombing will only serve to unite the will of the Viet Cong in the same way as continued Nazi raids over England united the British in World War II."

In other political developments:

—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Muskie's main foe in the Pennsylvania primary, pledged he would propose a total overhaul of the federal tax system within the first 100 days of his administration if he is elected President. At Philadelphia, Humphrey charged income tax forms "make crooks out of taxpayers" and are so complicated "it takes a college degree" to fill them out.

—The Democratic National Committee issued a 104-page review of its case against the re-election of President Nixon which accused Nixon of coming close "to playing politics with our prisoners of war."

—Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace said at Pittsburgh he would do better in Pennsylvania "than most experts think." Originally, he had not planned to campaign in Pennsylvania but said he revised his plans after receiving "many requests" to appear in the state.

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said at New York City the administration was clinging to "unwise economic policies" and has failed to stem inflation and substantially reduce unemployment.

HEY MR. TAXPAYER! YOU'RE WANTED!

If you're tired of politically appointed government agencies making decisions that will cost you millions of dollars, if you're frightened of regional authorities that don't have to answer to the electorate . . .

YOU CAN BEGIN PUTTING A STOP TO IT . . . NOW

By Attending & Protesting the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District's Public Hearings On A Ferry Boat Grant Application before the U.S. Government's Urban Mass Transportation Administration Wednesday Night, April 19 — at 8 p.m. Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza Administration Building.

WHY SHOULD YOU BE THERE? BECAUSE . . .

- An expanded ferry system will increase an already admitted annual operating deficit for buses by $1.5 to $1.9 million.
- The Bridge District is grabbing 50% of the new Gas Sales Tax Revenues. Marin County, alone, will lose $4.5 million in the next five years.
- The District spent $10 million on buses to transport over 6000 people a day. Now, it wants to spend $19 million to transport just 2000 people by ferry.
- Since the new bus system, ferry commuters have declined 25%.
- Users of the Bridge and buses may well pay for the increased ferry deficit by higher tolls and fares.

Evidence will be presented that the District already has plans to raid new revenues which should be available to cities and counties to offset rising property taxes.

Proof of the high cost of the ferry folly will be made public at the hearing. Ferryboat advocates will be there, too. But, it will be you, not the few ferry riders, who will pay the cost of the Great Ferry Boat Boondoggle.

ATTEND THE HEARINGS — This may be your last chance to be heard.

No Decision On Big Development

The Corte Madera Planning Commission, after listening to three and a half hours of discussion and complaint last night on the first part of the Madera del Presidio development, adjourned without making any decision.

It called a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. April 26 to continue deliberation on the proposed development.

About 90 Corte Madera residents attended the meeting, with about 30 standing in the rear of the crowded council chamber.

The parcel in question is known as Sunset Park of Marin, and will be developed by Harter and Odenthal Investment Co. of Orinda, in conjunction with Cal-West Communities, a Palo Alto firm.

Representatives of the development companies presented their plans for placing 142 units on 25 acres of the 75-acre site. Eventually 530 units are projected.

The developers said four basic architectural designs will alternate through the project. They also said they plan to build a pool, terrace and cabana and four tennis courts — two for Corte Madera residents and two for the exclusive use of the Sunset Park residents.

Later in the meeting, in response to complaints of density, the developers pointed out that this would be the most dense part of the whole project, and while there is not a great deal of open space in this section in the whole package 64 per cent of the land would be vacant.

Warner R. Odenthal said prices of the proposed units would range from $27,000 to $36,000.

Three neighboring residents have vowed a referendum campaign on the prezoning of the parcel, objecting to the density and design of the whole project.

Alfred E. Smyth of 36 Estrada Lane, a professional fireman, charged that "if there are two house fires in that area, there's no way they're going to be put out."

Smyth said all professional fire fighting organizations in the state, and he ticked off five, recommend a response of 12 men and three pieces of equipment within three minutes of a call. He said "Corte Madera doesn't approach that now and won't come close with 142 more units," even with the six new firemen the council has agreed to hire.

Commission chairman C. William Thomas said that is not a planning commission concern, that the commission must continue to act unless a moratorium is declared on all property in the town by the town council.

Morgan L. Griffiths, an architect, and chairman of the Corte Madera Board of Design, set the stage for stormy hearings before that board when he characterized the development as "a step backwards for housing in Corte Madera, but it'd be great for barracks at Fort Cronkhite."

Griffiths said the density of the development (8.9 units per acre, over 75 acres) would "change the whole character of Corte Madera," and proposed cutting the number of units on the site in half.

During their presentation of the proposal, the developers mentioned "massive open space" at one point as an advantage of a planned unit development.

Dr. Wendell R. Wilkin of 73 Sonora Way, questioned the lines of sight through the development at eye level, and Griffiths said all people would see would be buildings, illustrating his point with a plot plan. Wilkin asked "You mean we won't see the massive open space?" and drew a laugh from the crowd.

The issue of schools arose when the planning commission read a letter received from the Mill Valley School District yesterday afternoon, estimating that 162 children would eventually enter the system from the development, and requesting a contingency school site on the property.

Warner R. Odenthal, one of the principal developers, said his firm had received assurances from Mill Valley school officials as long as 18 months ago that no space would be needed for schools. He said three possible contingency sites had been found in the development, and two existed on adjoining undeveloped land.

Sonoma Out Of ABAG, In New Unit

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors officially withdrew from the Association of Bay Area Governments yesterday in favor of a new regional grouping with counties to the north.

The supervisors, after the unanimous vote, said the withdrawal was in accordance with the countywide bllot last April in which voters by a 3-1 margin told the supervisors to withdraw within a year.

The board gave chairman Henry Spomer authority to sign a joint powers agreement with Mendocino County for the new regional group, which Humboldt and Del Norte counties are also expected to join.

The supervisors had attempted to withdraw from ABAG before, but were denied permission by the state council on intergovernmental relations. The council reversed itself in a vote Wednesday, paving the way for the new association which will have the same powers as ABAG to process state and federal grant applications.

Carrier Scrapped

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— The 888-foot aircraft carrier Princeton has been towed up the Willamette River where it will be scrapped. The Princeton, a 27,000-ton Korean War era carrier, acted as prime recovery ship for the Apollo 10 space mission.

Street Alternative Sought By District

Marinwood Community Service District directors last night asked Marin County and City of Novato planners to find an alternate to making Las Gallinas Avenue a main thoroughfare between Northgate and Pacheco Plaza.

Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager, said the directors agreed that proposals to extend the avenue from its northern end in Marinwood to the shopping center area in southern Novato would put too much traffic on a residential street. Board members ordered a letter written, calling for new frontage roads to provide an alternative to Highway 101 for north-south traffic.

Mrs. Bolding said the directors may discuss the problem further at an adjourned meeting May 9, if their letter draws any reaction from county and Novato officials.

Marinwood Community Services Board Also:

ADJOURNED — Set discussions for the May 9 meeting on the report of the board's salary and fringe benefits committee (submitted but not discussed last night) and on the preliminary fire department budget and 10-year fire protection plan.

COUNTY FARM — Voted to question county officials to see if funds will be included in the 1972-73 county budget to bring the old county farm complex up to standards making it acceptable for annexation to the Marinwood Fire District. The transfer has been delayed for years, pending improvements, Mrs. Bolding said.

OPEN SPACE — After extensive discussion, decided that the district should concentrate on local open space needs, rather than take a stand fgr or against formation of a regional park district.

RAISE — Approved a step in grade raise to Fireman William Doyle, to $788 a month.

RECREATION — Approved the summer program budget and pay schedule, and expressed support informally for more team activities. Reduced the overhead charge against the swimming pool budget from 20 per cent of pool revenues to 10 per cent.

Magazine Editor Honored Again

"Newsman of the Year" honors have been awarded Don Keown, editor of the Independent-Journal's Marin Magazine, for the second straight year by trustees of the Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in Mill Valley.

The selection was based on a nationwide review of religious material published in lay and religious periodicals in the past year, of the seminary trustees' publicity committee. Trustees from 28 states participated.

The award, including a $100 prize, was based on Marin Magazine articles about the history and meaning of Christmas and Easter.

Last Member Of Manson Family Is Sentenced

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The last member of the "Manson Family" charged in the 1969 series of murders was sentenced Monday to life imprisonment.

Bruce Davis, accused of killing musician Gary Hinman and movie stuntman Donald (Shorty) Shea, was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Raymond Choate. He was convicted March 14.

Sausalito Resident Injured In Crash

Helen Evans, 30, of 604B Locust Street, Sausalito, was treated at Marin General Hospital for neck and back pains following an automobile accident in Sausalito Friday.

Details of the accident were not available.

Mother Finds Bomb In School

LIMA, Ohio (UPI)—A woman visiting her child's elementary school Monday on P-TA business discovered a ticking, homemade bomb and carried it down two flights of stairs and out of the school.

Mrs. Barbara Kontose found the bomb—made of three sticks of explosives, copper wire and an alarm clock taped to a plywood board—in a restroom of the 800-student school building.

The school was evacuated and police were called to dismantle the device. Officers said they have no clues to who placed the bomb in the school.

Ballistics Expert Continues Testimony

SAN JOSE (UPI) —A state ballistics expert told the Angela Davis trial today he was the last prosecution witness in the trial of San Quentin convict James E. McClain before the 1970 Marin County courtroom kidnapings and shoot-out.

Fred H. Wynbrandt, who testified Monday that hostage Judge Harold J. Haley was shot to death inside the kidnapers escape van, said under cross-examination today he had testified against McClain on Aug. 6, 1970.

The next day McClain, two other San Quentin inmates who were witnesses at his trial on charges of assaulting a guard, and an outside accomplice took Haley and four others hostage in Haley's courtroom.

McClain and Haley were among the four persons killed in a bloody gun battle outside the Marin County Courthouse.

Defense Attorney Howard Moore Jr. asked Wynbrandt today whether he had been a witness against McClain Aug. 6. Wynbrandt said he had. He said he was not in the court room the next day, however.

McClain was conducting his own defense before Haley, with convict Ruchell Magee on the stand and convict William E. Christmas in a nearby holding cell waiting to testify, when Jonathan Jackson, 17, smuggled guns into the courtroom to touch off the incident.

Wynbrandt testified Monday there was a "gaping hole" in Haley's head made by a blast from a shotgun with the muzzle extremely close or in contact with his face.

Earlier, 90 exhibits were admitted as state evidence, including six pistols, three rifles or carbines and three shotguns. All but one of the 12 guns were apparently recovered from the inside of the van.

Wynbrandt, who will be cross-examined by the defense today, told the court the van had 12 bullet marks—some entrance holes, some exit holes and some dimples from ricochets.

In addition to the shotgun blast, Haley was hit in the chest by a bullet from a .357 magnum pistol a kidnaper took from a deputy inside the courthouse.

Wynbrandt, chief of the bureau of technical services for the state Department of Justice, testified that the bullet that struck the judge was also fired from inside the van. He said two other slugs found in the van were fired from the weapon.

Four 'Town Meetings' On Tap

The first of four "town meetings" sponsored by Marin Municipal Water District will be held for the San Anselmo area at 8 p.m. Thursday in room 104 at Drake High School.

The schedule for the other three meetings is as follows:

San Rafael area, May 4, San Rafael High School cafeteria.

All meetings will begin at 8 p.m.

The meetings have been scheduled to enable the citizens of Marin County to discuss with the district board and staff future water supply problems and solutions.

Following the four town hall meetings, a district-wide symposium will be held from 9:30 to 1 p.m. May 20 in Olney Hall at College of Marin.

Some Veterans Face Loss Of School Benefits

The Marin County Veterans Service officer has warned that some veterans will lose their G.I. educational benefits in May 1974 if unused by that time.

James V. Burdick said veterans affected by the 1974 date are those discharged between Jan. 31, 1955, and June 1, 1966.

The expiration date is fixed by a 1966 law which extended eligibility to post Korean War veterans with service between 1955 and 1966. Those discharged after June 1966 are not immediately affected, he said.

Additional information may be obtained from Burdick at Room 424 of the Civic Center Administration Building.

Deadline Set For Queen Race

Entrants must be between 16 and 21 years of age and either a Marin County resident or student at Tomales High School.

The girl who compiles the most points by selling tickets will be crowned during the show, June 17 and 18. She also will receive a $500 scholarship, clothing and a trip to Disneyland.

Entries must be filed with Doris (Scotty) Mendoza of Inverness.

Larkspur Man Robbery Suspect

Richard Dean Guendner, 21, of Larkspur was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on an armed robbery charge stemming from a hitchhiking incident in Larkspur Saturday.

Guendner was to plead to the charge today.

Larkspur police said Guendner was given a ride by a Tiburon man in front of the police station. He allegedly grabbed the driver by the neck and threatened him with a knife, then robbed him of $75, police said.

Special Meeting Set By Planners

The Bolinas Planning Group last night set a special meeting for Bolinas residents only at 8 p.m. Monday in the Bolinas Mesa clubhouse to discuss the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

The Bolinas Group also completed plans for a community questionnaire on area planning problems, according to member Judith Weston. A trial run to evaluate residents' reaction to the questionnaire will be made this week, she said. After the results of questioning 50 residents are tallid, the questionnaire may be revised at next Monday's meeting, before extending the survey to all Bolinas residents.

Youth Admits Burglary Count

Sentencing was set for May 30.

Tristano was arrested Jan. 4 after he allegedly broke into the San Geronimo residence of a San Francisco doctor.

Health Conference

The board of directors of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County will meet at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow in the Coral Room of Marin General Hospital, to discuss a Marin County health facilities and services plan.

Meeting Canceled

The regular meeting of the Reed School District Board set for tonight at 8 o'clock has been canceled for lack of a quorum.

Arrigoni To Speak On Environment

Peter R. Arrigoni, chairman of the board of supervisors and running for reelection from the Second District, will speak on "What is Being Done to, or for Our Environment?" at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Burgar Hall of Fairfax Community Church in Fairfax.

The occasion is an observance of Earth Week and cosponsored by the Fairfax Community Church and St. Augustine's Episcopal Church.

A series of coffees have been scheduled for Arrigoni, all at 8 p.m. at the following homes: this Thursday, Virgil L. Jensen, 16 Blackhawk Drive, San Anselmo; next Tuesday, Lester A. Bricca on Sylvan Lane, Ross; April 26, Russell W. LaBelle and Harry Allens at LaBelle's home, 21 Crane Drive, Sleepy Hollow, San Anselmo; April 27 Peter Hunter and Alan Bradys at the Hunter home at 850 Bolinas Road, Fairfax.

He will also appear at a candidates night Friday at 8 p.m. at the Fine Arts Building at the College of Marin. Another candidates night has been scheduled for 8 p.m. April 29 at the same place.

Subdivision Plan Is Proposed

Belvedere Planning commissioners last night recommended to the city council that a planned small subdivision at the end of Belvedere Point be allowed only one access from Belvedere Road.

The subdivision proposal has been discussed by both the city council and the planning commission for nearly two years, according to commission secretary William H. Rafter.

He said the commission adjourned its meeting until April 24 at 8 p.m. in order to discuss recommendations of a planning study on Belvedere Cove.

A San Anselman Faces Pot Count

A San Anselmo man was arrested early today on suspicion of marijuana possession after he was stopped about 3 a.m. on Highway 101 near Paradise Drive by California Highway Patrol officers who said he had been driving erratically.

Jessie P. Wagonet, 24, of 15 Brookmount Circle, was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court to answer to the charge.

Officers said when they approached his car, they could see a container of what appeared to be marijuana.

Pot Suspects Are Arraigned

Two San Rafael youths arrested Sunday on suspicion of marijuana and liquor violations were arraigned in Marin Municipal Court, then released without bail.

Billy R. Dennis, 18, of 53 Glenaire Drive and Douglas W. Pusakr, 19, of 224 D Street were ordered to return to court Monday to plead.

The pair were arrested by the highway patrol about 1:30 p.m. near the Corte Madera offramp on Highway 101 when the car driven by Puskar appeared to be traveling erratically. A substance thought to be marijuana and a can of beer were found in the car, according to the highway patrol.

Youth Charged In Pot, Alcohol Counts

Peter Austin Schober, 18, of 53 Santa Maria Drive, Novato, is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday on suspicion of possession of marijuana and alcoholic beverage.

Schober was arrested by Novato police at Pioneer Memorial Park at 10:17 p.m. Saturday for reportedly possessing a can of malt liquor. Officers said they discovered a plastic bag containing what appeared to be marijuana and a hand-rolled cigarette when they searched Schober. He was booked and posted $300 bail.

Administrators' Pay Hiked In Tamalpais

The Tamalpais Union High School District board last night voted 4-1 to raise the salaries of its superintendent and assistant superintendent by 5 per cent.

The contracts will raise the salary of Supt. Wilbur D. Hawkins from $30,000 to $31,500 and Asst. Supt. Robert D. Torrey from $26,000 to $27,300, retroactive to July 1, 1971, pending Pay Board review.

Corlett questioned if the board could grant retroactive raises at all, and the board said it would consult Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino on the matter.

Corlett also questioned why the superintendent and assistant superintendent should receive a 5 per cent raise when the staff only received a 4.8 per cent increase. Hawkins said the board took the position that staff increases are guaranteed every year by their contracts, where administrative salaries are not.

Corlett also objected to multiple year contracts in general, Hawkins said today. The superintendent's contract runs from July 1, 1971 to June 30, 1975. The salary voted him last night applies to the 1971-1972 school year.

The Tamalpais Union High School Board also:

AUTOS — Reacted favorably to a suggestion that it permit local police departments to issue citations against cars illegally using campus areas around any of the district's schools. The item will be back for adoption May 1.

SUBSTITUTES — Heard a report from Hawkins that the district spent $91,009 last year for substitute teachers. He said he hoped to cut that by $21,000 this year by holding meetings after school instead of during school hours.

FIRINGS — Heard Hawkins report that of 52 teachers originally slated for release, all but 16 would be kept.

CALENDAR — Unanimously adopted a 1972-73 school calendar, which did not include a half-day holiday on Martin Luther King's birthday, as had been requested.

DEVELOPMENT — Adopted, with Trustee Bette Wallace abstaining, a staff development policy encouraging teachers to increase their skills through workshops, courses and travel.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $51,140 contract to Neil T. Burton of Kentfield to build walkways and install lighting on the Tamalpais High School campus.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Frank Mulholland administrative director at Sir Francis Drake High School for the 1972-73 year.

AUDIT — Awarded a $7,500 contract for a district audit to Main Lafrentz and Co.

But committee liberals said they would not be bound by the limitations that Flanigan demanded as a condition of his appearance and served notice they would continue to press for testimony from other White House aides —including William E. Timmons and Herbert G. Klein.

Eastland said he would call a closed meeting of the committee to discuss Flanigan's offer and whether other White House witnesses should be called. With Ervin's support, however, it appeared virtually certain that Flanigan would testify under the conditions he laid down.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that if Flanigan testifies "I will feel absolutely no constraints by the conditions he has established in the letter." Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., said he would continue to insist that other White House aides who have been mentioned in previous testimony be asked to appear.

The new demands followed testimony Monday by Richard J. Ramsden, a Wall Street financial analyst who was hired by Flanigan to write a report on what would happen if ITT was forced to divest itself of Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

Earlier in the investigation both McLaren, a federal judge who once headed the Justice Department's antitrust division, and Kleindienst testified their decision to reverse department policy and settle the suit.

BANKS

houses, sellers of travelers' checks and credit card companies whose cards can be used in foreign companies also will be required to keep customer records, expected to be tested in court on constitutional grounds.

The regulations, expected to be tested in court on constitutional grounds, are enabled under the Bank Secrecy Act, signed by President Nixon last year. The legislation was said to have been intended as a means of cutting drug traffic and gold trading by keeping track of U.S. dollars in international transactions, although bankers had expressed concern it would extend to domestic bank dealings.

A precursor to the regulations came in a memorandum obtained by Capitol News Service in Sacramento, which filed a story in March with subscribing newspapers, including the I-J. The memo, which essentially revealed what has now come to pass, is believed, however, to be a bank's interoffice document.

The I-J's publication of the Capitol News Service report brought widespread complaint of "big brother" tactics from Marin residents, officials and at least one banker.

POLICY

day in favor of cutting off U.S. financing of the war at the end of this year. He testified in a public session after appearing earlier in the morning at a private session of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

As for reports from Saigon that Nixon had ordered a halt to bombing of the Hanoi-Haiphong areas, Laird told reporters prior to his testimony that there was "no substance to tuch a report."

Another high administration official said, "What we will say is everything is open as clearly stated by Secretary Rogers — that we will do whatever is necessary to thwart invasion.

The Foreign Relations chairman, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., as he did on Monday while questioning Secretary of State William P. Rogers, was highly critical of U.S. Vietnam policy. He said in an opening statement:

"Apparently President Nixon thinks he can accomplish with air power alone what his predecessor failed to accomplish with air power ... and more than 500,000 American men."

Responding to questions by Fulbright, Laird said American commanders in Vietnam had the authority to order air attacks "below the DMZ (demilitarized zone), in the DMZ and above the DMZ," and he said those raids were continuing.

"The authority is there to develop as the tactical situation warrants," he said.

Laird said the North Vietnamese had "flagrantly" violated a 1968 agreement not to attack the South across the DMZ.

"Their (the North Vietnamese) decision to violate the 1968 understanding, to move divisions across the DMZ ... was something I could not explain and I will not try to give a reason to this committee for this violation, this flagrant violation," Laird said.

Both Rogers and a high administration source said, that no American ground troops would be re-introduced into South Vietnam.

Other officials also said Hanoi and Haiphong had not been necessarily ruled off limits to bombers.

WAR

—Sunday somewhere in the Gulf of Tonkin. One sailor was killed and nine injured.

Both ships were knocked out of action.

Radio Hanoi said five U.S. ships were set afire by Communist shore batteries.

On the ground, Viet Cong took control of all except the principal village in Hoai An District (county) in Binh Dinh Province, 290 miles north of Saigon on the central coast. Viet Cong also burned four refugee hamlets in the next northern province, Quang Nhai.

Communist gunners shelled the Quang Tri combat base and artillery base Pedro in Quang Tri province where the offensive began March 30.

Capt. Charles Clarkson, 87, a retired sea captain and civic leader, died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness.

Clarkson had been a resident of Novato since 1945 when he retired after 22 years as a chief surveyor for the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific in Seattle, Wash.

He was a native of South Africa and went to sea on sailing ships at the age of 15. He jumped shipin San Francisco in 1901 and worked at odd jobs until he joined the Revenue Service, forerunner to the Coast Guard, and served aboard the Revenue Cutter Bear.

Captain Clarkson served in the Merchant Marine as a quartermaster. He then gold prospected in Nevada and then became captain of a private yacht berthed at Belvedere.

In 1911 he was third officer on a supply ship for the Army and went to Cuba to participate in the raising of the Maine. While in Cuba he heard of land available in Novato and purchased 10 acres, sight unseen, for $2,500.

During World War I, he served in the Navy and reached the rank of lieutenant commander.

He and his wife, Retta, who survives him, moved to Novato in 1921 and to Vancouver in 1926.

Clarkson was a member of the Marin County Personnel Commission for 10 years, a director of the Marin County Farm Bureau, a director of Novato Community Inc., chairman of the Marin County March of Dimes in 1958 and a member of Oriental Lodge 144, Free and Accepted Masons of San Francisco.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Novato Presbyterian Church. Private burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

CECIL C. NEILSEN

Funeral for Cecil C. Neilsen, 81, a retired laundry worker, will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral home, Petaluma.

Mrs. Neilsen died Saturday at a local hospital after a lengthy illness. She was born in Stratford, Iowa and was reared there and in Wisconsin.

BRITISH TROOPS BRAVE IRA SNIPERS

Hijacked lorries burned outside a police station in Belfast, Northern Ireland, where British troops braved sniper fire for the third straight day today while using bulldozers to clear barricades set up around Roman Catholic areas by the Irish Republican Army (IRA). A British army spokesman said today five gunmen had been hit during a gunbattle in the city's Turf Lodge area, home of a slain IRA officer. The spokesman said there were no British casualties.

Las Colindas Subdivision Protested

By BRUCE MARTIN

It was all too much for the proposed 16-lot subdivision to overcome during last night's meeting of the San Rafael City Council. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 1.)

Nearly every seat in the council chamber was filled as a string of protesting residents, a 212-signature petition and a moratorium plea were heard by the council which, in the end, denied an appeal to allow 16 residential lots at the north end of Wintergreen Terrace.

The subdivision plan, labeled Las Colindas Unit II, was located on 162 acres of land between Las Colindas and Lucas Valley roads. The plan by owner Jerome Meislin divided the area into 17 lots, the 17th to be 152 acres of open space.

The petition, presented by Carolee Krieger of 618 Las Colindas Road objected to dangers in "preparation of the land" and cited "an increased traffic hazard if more people live" near the intersection of Las Colindas and Wintergreen Terrace.

Jean Starkweather, of 612 Las Colindas, a teacher, presented a sample of the plant life she said would be endangered if a subdivision were built on the marshy and sloped 10 acres. And Lynn Parker of 641 Las Colindas worried about an underground runoff during rainy seasons and how it might affect his and other properties directly south of the subdivision.

Parker also expressed concern about "what any development will do to the hill above us."

A group called the Terra Linda Springs Homeowners Association, represented by A. W. Hoke of 915 Las Ovejas Avenue, then asked that the council impose a 90-day moratorium on the subdivision before making any decision.

"The area presents unusual underground conditions," Hoke said, adding that the conditions thereby create unusual problems for nearby homes. He gave garage flooding as an example.

"We're requesting time for soil studies and geographical analyses," Hoke said.

A spokesman for Murray and McCormick of Novato, representing owner Meislin, said water runofff would be intercepted by drainage provided for in subdivision plans. He added that the plan complied with all city ordinances, and that all services and utilities would be available, including police and fire protection.

City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr., in response to a question from Mayor C. Paul Bettini, said the subdivision as planned could handle rain drainage.

Some residents had asked a 40-foot easement for a thoroughfare, extending eastward about 600 feet from the end of Knockaboul Way to Wintergreen Terrace, thereby providing what Caillouette called "better circulation of traffic."

"It looks kind of Mickey Mouse," Bettini said of the lack of thoroughfare.

In denying the appeal, the council unanimously had decided that the street should be extended and that soil studies should be made.

San Rafael Council Approves Annexation

The San Rafael City Council last night added to the city six acres of what up till now had been known as the El Marinero Annexation.

The city envisions the property, located east of Highway 101 between North San Pedro Road and San Pablo Avenue, as being ultimately developed for office facilities. The site is adjacent to the Civic Center.

The council's vote was unanimous to add the property whose assessed valuation is $146,625.

At its previous meeting, the council had prezoned the property from planned commercial to administrative-professional.

Paul K. McMullen, who on April 3 was appointed by the council to fill a vacant San Rafael Board of Education seat, was sworn into office on April 10, city clerk Marion Grady reported last night. McMullen was to have been sworn in at last night's meeting but because of a school board meeting on April 11 he was sworn in early, she said.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

LUCAS GREEN — Unanimously approved the 59-acre Lucas Valley Annexation, an uninhabited site for the proposed Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co. western computer center.

CONTRACT — Put off until May 15 the awarding of contracts for improvement work in East San Rafael Drainage Assessment District No. 1 because an expected Army Corps of Engineers permit had not yet been received. Bids were opened earlier in the day for purchase of $2.2 million in bonds, with United California Bank the lowest of three bidders with a 6.0172 per cent interest rate on behalf of Gibraltar Securities Co.

Berryessa Lake Plan Criticized

A federal plan eventually to phase out private resorts in favor of public recreation at Lake Berryessa in Napa County was criticized by some and praised by others yesterday during two Marin County hearings.

The hearings, held during the afternoon and evening at the Marin Civic Center, were part of a series being staged by federal officials to test public reaction to a National Park Service plan.

The hearings drew only sparse attendance — about 30 persons each.

Basically, the plan calls for seven resorts on the west side of the lake to be phased out and replaced with expanded "day use" facilities for the public.

Private development around the Bureau of Reclamation lake has been increasingly the center of controversy in recent years as resort owners have encouraged mobile home park development.

Such development has been allowed through a leasing arrangement among the federal government, Napa County and the resort owners or concessionnaires as they were referred to yesterday.

Most of those opposing the federal plan, such as David R. Munro of Mill Valley, said it was unfair to the resort owners who have developed recreational facilities at the lake at no cost to taxpayers.

He and others pointed to the multimillion-dollar expenditure required under the federal plan.

Jeff Hudson of San Rafael countered, however, that the picturesque setting of the lake is being destroyed by development.

Hudson, one of about six persons to speak yesterday afternoon, said he was horrified by what he found there on his first and only trip to the lake.

"There's nothing there to draw me back," he told the hearing board, made up of officials from the National Park Service, Bureau of Reclamation and Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

He urged the mobile homes be banished and the area returned to public use.

Stinson Fire District To Be Upgraded

Marin Municipal Water District or Stinson Beach County Water District may buy Stinson Beach Water Company in order to upgrade it and improve fire protection in Stinson Beach.

Marin Municipal will be the first agency approached and asked if it is interested, according to Proctor Jones, vice president of the Stinson Beach County Water District.

He said an engineering report made to a joint meeting of his board and that of the Stinson Beach Fire Protection District Friday revealed the water system does not have enough pressure to provide adequate fire protection. Water company officials, present at the meeting, said they would consider selling.

A joint committee of members from the two Sinson Beach boards will negotiate terms before June 1, Jones said.

The comapny services about 500 customers, he said, and by law it needn't have the high pressure required for fire use since it is a private company.

Taxpayers Group Is Against Ferry Fleet

Golden Gate Bridge District officials last night failed to gain support for their ferryboat fleet plans from directors of the Marin County Taxpayers Association.

Ashford D. Wood, taxpayers' association secretary, said Lowell Edington, chairman of the district board, conducted the meeting in the Marin County Civic Center. Bridge officials outlined their plans to seek an $18 million federal grant to finance purchase of a ferryboat fleet, he said.

The district speakers "confirmed that operating deficits would be more than originally expected and would exceed revenue from bridge tolls and transit fares," Wood reported.

"The bridge district did not answer the concerns of our association."

He said the association directors named their chairman, Donald M. Van Dyke, to speak against the federal grant application at a hearing at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the bridge district headquarters. The association board decided to stress that it will support district plans for bus transit service, but not the ferryboat proposals.

About 40 persons attended the two-hour meeting in the county planning commission chambers, Wood said, including a handful of bridge board members, the district's staff and directors and members of the taxpayer group.

Argument Over Divorce Ends, Wife Fires Shots

An argument over a divorce ended last night with a wife firing six shots at her estranged husband, but not hitting him, San Rafael police reported today.

Her estranged husband, Jarmen Andrew Smith, 32, of 400 Canal Street, Apt. 209, told police that he and his wife were in the process of getting a divorce, which she opposed. She came to his apartment about 10:45 p.m. and they argued, according to police reports.

Smith put his wife out the front door and a few moments later, she shot three bullets through the lower door and pieces of carpet were knocked into the air, he told police.

Another bullet went into a closet and through some shirts hanging in the closet until it fell onto the floor. Another shot was fired through the kitchen window and lodged in the refrigerator, police reported. The sixth bullet was not found.

Smith's roommate, James Peter Pozzi, fled out the back door when the shooting started and called police.

The bullets were .22-caliber, thought to have been fired from a rifle, according to police.

Greyhound Asks Fare Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Greyhound Lines-West has asued for a 13.5 per cent increase in its passenger fares and express rates in California.

The bus firm Monday filed an amended rate increase request with the state Public Utilities Commission, which granted Greyhound a 6.5 per cent hike last year.

The increase, which took effect last Nov. 23, was less than half of a 15 per cent hike which Greyhound had sought. It immediately asked the PUC for the remaining 8.5 per cent, but its Monday amendment raised the figure to 13.5 per cent.

The proposed increase would also apply to express shipments of Las Vegas-Tonopah-Reno stagelines, Orange Belt Stages, Peerless States, San Pedro Transit Lines and Vaca Valley Bus Lines.

Teen-Ager Hurt In One-Car Accident

Michael Robert Colombini, 14, of 50 Fair Drive, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with face and head injuries, suffered in a one-car accident Saturday.

He was a passenger in a car driven by his brother, Richard Gregory Colombini, 16, which went off Coleman Drive south of Vineyard Drive about 4:48 p.m., according to police reports.

Cliff Hanger By Bridge Ends Happily

Two Oakland brothers were hoisted to safety yesterday by rescuers after becoming stranded halfway down a 300-foot cliff at the north end of the Golden Gate Bridge.

A team of four California Highway Patrol officers, two military policemen, a Golden Gate Bridge worker and two Sausalito firemen worked to bring the pair up by rope after a Coast Guard helicopter had failed in its attempt to pluck them from the ledge.

The stranded men, Andre E. and William O. Woods, 19 and 22, along with their dog, Champ, had been trying to climb down the cliff face to get to the beach when they found they couldn't move in either direction.

Spotted about 3:20 p.m. by the highway patrol, they waited on the cliff face until the Coast Guard helicopter made its way toward them, but were unable to board it because of the danger of overhanging rocks and a swift updraft. The helicopter landed at the top of the cliff, and its crew assisted in ground rescue operations.

Richard J. Bettencourt of the Sausalito Fire Department's rescue squad tied a rope around himself, and was lowered over the side by the seven men. "I was a little worried myself going down on the rope," he said later.

Once there, he said, he tied the rope around one of the brothers and called for the rope crew to haul them up. He repeated the trip for the other brother, and the dog scrambled to safety on its own.

Needless Confusion About Water Supply

The forecast now is for intermittent rainstorms to continue for another month.

This is good news for Marin, where an unusually dry winter has posed the threat of unusually high summer fire hazards. It is bad news for owners of professional baseball clubs, already out of pocket plenty because of the players' strike and with attendance sharply down for the season's delayed opening.

Presumably it is good news for those who have been listening to the confusing information on "water shortage" put out by Marin Municipal Water District.

WITH RAINFALL only half of normal, MMWD general manager William R. Seeger a month ago talked about reservoirs being only three-fourths full, and suggested that some restrictions on water use might be necessary during the summer.

Questioned during a water board meeting last week, Seeger said he had never meant that water would be rationed. People might need to voluntarily limit use, he then said.

All this was confusing to those genuinely worried about the district's water supply. It was especially disturbing to the overwhelming majority who voted last year against a huge commitment by the district to bring Russian River water to Marin. Had they made a mistake? Was there really going to be a shortage?

AS SEEGER HIMSELF said during the campaign on the water district's Measure B last year, it would take three dry seasons — such as this one has been — following in succession to create an actual water shortage in the area served by MMWD.

Much of the confusion no doubt arose from the water district's report that reservoirs are "only three-fourths full."

The capacity of MMWD's reservoirs is more than 70,000 acre feet. The current annual water use in the district is 32,600 acre feet, according to figures put out by the district last year. Even in an extremely dry year, the "safe yield" is 34,000 acre feet — a little more than the current consumption, again according to the water district.

With the reservoirs three-fourths full, then, there is far more than enough water for the year's demand. Putting out scare stories about an impending shortage has served only to increase the doubts of Marinites about the credibility of MMWD —doubts which were shown at the polling places last November.

WE NEED MORE rainfall, because of the summer fire hazard. We should learn now to conserve water — a necessity which we in Marin have taken too much for granted. But if not another drop of rain fell until next fall, we would not face any water shortage this summer.

Marin Municipal Water District should try telling the plain facts. That perhaps should be the No. 1 requirement of the new "community relations director" the district plans to hire at a salary of $18,000 to $20,000 per year. It shouldn't cost that much to get the truth, but it would be worth it.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

No Effort Made To Correct Mobile Home Tax Inequity

By EARL G. WATERS

With all the discussions about tax reforms there is a large group of homeowners in the state who have so far escaped what would seem their fair share of the burden of government.

These are those who have taken to "mobile homes" as a mode of living. And there about 600,000 of these types of abodes permanently within the state.

No longer are these the migratory people of the great depression days. Today they are generally persons neither on the move nor financially strapped.

While many are retired, there are also many who find the modern mobile home a convenient place to raise their families. All look to local government for police, fire and other services. And the children attend the schools and use the public parks and recreational facilities.

TO MANY THERE IS a great inequity in this situation for the rest of the homeowners. For the total taxes paid upon these trailer homes in one year is only about $15 million. This is contrasted with the $2¼ billion paid by those living in single-family residences.

The reason for this is because the mobile homes are taxed in the same manner as automobiles. Each is registered with the State Department of Motor Vehicles. In addition to registration fees, the owner is charged an "in lieu" tax based upon the value of the trailer. The taxes are then distributed to the cities and counties of registration.

Los Angeles County, with about one-third of the state's population, realizes only about $1.5 million a year from these taxes, yet it has nearly 100,000 such homes. The same number of single-family homes are taxed somewhere around $70 million a year in local taxes.

The average home today is in the $20,000 cost range and is assessed at 25 per cent with an average $14 tax rate, which means the owner pays $700 property taxes.

Of course many of the trailer coaches are not in the $20,000 class. Those that are, which is about one-third of the total registered, pay only $340 taxes. But that is paid only if the mobile home is brand new. For the tax is on a depreciated scale and is reduced each year down to a minimum hardly worth mentioning. The depreciation period is 15 years for large "trailers" and only nine years for the smaller ones. The result of this tax schedule is that on the 600,000 coaches the average tax is only $25.

WHILE IT MAY BE said that since most of the trailer owners rent space in mobile parks they are indirectly paying taxes, the same could be argued for those renting apartments. The fact is that land used for mobile home parks is not assessed the same as land upon which permanent improvements have been made. The apartment dweller comes closer to paying his share of property taxes, albeit indirectly. In neither case, however, does the government consider rent payments as a form of property taxes for income tax purposes.

And it is hard to see the equity in a tax which, imposed upon a home that is nailed to the ground, is far greater than that made on a home of the same value which is theoretically mobile. It is also difficult to fathom the thinking which allows such an advantageous markdown in mobile home values while all others see their assessed values constantly being upped.

Despite this situation, which seems to be glaringly inequitable, no remedy has been advanced in property tax reforms so far proposed.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

We seem to have reached a point where many people no longer give a rap what is taught in their institutions or churches, or if they do, lack the intestinal fortitude to clean up elements of garbage that parade under the guise of education, openness or theological awareness. — Rev. Wry Reminder In Narrow Election Win

Novato Planning Commission Should Quit

An analysis of the recent Novato City Council election, which appeared in your excellent newspaper on April 12, concluded that the basic issue was growth. The issue is one of what kind of growth, if any. In my opinion, voter unrest stems mostly from the proliferation of apartments, townhouses, low income housing programs and social planning concepts approved and brought forth respectively, by our planning commission.

In this connection, I have today suggested to the planning commissioners that they resign now. It is important that the newly constituted council be free to create a new planning commission. Hopefully, the new members would be more qualified and more closely attuned to the wishes and the needs of Novato citizens.

Story About Shoot-Out Victim Resented

This letter is concerning the article about Donald Oliver in last Friday's paper.

I feel that a lot of unnecessary things were written, especially statements about Don's personal life, which should have been kept in strict confidence with his appointed psychiatrist.

I also think the picture of Don lying dead is unfair not only to Don, but also his wife.

I feel the writer of this article owes an apology not only to the readers of the I-J, but above all, Don's wife.

Much Contradiction On Water Supply

Recently there has been a great deal of contradictory information printed in the I-J regarding the "water shortage" which is facing Marin residents. As a voter against the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct, I am greatly concerned as to the exact status of our water supply.

I read in the I-J (apr. 13) that the reservoirs are at their same low level (75 per cent capacity) despite recent rains. In another part of the same edition, in response to a question by Dr. R. Stafford, M.D., Mr. Seeger is quoted as saying he "never indicated a serious water shortage." I assume your information comes from the MMWD, so why the discrepancy? Either the I-J is not reporting accurately or we are being misinformed by the MMWD.

If there is no shortage, then why the previous scare headlines? (Jan. 17, Water Rationing Looms for Marin; Apr. 6, Marin's Thirsty Reservoirs Not Helped by Late Rains)"

MMWD Priming Pump For New Bond Issue?

In November, 1971, Mr. Seeger, general manager of the Marin Municipal Water District, said it would take a three-year dry cycle to create a water shortage. In addition, he promised that an $11.5 million bond issue in 1970 (Proposition H) would supply our needs through 1975. Now, after one dry year, the MMWD has repeatedly warned in I-J headlines that we have a water shortage and that the probability of "water rationing" looms for this summer.

Because of obvious confusion from misleading water district reports, I asked the MMWD at their April 12, 1972, meeting whether we do in fact have a water shortage. As partially reported in the I-J (Apr. 13), Mr. Seeger stretched credulity by saying he had never suggested that a water shortage existed and that the newspapers had "misconstrued" information from the MMWD. In a classic non sequitur, Mr. Seeger said he never meant "water rationing" would be needed this summer. Instead he was suggesting that "voluntary water conservation" would be encouraged.

Surely the public deserves a more accurate account of what our water resources actually are. Is the MMWD priming the electorate for a revised standard version of the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct?

Marin EOC Fiasco Needs Investigation

After reading about Lomax and the Marin County EOC the past months in the I-J, with all its double-talk, alibis, cover-ups and mismanagement, I have reached the conclusion that this whole fiasco from the top to bottom has a very strong odor of an open barrel of rotten fish.

First, I blame the Marin County supervisors for not checking on the EOC months back when reports in the I-J stated that the EOC was not getting results with the federal funds being spent with no record of how they were being used.

On March 16, the I-J stated that Lomax was using EOC credit cards for his personal use and had not made a report of $62,000 which his office had received. This money has just faded away and Lomax and his staff claim they do not know where it was used, for what, or by whom.

The I-J editorial of Feb. 23 hit the nail right on the head by stating what a sorry mess this boondoggle has become. Instead of helping the poor, it has ended poverty only for those hired to run it. As a result, due to the lack of supervision and competence . . . the 27-member Marin County Economic Opportunity Council should be discharged for gross negligence.

Board chairman Robert Simmons and treasurer Chester Villalba claimed they did not know what Lomax and staff were doing, until the whole mess blew up in their faces. . .

To top this ridiculous situation, in the I-J of March 29 the EOC committee authorized the continued employment of the 25-member staff, even though the agency has no wgrking capital.

As of now this fiasco should be handed over to the grand jury . . . I hope that this investigation will not be swept under the rug as so many others have, here in Marin County.

Radio Free Europe Provides Issue Clouded By Emotions

WASHINGTON — One of those issues calculated to create the utmost ill will is before Congress, with the path to final decision sown with booby traps. Whether Radio Free Europe is a vestige of the cold war that should be closed out in light of the new Nixon approach to the Soviet Union or whether it is an invaluable window on the West for the peoples of Russia and Eastern Europe fed solely on government propaganda is the question.

It is an issue freighted with all the fears and suspicions of the past; the tragedy of refugees who have seen their homelands turned into prisons by Communist walls. Passionate partisans of RFE scoff at economizing by cutting off the $36 million for the operation. Their villain is chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who supported a bill providing funds for RFE only until the end of the present fiscal year on June 30. After that date its future is uncertain unless the administration acts quickly to push a new status for a further appropriation.

Fulbright points out that the cutoff date was initiated by Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey, a Republican member of the foreign relations committee. While Case is not enthusiastic about RFE, he would not oppose continuing it if some new framework could be estalbished.

HERE, IN MY OPINION, is an example of the cost of failing to grapple with a long-outmoded condition and simply letting drift take over. The Central Intelligence Agency provided the money for RFE for many years in a semi-secret fashion. A facade that public contributions supported both RFE and Radio Liberty was just that, since most of the money came from the CIA.

The time had long passed for the CIA to be in the business of operating a semi-clandestine propaganda station based in Munich. With the facts about CIA's involvement revealed, the moment was at hand to face up and ask Congress for a direct appropriation. The House Foreign Affairs Committee initiated a bill, later passed by the House, setting up a semi-governmental corporation to operate the two stations for a trial period of two years. That proposal died in conference when the conferees accepted the Case compromise for a June 30 cutoff.

What is the value of the broadcasts that RFE beams to the Soviet Union and the satellite states? Here intangibles galore enter in. The passionate partisans insist that the broadcasts keep alive the hope of dissent. The legislative reference branch of the Congress made a favorable report on RFE's operation which Senator Fulbright put in the Congressional Record.

But doubters believe the broadcasts are an irritant that stiffens the resistance of Communist governments to any dissent and make the lives of the dissenters even harsher than they would otherwise be. When Sec. of State William P. Rogers was before his committee, Fulbright repeatedly sought to draw him out on whether RFE and Radio Liberty were an impediment to any understanding with the Soviet Union. Rogers cited the series of agreements currently in the works, including the two-year cultural agreement just signed.

The CIA stopped funding the stations July 1, 1971, and the order from the top was to have no further connection with their operation. The CIA had done a study at the request of the Office of Management and Budget in the White House dealing solely with the cost of liquidating the operation. This would be considerable, since RFE has 2,600 employes, the majority refugees and many advanced in years.

WHY SHOULDN'T Germany share a part of the cost of the stations that broadcast from German soil? Or NATO? Why should the United States pick up the entire bill for RIAS, the radio station in Berlin with excellent programs mostly on the cultural side? These questions are being asked by Fulbright, Case and others as time runs out before the deadline when funds will cease.

There is a compromise which might assuage the partisan passions. That is for Congress to vote funds for an additional six months of operation beyond June 30. During that time a high-level panel to be named by the White House, perhaps jointly with Congress, would evaluate the broadcasts. The panel's report might take the matter out of the shot and shell of politics.

Middle-Sized Cities May Dominate America's Future

Our big cities are too big and our small towns are too small. The hope of the future lies in encouraging healthy growth of medium-sized urban areas of 50,000 to 500,000 population.

That viewpoint is rapidly emerging as a consensus among demographic experts and economists who are studying the nation's increasingly serious problem of population distribution. It was reflected in a recent report of President Nixon's National Commission on Population Growth.

CONSIDER THE PRESENT situation: Nearly 70 per cent of the American people are jammed together in metropolitan areas comprising less than 2 per cent of the nation's total land area. The remaining 30 per cent are scattered among 18,000 smaller cities and towns or in rural areas.

Of the 18,000 incorporated towns in America, about 75 per cent have fewer than 2,500 residents. In this day of fast automobiles and superhighways, a town that small simply is not going to make it economically. Its people will not settle for what's available in its stores when they can drive in an hour or less to a city with more extensive shopping facilities. Nor can such a small town support a decent hospital, adequate schools, or any degree of cultural life.

These very small towns — which, remember, account for three-fourths of all incorporated municipalities in America —are just kidding themselves if they think an industry some day will locate in their midst and turn them into boom towns. Industrial site-finders won't put a major plant in a place so small the employes would miss the shopping, entertainment, medical and educational facilities urban Americans have learned to take for granted.

TO SAY THAT very small towns are dying —and nothing is likely to revive them —is not to say that the only alternative is for Americans to keep crowding into big cities where they breathe polluted air, pay exorbitant prices, fray their nerves in traffic congestion, and generally get in each other's way.

The viable alternative, according to the national population commission, is to encourage the growth of hundreds of communities, much larger in geographical extent than the small towns of the past and much less dense in population than the big cities of the present.

Prof. Karl A. Fox of Iowa State University has coined the term "functional economic areas" to describe these living places of future America.

Each of them, as he sees it, would have a center city of 50,000 to 100,000 population, where most of the stores, hotels, restaurants, theaters, hospitals, etc. would be located. Surrounding this core city, for a radius of 25 to 50 miles (depending on commuting speeds), would be satellite towns and villages, none of them very large, but with an aggregate population of 100,000 to 400,000.

Industrial plants (and neighborhood shopping centers) could be located anywhere in the region. Studies show people today think little of driving 25 to 50 miles from home to work. Thus the whole area would function as a single economic unit, able to provide its people with most of the advantages of a good-sized city, but without the congestion and crime and pollution.

Is There Cost-Benefit Ratio In Ponying Up For Secrecy?

Four North Marin County Water District directors, past and present, have kept a promise at a cost of $42.50 each.

They paid the legal bill, $170, to appeal a superior court ruling that the district must release the names and salaries of employees to the Independent-Journal. (The cost was in addition to the regular retainer paid the water district's attorney.)

When they voted to appeal, the directors said they would pay the costs rather than charge the taxpayers from whom they were trying to conceal the information.

The fifth director, Frank V. Baggaclio, voted against the appeal and therefore didn't have to chip in.

The bill was paid by former directors Arnold Neise and Emil Renati and directors George A. Amaroli and Franklin Gustafson.

IT'S ENCOURAGING to report that public officials have lived up to their promises, but it might set a precedent for other public officials who are willing to pay for secrecy.

Such was the case in a community called Windy Willow when city councilmen shelled out $1,000 each to pay the fine for awarding contracts at a secret meeting.

When a newspaper revealed that the councilmen made $5,000 each on the contracts, the councilmen chipped in $10,000 each and bought the newspaper.

FOR ALL WE KNOW, someone in the League of California Cities might be working on a cost-benefit ratio on secret sessions.

For example it might be worth $15 each to councilmen to have a secret breakfast meeting on sale of City Hall, or school board members might be willing to pay $25 each to conduct a secret conference-telephone session on land purchase.

THE RECENT Novato City Council election with 11 candidates vying for three seats wasn't any secret, but it was mystifying to the extent very few people were willing to get out on a limb and make predictions.

Ruth Moscrop, a Novato astrologer, with the aid of the stars, accurately predicted that attorney Dorothy Young, a Capricorn, would win a council seat.

"The day before, I told her that Jupiter was on top of her sun and she would win," she said.

Working without the aid of the stars, Lieb not only picked all three winners, he picked them in order of finish.

Larkspur Council To Install

The Larkspur City Council, tonight will conduct a public hearing on grading permits for the top of Little King Mountain, after canvassing ballots, swearing in new councilmen and electing a new mayor and vice-mayor.

Reorganization will begin at 8 o'clock in city hall, when new council members Robert H. Lee, Joan Sestak and William G. Fleckles are seated.

At 9 o'clock the proceedings will move across the street to St. Patrick's Center, to accomodate the large crowd anticipated for the Little King hearing.

Since their inception last October, the latest plans for development of the Adolph A. Tiscornia estate have drawn strong criticism from the community.

The grading permits requested would level the top of the mountain, removing approximately 360,000 cubic yards of earth which would be used to fill 25 acres of land across Magnolia Avenue, next to Corte Madera Creek.

Mansion To Be Special School Site

The Marin County Zoning Administrator yesterday authorized the use of a 40-year-old mansion near Tiburon as an experimental school for elementary school children.

The Marin Learning Center, a privately funded foundation, plans using the mansion at 4480 Paradise Drive as a school for 25 youngsters 4 to 8 years old.

The students, from various ethnic and cultural backgrounds, would receive highly individualized attention from high school and college students under supervision of trained teachers. The school is expected to open in the fall.

The tower, to be operated by radio KTIM (Marin Broadcasting Co.), must still be approved by the federal government.

Two Headlines Are Transposed

Jeffrey O'Connell, author of the no-fault automobile insurance concept, criticized lawyers as "dilatory and extravagant operators." Morton Friedman, a trial lawyer, spoke for a group of attorneys who have launched what they hope will become a statewide campaign against no-fault insurance.

Neutral Ground For ITT Hearings: How About Deserted Stadium?

WASHINGTON — As of this writing, the Senate Republicans are trying to work out a compromise on the ITT hearings, which have become snarled over the question of whether Peter Flanigan and other White House aides can testify before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The problem seems to be a case of "executive privilege." The White House has refused, up until now, to allow any of its staff to testify before a congressional committee on Capitol Hill.

The compromise would be for Flanigan and anyone else in the White House to be questioned on "neutral ground," away from Capitol Hill. This would save face for the executive branch and at the same time placate those senators who refuse to confirm Richard Kleindienst as attorney general as long as the White House will not allow Flanigan to testify.

Jack Anderson has offered to lend his offices on K Street to the committee, but for some reason the Republicans have turned him down.

Someone has suggested questioning Flanigan under the cherry blossoms by the Tidal Basin. But the park department has refused a permit on the grounds that the hot air produced by the hearings could hurt the flowers.

Another idea was to hold the hearings in Lafayette Park across the street from the White House. But the objection to this location is that there are a lot of pigeons flying around the park at this time of year.

ITT has offered to let the committee use one of its Avis garages, but the Democrats feel it would downgrade the hearings if they held them in a car rental agency that is only number two in the business.

The stadium seats 60,000 people and would probably be sold out for a sporting event of this kind.

The witness stand would be at home plate, and the committee could sit around the infield. Questions would be pitched from the mound. Many people think the fans would pay as much as $10 a seat to hear Flanigan's version of how he became involved in the ITT business.

TO PLACATE the Republicans, who might feel the Democrats wanted to turn the hearings into a circus, it has been suggested that all receipts from the event be donated to the Republican National Committee to finance their convention in San Diego.

The promoters of RFK Stadium have added something to assure a big crowd. They would permit the fans to participate in the hearings. If they believed Flanigan answered a question truthfully, they would raise their thumbs up. If they felt he was hedging on a question, they would put their thumbs down.

On the basis of the thumbs, the Senate committee could decide whether Flanigan was telling the truth or not. At the end of the day, if the thumbs-up prevail, Flanigan could return to the White House. If the thumbs-down have it, he would have to fight the two giant pandas that Mao presented to President Nixon.

$2,500 Fine For Passing Bad Checks

Robert Lee Lissi, a 39-year-old salesman was sentenced yesterday to pay a $2,500 fine and spend two years on probation for three counts of passing bad checks in 1966 and 1967.

Following an agreement worked out in return for the guilty plea, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner decided against a jail term for Lissi, who had a previous arrest record.

"Certainly it is not rehabilitative to him to lose his job," the judge said. He then ordered the grey-haired salesman to pay installments of $125 a month from his monthly take home pay estimated at about $800.

Lissi had claimed the $140 in bad checks were the result of a misunderstanding. He told a probation officer he thought a company in which he had invested $30,000 was depositing payroll checks in the bankrupt account, which was closed out before the final bad check was written.

The case was delayed because a warrant issued for Lissi's arrest in May 1967 was not served until November 1971.

Teen Pleads Guilty To Girl's Death

In a negotiated settlement, Robert Brian England of San Anselmo pleaded guilty yesterday to killing a teen-age girl in Sleepy Hollow with his car, whereupon a charge of injuring the girl and her companion was dismissed.

In the agreement worked out between Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, England's attorney William O. Weissich and Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas, England will be sentenced to up to a year in jail and probation.

However, actual sentencing was set for May 30.

England, 19, was arrested March 11 on Butterfield Road near the body of Alene Toneff, daughter of former San Francisco 49er Robert A. Toneff of Sleepy Hollow.

She and a friend, Kimberly Painter, were walking home from a movie when they were hit by a car on the shoulder of the road.

England is now serving a six-month jail term for violation of probation which required that he not drive a car.

Two Ordered To Pay Legal Fees

By LARRY MOWELL

For the first time in Marin County, two men represented by the public defender were ordered yesterday to pay for the traditionally free legal service.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court made it a condition of probation that James M. Petersen, 24, of San Rafael and Marston Stone Uhl, 20, of San Geronimo each pay $300 attorney's fees to Marin County.

Petersen was also ordered to serve 90 days in jail and spend three years on probation for burglary and Uhl was also sentenced to six months in jail with credit for three months already served plus two years of probation. Each was required to undergo therapy for drug use.

Judge Gardiner said he ordered the two men to pay under a state law which went into effect March 4.

"I am required to explore the possibility in every case," he told the Independent-Journal. "That doesn't mean they will be required to pay," he added.

He said a person must show only that he can't obtain a private lawyer to retain the public defender, but the criteria for determining whether a person must subsequently pay for that service is different.

In the cases of Petersen and Uhl he found they were healthy and able to work for the attorney's fee although they were without funds yesterday.

Public defender Harold J. Truett told the judge the fees might have been too high. "My guess is probably on the average plea situation we spend on the average of 10 hours," he said. He estimated the cost at $20 an hour.

Petersen was sentenced after pleading guilty to burglarizing the Corte Madera office of Dr. John F. Erlwein on Jan. 27. In her probation report, Georgia Sells, deputy probation officer, said the "amateurish" attempt had been a "cry for help" at a time when his marriage was breaking up and he was trying to get off speed.

She said he had started on drugs while serving with the Navy in Vietnam.

Uhl pleaded guilty to possessing stolen property March 7 when a burglary charge was dismissed.

Uhl, who was described in court as a heroin addict, was arrested Nov. 24 by San Rafael police with items allegedly taken in burglaries Aug. 30 in Fairfax and Nov. 23 in Mill Valley.

Judge Gardiner said he could serve hs sentence in a drug rehabilitation program at Napa State Hospital.

Man Treated

Jerry Urban, 30, of 127 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael, was treated at 10:53 a.m. Saturday at Marin General Hospital for a broken left foot received, according to hospital records, in a car accident. Details of the accident were not available.

Students Drum Up Interest For Walk

San Marin High School students are drumming up interest in a 10-mile walk Saturday to raise money for parks and open space.

Members of San Marin High's Ecology Action Club are presenting a play entitled "Eco-man Saves the Day" at elementary and junior high schools and explaining the walk, according to Norma Todd, ecology club faculty adviser.

An art contest is being conducted in elementary schools and an ecology flag will be awarded to the school that has the most participants in the way, she said.

Walkers will start from the former Lee Brothers Market, Seventh Street and Grant Avenue, between 10 a.m. and noon with the walk expected to end at 4 p.m. The route goes west from the starting point and continues in a wide loop extending to Sutro Avenue, back to the downtown area and ends at the starting point.

Walkers will have sponsors who agree to pay them a certain sum for each mile they walk and the money will be placed in a special account to be used for park land and open space.

The walk, open to everyone in the community, is sponsored by the San Marin and Novato High School Ecology Action clubs.

College Motor Home Park Wins Approval

Plans for a motor home park for Sonoma State College students was approved last night by the Rohnert Park City Council as a partial answer to the need for low-cost housing.

In doing so, the council overturned the planning commission decision to deny the request of Alexis Tellis of the Octagon Corp. to provide 150 motor home spaces on four acres on East Cotati Avenue near the college.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the council vote was 3-2 with councilmen Jack Buchanan and Warren K. Hopkins dissenting.

Tellis was joined by a group of students and Sonoma State Housing Director John Simmons in supporting the plan. College president Thomas H. McGrath also sent a letter of support.

The council heard adjoining property owners including the Episcopal church oppose the plan, saying it would reduce land values.

Tellis said he planned to build a bath house for the students as well as a recreation hall and would set aside an area for gardening.

Nearly 100 students have been living illegally in various types of motor homes in an area known as Benson's Grove across the street from the college entrance. Tellis said the motor home trailer park would provide a place for these students where they could meet sewage and building standards.

The Rohnert Park City Council Also:

GENERAL PLAN — Asked that residents interested in serving on a citizens advisory committee to update the general plan notify city hall or council members.

BICYCLES — Endorsed the request of Sonoma State College for a bicycle path from Snyder Lane to the campus at an estimated cost of $5,000. Callinan said developers will be contacted for possible donations.

SCHOOLS — Tentatively set a joint meeting with the Cotati School District board for April 25 at the Carriage House restaurant.

ELECTION — Adjourned to today at 8 p.m. when newly elected councilmen will be sworn in and the mayor elected.

Strawberry Parents To Be Liable

Strawberry Recreation District directors last night decided to try to make parents pay for their children's willful destruction of district property.

The board took the action, according to recreation manager David E. Roberts, on advice of its attorney, Stephen H. Kaufmann, who said under California law the parents could be held responsible if the district passed a resolution stating that they would be.

Roberts said the recreation center has experienced some broken windows and minor damage from vandals.

He said the board also discussed plans for the Strawberry patch flea market, to be held June 3. Money from the event will go toward building a playground for small children adjacent to the recreation center.

Space for booths at the flea market is available, he said. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

The board adjourned to April 26 to hear a report from its attorney Stephen H. Kaufmann on property acquisition by the district.

Heroin Charge Gets Jail Term

Dale Welbourn, 37, of San Francisco was sentenced in Marin Superior Court yesterday to four months in jail for possessing heroin. Judge Samuel W. Gardiner also placed him on five years probation.

The district attorney recommended a suspended state prison sentence and a year in jail, but Judge Gardiner said the man's criminal record included no serious offense.

Welbourn was arrested Sept. 16 near the Marin Heliport with Julie Lee Harmon, 28, and Patrick Elmer Cox, 33, after alleged sales to narcotics agents. Agents said the trio was living in vans near the heliport.

Welbourn was originally charged with sale of heroin, but Miss Harmon was allowed to plead guilty to a reduced misdemeanor charge.

Five Plead Guilty To Pot Charge

Five persons arrested last June on marijuana charges changed their pleas to guilty of possessing the weed, whereupon two other charges were dropped in Marin Superior Court yesterday.

In a negotiated plea, Charlene Lorraine Johnson, 20, Mark Harrison Leroy, 20, Tauritz Reginald Woods, 24, and John Michael Whyte were allowed to plead to misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner sentenced each to four weekends in the county jail and ordered Woods to pay a $200 fine. The other three were fineh $100 each.

In the case of the fifth defendant, Scott Lea Holcomb, 22, the judge ruled the possession a felony and set sentencing for May 24.

Charges of being in a place where narcotics are used and having drug paraphernalia were dismissed against all five.

They were arrested June 29 after narcotics agents followed a suspect to the home prior to an alleged sale of cocaine in San Rafael.

Injuries Minor In Auto Accident

Jeanne A. Crivella, 65, of 179 Oak Drive, San Rafael, was to see her own doctor for bumps on the head received in a two-car accident yesterday, police reported.

Her car was northbound on Nye Street at 10:25 a.m. when it collided with one eastbound on Mission Avenue, driven by Jack Keith Coates, 53, of 380 Riviera Drive, San Rafael, according to police reports.

Ross School District Has Fund Deficit

The Ross School District Board last night made clear its intention to cover the Ross recreation program's budget deficit of $650 and fund the summer school program with $800.

Formal action on these matters was postponed to later meetings.

According to Supt. Thomas A. Anderson, the board heard a report from Hope Braghetta, chairman of the Parent-Teacher Association summer school committee, on present plans for this year's summer activities. Following the report, the board agreed to finance the program partially.

The board also heard a report from Judith Goode, co-chairman of the Ross recreation program, stating that the program's $650 deficit resulted from unanticipated workmen's compensation and social security expenses.

The board decided, according to Anderson, to cover the remaining deficit after private contributions were sought by the recreation program.

The Board also accepted donations of books, records, art prints and magazine subscriptions to the Ross Library from William Guerin, Gary Anderson, Gloris Ladd and the Stephen Smith family.

Board May Add Charges To Teacher

The Tamalpais Union High School District board will meet Thursday at 7:30 a.m. to consider amending the charges against English teacher Kenneth A. Anderson.

According to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins, the board will meet at Lyon's Restaurant, 189 Sir Frances Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae, to discuss adding two charges to the 10 lodged against Anderson. Hawkins declined today, to discuss what the new charges might involve.

The board initially voted May 13, 1971 to fire the 31-year old teacher, and has been attempting to do so ever since. March 16 attorneys from the district questioned Anderson about his possible involvement in three southern Marin bombings.

Four days later, March 20, the board hired attorney William O. Weissich to help Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino in the firing.

Hawkins said he expects all the necessary depositions in the case to be taken during the next two weeks, and the case will then go to trial. He made no estimate when the trial would actually begin.

To Elect Officers

The Marin County Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee, meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the county schools office in Corte Madera, will elect new officers and formulate policy for filling vacancies.

Garage Sale Control Fails In Petaluma

Plans for strict controls on garage sales fell by the wayside last night as the Petaluma City Council heard nearly two hours of complaints from housewives and homeowner groups.

After trying to amend the ordinance to make it more acceptable the council gave up entirely and voted to table it for at least a year. The ordinance would have limited residents to one garage sale per year and required them to buy a $3 permit from the police department to hold it.

City Clerk Lillian Nommsen said residents complained vigorously that the law would be an infringement on individual rights. Police Chief Larry D. Higgins had requested the ordinance and told the council it would help the department in recovering stolen items sometimes found at garage sales.

Residents said they believed the ordinance would have little effect on curbing crime since most sales are held merely to get rid of unwanted items and to make few dollars.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

GROWTH — Approved a policy setting a growth limit of 500 new living units per year and requiring developers to show that city and school facilities are or will be available for the proposed subdivision.

PARKING — Named councilmen Fred V. Mattei, John W. Cavanagh Jr. and Robert A. Brunner to meet with members of the downtown association to study the formation of a parking improvement district.

LA TERCERA — Heard City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer report that La Tercera Park should be complete within a year and that funds are available.

CHURCH Agreed to tour the Christian church recently acquired by the city and to consider possible uses for the building.

GRANT — Approved an application for a federal grant to help finance the $2 million project to enlarge the sewage plant.

PARKS — Heard Councilman Robert E. Daly report his committee will recommend that entire parks or recreation facilities should not be named for individuals unless required in the conditions of development.

BUDGET — Heard Meyer report the 1972-73 city budget will be presented at the June 12 meeting.

Jail Prisoner Attempts To Kill Himself

An Ohio man facing armed robbery charges in Marin Superior Court tried to kill himself in the Marin County Jail last night, according to sheriff's deputies.

They said Lloyd Leon Parsley, 27, of Dayton slashed his left arm and wrist and hung himself from the bars in his cell, but was cut down by deputies summoned by other inmates.

Parsley was rushed to Marin General Hospital by ambulance at 11:30 p.m. and treated for the wounds. He was also x-rayed to see if he had swallowed the razor blade, according to deputies.

He told deputies he tried to kill himself because he was highstrung and had nothing to live for.

Parsley and Robert Bell Holliday, 22, of Cincinnati were arrested March 28 after they allegedly robbed McDonald's Restaurant in San Rafael at gunpoint and fled with $240.

Police stopped their rented van a short time later as they tried to escape arrest.

A jury trial has been set for May 17 in Marin Superior Court.

San Anselmo Plans Festival Meeting

A meeting of the general committee of the Aug. 26 Country Days Parade and Festival in San Anselmo will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the community room of the Ross Valley Savings and Loan Association.

Merchants, members of the general public and people wanting to march in the parade are urged by the committee to attend.

Employee Is Suspect In Store Theft

An employee of Grand Auto in San Rafael, suspected of taking $1,004 from the store Friday night, yesterday surrendered himself and returned $850 of the money, San Rafael police reported today.

James Leland Prosser, 41, of 97 Clemente Court, Novato, was booked at Marin County Jail, then released on his own recognizance to appear today in Marin Municipal Court on suspicion of burglary and grand theft.

Store Mgr. Russell Henry Lathrop reported to police that someone had taken the money from the store safe sometime Thursday night or early Friday morning.

Police reported that there was no sign of forced entry and whoever took the money knew the combination to the safe which held the money.

New Status Wanted On Four Parcels

The Novato Planning Commission last night recommended that four large parcels of land in the Novato area be designated agricultural preserves.

The vote was 3-2 with commissioners Ben F. Edwards and James F. Picchi dissenting. Chairman John C. Schoonover and Beverly Ehreth were absent.

Recommended for agricultural preserves were the Burdell Ranch on San Antonio Creek, 680 acres; the Olompali Ranch, north of Novato, 700 acres; the Magetti Ranch, 1,800 acres, and the West property, north of Hamilton Air Force Base, 1,250 acres.

Commissioners opposed agricultural preserve status for the Nunes Ranch, north and west of San Marin, 400 acres, and several small parcels along Seventh Street extended between San Marin Drive and downtown Novato.

Commissioners also scheduled a work program on revision of the Novato Area General Plan, which calls for an interim revised plan by July 3, according to Mark Williams, planning technician.

After the interim plan is established, an environmental study would be undertaken, he said.

Commissioners adjourned until 8 p.m. Thursday when they will consider applications from 14 businesses for variances for nonconforming signs.

Power Tools Stolen

Power tools valued at $210 were taken between 4:35 p.m. Friday and 8:30 a.m. yesterday from Apt. 408 at 108 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael, LeRoy Russell Erickson, an employee of Damia and Sons Construction Co. of Burlingame, reported yesterday to San Rafael police.

Planners Approve Restaurant Permits

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night approved permits for two restaurants, both of which will feature health foods along with beer and wine on their menus.

In another action, Marius Cordone lost his latest attempt to have seven lots on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard rezoned so that appartments could be built there.

One of the new restaurants, the Zebedee, will be at 42 Redhill Avenue next door to the Lion's Share, and will feature such varied food as carrot burgers and fertile eggs along with more conventional fare such as hamburgers and clams bordelaise.

The planning commission told the owners, Lewis M. Whitney and Susan G. Strandgaard, that they must clean up the outdoor area, where food will be served in pleasant weather, and provide at least 10 off-street parking spaces.

The use permit will be reviewed in six months, according to Jeanne Wright, commission secretary. The commission also told the owners they cannot have live music or entertainment, she said.

The other restaurant use permit, given to Darris Bruhn, was for Everybody's Natural Food Bakery, an establishment already in business at 137 Tunstead Avenue.

Bruhn was given permission to serve foods along with beer and wine to no more than 50 customers at a time. He will be allowed to present entertainment but no amplified music, Mrs. Wright said.

Nearby apartment dwellers had objected to the use permit, she said, because of possible noise. Bruhn was told he must make every effort to keep noise inside the building.

His permit will also be reviewed in six months.

A Word To The Wise From Dr. Nash

PIONEER CHILD psychologist Dr. Albertine Nash, 80, of Tiburon has also been a college lecturer, newspaper columnist, author and teacher at Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake High Schools from 1929 to 1953. She advises teachers and parents to teach children self-respect. These days she enjoys retirement in her unusual Tiburon home, raising vegetables and flowers.

By PAT BALMES

Children need to have self-respect and be treated with dignity by adults, according to Dr. Albertine Nash, a pioneer school psychologist who at 80 is enjoying retirement at her Tiburon home.

A teacher at Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake high schools from 1929 to 1953, Dr. Nash also has been a practicing child psychologist, a college lecturer, a newspaper columnist and a public speaker.

Dr. Nash lives in her French Norman home of 35 years on two acres at the tip of Tiburon Peninsula where she raises and preserves organic fruits and vegetables.

HER EDUCATION from grade school through her doctoral studies was entirely on scholarship. In 1914 she earned the bachelor of arts degree in education at Hunter College in New York City and then taught elementary school there for three years.

"I even taught 52 fourth-grade boys in 48 seats," she said with a laugh.

She received a master's degree in psychology from Columbia University in New York City and doctorate from Clark University in Worcester, Mass., and became a member of the New York Society of Clinical Psychologists.

Doing research for her dissertation, she wrote some questions to the late Dr. Fredrick Burke, then head of San Francisco State Normal School (San Francisco State College). He responded that questionnaires were stupid; she defended herself. For a year they corresponded briskly and then he wrote.

"As soon as you are finished, I will have a place for you."

He later said that bringing Albertine Nash there was one of the greatest contributions to education on the West Coast, according to former music teacher Barbara McKenzie, her colleague at Tamalpais High School.

Dr. Nash was a young instructor of educational methods of psychology for five years at San Francisco State Normal School.

SHE WAS also a practicing psychologist. She would sit and read a book for two or three weeks in a disturbed child's home so that she could listen to what was said and analyze his problem.

Her column, "Your Child and You," appeared in the San Francisco Examiner and she wrote newspaper features and a book on the exceptional child.

In San Francisco at Children's Hospital Clinic for Disturbed Children she worked with the out-patients.

"The clinic was just me," said Dr. Nash.

The field of psychology was new; a psychologist "did whatever he thought of to do."

SHE TAUGHT a clinical summer session on psychology for speech therapists in 1926 at University of California.

The psychologist was a popular speaker because she gave practical advice to parents "from the heart," according to Barbara McKenzie.

In 1924 Albertine married the late Walter Nash, American Federation of Labor metal trades representative, and they moved to a tiny Sausalito house.

"I could not think what to do. I went to Principal Ernest Weed of Tamalpais High School," she said. She was hired as an English teacher and the school's first psychologist, and was to be available to students with problems.

Marin Women

"I TAUGHT a class of gifted children. No one had done it here nor anyplace else, as far as I know. I also taught inferior children so that the other teachers would not feel that I was just taking the cream."

Another Tamalpais High School teacher, Lillian Roth, recalls Dr. Nash's "amazing photographic memory which enable her to quote verbatim a whole page of a German play or poem."

When Sir Francis Drake High School was started, Dr. Nash was asked to join the faculty. On June 30, 1953, the faculty accepted her resignation "with sincere regret."

Pointing out that her experience is not recent, she refused when asked for advice on rearing teen-agers. However her friendships with young people continue.

"Kids today are the same as they were then. I have been fortunate in my relationship with young people because they trust me. The only generation gap is the time I want them to go home and the time they finally do go," she said with a smile.

Of her 30 years in teaching, she said, "I liked to teach. I would sit and rock; what I wanted to talk about, we talked about. I just told them what I thought they needed to know. Never, in 30 years of teaching, did I ever have any disciplinary problem."

ASKED HOW to keep good discipline, Dr. Nash replied that children are not taught to have self-respect; they are not treated with dignity by their parents and teachers.

When she taught she sat facing the door. If a child came in she would say something nice about his coat; he did not have to be unruly to get her attention.

DR. NASH segregated quick students from slow ones into separate classrooms because "putting an intellectually and socially handicapped child with a group who are above him is discouraging to him and may lead to disciplinary problems." The slow ones were just as happy because they were achieving on their own level, not constantly being reminded of their limitations, she said.

"This idea of inferior children learning from superior children is the bunk. The inferior child will get into mischief or won't care what happens. He is just putting in time. I gave the inferior children a workbook I made up for them; they just scribbled on it. My teaching did not take. But they were working up to their abilities," she said.

A suggestion Dr. Nash had for parents was to encourage hobbies. She mentioned her neighbor's son who kept chickens and bees.

"The rooster crowed and the bees stung, but we all liked to hear the crowing, and I survived the bee stings. In all these years the boy never once caused me a moment's displeasure. He needed a hobby, had one, and had no need to create mischief. Let's not object to a horse or chickens or rabbits. If you take every legitimate interest from a child, he will seek other kinds," she said.

ASKED WHAT she thought of having school the year around, she replied that children go to school enough hours. Their mothers should assert themselves as teachers in summertime. When she was young, she learned housework, studied a musical instrument and read all the classics.

Asked how to cope with a rebellious teen-ager, Dr. Nash said that adolescents are victims of storm and stress. She would tell them, "You can have all the storm and stress you want, just be decent about it."

As an adolescent she too was a victim of storm and stress, interested in religion and social questions.

"All the girls wore corsets; my chum and I did not and we wore low heels. We were freaks. We came out of it; it was just a phase," she said.

"Kids today look like they are going to a fancy dress party. I would say to them, you cannot expect to be taken seriously if you look like that. If you want to be taken seriously, you have to look like you want to be taken seriously. If you want to be treated like a bum, then look like a bum."

Dr. Nash said she had once been asked what good a doctor of philosophy degree ever did her.

"It taught me how to learn," she answered. "It taught me about all the things I did not know. It kept me from being jealous of people who had a doctorate."

'Most Bizarre Society Lives In U.S.,' Dr. Laura Nader Says

By JOAN LISETOR

Using her years of research and study in the field of anthropology, Dr. Laura Nader rips apart the American judicial system much in the same way her brother, Ralph, does those he believes are doing injustices to the consumers in America.

The University of California professor of anthropology, speaking last night at Dominican College, said she has gone around the world to study the bizarre, only to find out that the most bizarre society exists in the United States, where we know so much and use so little of it.

Among the things we know are bad — but do nothing to improve — are prisons, automobiles and the court system.

Doctor Nader lived with the Zapotec Indians in Southern Mexico in order to study their judicial system and compare it to the American legal system. She found that the primitive people were familiar with their laws, which is in direct contrast to Americans.

"In America, the most legalistic country in the world, you find people with Ph.Ds in politics who are ignorant of the law," she said. "Where else is it a greater crime to steal from a phone booth than it is to pollute the earth? And where else do we have a legal system serving so few?"

Too much money goes into the enforcement of the law and not enough into the judiciary budget, she said, citing the fact that $70 million is spent annually to enforce marijuana laws, while the total judiciary budget in the United States is only $128 million.

If we got rid of victimless crimes, like marijuana possession, there would be more efficiency in the courts, and the judicial system could be expanded to meet the growing needs of the population, she said.

"Many articles are written on how the legal system should function, but few are available on how it does," she said.

Because there are "lots of little people who are never heard," she said, she expects the subject of small claims to become a major political issue. She claimed that this area in the courts has been taken over by collection agencies, leaving the area of small claims, like complaint management, in total inefficiency.

Incompetencies in the courts, cited by Doctor Nader, are ethnic language barriers and plea bargainings (allowing guilty pleas to lesser offenses.)

"Indians base the seriousness of the crime on the number of people affected by it. Murder only affects one person, but if you pollute the drinking water that affects the entire village," she explained.

Most Dining Room Space Is Wasted

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

The dining-room table that sits out there in the middle of all that space bugs me. Why? Because space is precious; it's to be used, not wasted. And most dining rooms fritter away space we might better develop for some other family purpose.

Of course, if a family gathers 'round the table three times a day, the space is being properly used. But I'd say 90 per cent of the dining rooms in the United States and Canada are one-meal-a-day types. So they get the veto.

Once you decide to double-up in the dining room by adding equipment for another use, you'll go through an awkward stage — what to do with the table?

A classic solution is the island position where one end of the table is shoved against one wall. Another idea is illustrated today. It's the built-in banquette. It uses much less space than the island idea and is a good possibility for the young family that hasn't yet invested in hordes of chairs.

Using one corner of a room, this banquette solution would work nicely in a space where living room and dining room were actually one space.

It's easier to integrate the decorating scheme by using the same wall covering or wall color, and fabrics used for upholstery can be harmonious. Two or four pull-up chairs could be on permanent duty in the sitting area of the room, then quickly readjusted for the meal.

Carpeting can be the same throughout the area and table covers could be created out of fabrics usually designed for living room use rather than traditional tablecloths.

The fun of such an arrangement comes in its use of fabrics. Several pairs of slipcovers could be made. A slipcover for all seasons idea. Chair cushions and table covers should get the same switch-around. And if you start with one of the stain-repellent finishes on fabrics, or some permanent press types, your workload will not increase.

The seasons, or your reasons for giving a party, can suggest the color switch. Someone leaving on a trip to the Orient? Choose the colors of China: mauves, grays and wine reds. Christmas a big day? Mix the jewel tones of Christmas tree balls — bright blue, red, green, gold and silver. Find a cut-cotton plush or a high-luster Kodel polyester fabric. Add lots of crystal and fat candles in the same jewel colors. Add some fringe to the tablecover and corner bows to the chairseat covers. This little dining corner becomes an experiment in decorating, one you seldom explore when you have a traditional dining room.

Paris Designers Reveal Winter Ready-To-Wear

After only one season of midi-maxi in the winter 1970 shows, Paris designers staged the most inglorious retreat in history and gave them up largely under pressure from American manufacturers.

So far the winter ready-to-wear expositions in Paris have clung to conservative mid-knee hemlines under the ancient Paris philosophy that women must wear only one hemline.

But Ungaro, 38, an individualist who always has gone his own designing way, followed the theory that in the current social revolution women do not have to follow any "laws" when it comes to wearing clothes.

THE ONLY hemline Ungaro didn't use was the midi, which another fashion rebel, Pierre Cardin, displayed in his collection Friday.

Midi dresses and midi coats came in those geometric and floral prints that are Ungaro's trademark.

The Courreges trademarks were sprinkled throughout the collection —his initials embroidered on T-shirts, snap buttons, wide decorative zippers in contrasting colors, little handbags that snap onto narrow belts, vinyl brief jackets and edgings.

Courreges even paraded a few of his classic white structured above-knee shift dresses and tailored white trouser suits that started the revolution 10 years ago for short skirts and trousers.

COATS AND dresses were way above the knee.

Wraparound or side-pleated skirts that were nearly minis went with battle jackets or coats in vinyl, short fake fur, corduroy, knitted wool or flannel.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Help's As Near As Phone Or Public Mental Health Agency

DEAR RAP:

I am a 17-year-old boy who is mature and just like other guys except for one thing: I am homosexual. I like girls as friends. I go on dates with them and we get along great, so maybe I'm even bi-sexual.

I hate myself for these queer feelings. I know I'm sick in the head and sometimes I think suicide is the only way out. If my friends ever knew or even suspected, I'd kill myself for sure.

Is there any way I can get help without embarrassment? — SCARED

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I am almost 15, and just know I'm going to be a lesbian. I like girls better than boys, and even had a crush on one of my woman teachers, I can't stand the way I feel. So I avoid girls now, too, because I'm scared they'll find out I'm — NOT NORMAL

DEAR ALL of you who worry about homosexual tendencies or inclinations (and so many teenagers do!):

Help is as near as your telephone. Most cities these days have "crisis lines," "youth life lines," "teen hot lines" where young people may call in anonymously and talk out their problems. If more expert or in-depth counseling is indicated, they are referred to professionals.

Your County Mental Health Association will also refer you to close-in help. The number is listed in the phone book, and if you can't find it, ask your operator.

Often what teenagers believe to be homosexual feelings are only the natural attractions and curiosities of adolescence. Older teens sometimes fear they are "doomed for life" because of one or two unhappy expereinces. Needed here is reassurance, and a therapist can provide it in a single session.

But when there is a deep-rooted problem, then psychiatry is the answer for, before a patient can help himself, he must stop hating himself.

"Scared" asked, "Is there any way I can get help without embarrassment?" No one save your parents need know you are visiting a Mental Health Clinic. Naturally you'd prefer that your parents don't know either, but usually a psychiatrist works with the whole family, not just the underage patient. And adult approval is necessary before you receive treatment, in most states.

Summing it up: if you're worried about your "normalcy" don't be afraid to express your fears. You'd be surprised how many others worry too — and how often their fears are unfounded. — HELEN

DEAR SUE AND HELEN:

I am 15, and Saturday I got drunk for the first and last time. But maybe that's one time too many. It was at a party, and this guy encouraged me on a liquor spree. After a while I encouraged him, I guess, too. Anyway I wasn't in the best condition for resisting and I don't really know what I did, but I know I made a big fool of myself.

Some kids brought me home and dumped me on the front lawn,&then rang the doorbell and drove off. So my mother found me almost passed out. Naturally I'm grounded and in big trouble and so awfully ashamed.

The kids know about it, but won't tell me what I did. The guy probably doesn't remember either, exactly. I haven't seen him since, but when I do, should I apologize or expect him to? Am I more to blame than he is? — E.A.

DEAR E.:

I'd expect an apology from HIM: He was the one who "encouraged" you — and sometimes it's pretty hard to say "No." If he doesn't tell you he's sorry, then pretend he doesn't exist. — SUE

DEAR E.:

You were both to blame, and so were the kids who dumped you on the front lawn and ran! Apologies? Fine, but the best solution is: CHANGE CROWDS! — HELEN

Nylon Demise

The discovery of nylon 33 years ago marked the demise of silk as the major fiber for hosiery. Today, nylon is virtually the only fiber used for stockings and pantyhose.

Washing Hose

To launder hosiery safely, be sure to sort according to color and wash in a basin of warm water and mild suds. Rinse in warm water. Dry over a smooth rack, roll loosely, and keep in a compartmental drawer-organizer, stocking case or individual plastic sandwich bags.

More Stretch

Texturizing, which is a special process that imparts either a twist or a curl to yarn, gives nylon additional stretch and bulk. During the 1960's stretch yarns began to replace non-stretch yarns in hosiery.

Layered sweaters typify today's soft, glamourous look.

Symphony To Perform On Saturday

The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra will present the third concert in its Marin series at 8:15 p.m. Saturday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Guest conductor will be Dean Dixon, who will be making his debut with the orchestra in the regular series at the Opera House this week.

Featured in the Marin concert will be a new work, "Vox Clamantis," by Czech composer Petri Eben. It will receive its premiere performance on the West Coast in the Opera House series.

Other numbers to be performed are the Brahms Tragic Overture in D Minor, Opus 81, and Bruckner's Symphony No. 3 in D Major.

He holds a bachelor's degree from Juilliard School of Music and a master's degree from Columbia University Teachers' College. In 1941 he led the National Broadcasting Co. Summer Symphony Orchestra and two months later was the first black to conduct the New York Philharmonic.

Good seats are available for the Marin concert. Ticket information may be obtained from the Veterans Memorial box office at the Civic Center.

Gates Close At Old Zoo

A convoy of trucks—a sort of Noah's Arc on wheels—has ferried a total of 458 animals from the downtown Retiro Park to a new 150-acre zoo at suburban Casa Del Campo in the past days.

The last consignment left today. It consisted of the zoo's 12 biggest animals, including a giraffe whose 15-foot high crate was lifted onto a truck by crane.

Novato Library Hikes Circulation 30 Pct.

The Novato Branch Library has boosted its book circulation about 30 per cent in its first year in its new building, 1720 Novato Boulevard, according to Martha Van Etten, branch librarian.

When the library moved from its former home, a store in the Tresch Triangle, circulation was 165,000 and now it is 214,000, she reported.

The first anniversary of the new branch library was Saturday.

Since the library has been open the meeting room has been used nearly every night of the week, Mrs. Van Etten reported. "About 14 different organizations use the room on a regular montly basis," she said.

The Friends of the Library have been helping through book sales and many organizations and individuals have given gifts, but the library "needs more books, more musical records, more periodicals and foreign language records," she said.

Pelican Players Offering Musical

Directed by Paul Gebo and written by Alan Cundall, the show takes a look at life in Marin circa 1905. Roberta Brunstetter and Ron Rouda are the leading performers.

Chinese Pandas To Be Welcomed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first lady will officially welcome the Chinese pandas—Hsing Hsing and Ling Ling—to the National Zoo Thursday.

A Warning Buzzer Should Sound When A Finesse Won't Work

Sometimes I think that the electronic wizards of this country are not really trying. They should be able to devise a buzzer that would go off like crazy to warn you that a finesse isn't going to work. It might help in the kind of hand shown today. Of course, if you're too frugal to buy the buzzer you can work out a way to make the slam anyway.

WIN IN DUMMY

West leads a club, and you win in dummy. You draw three rounds of trumps and then wonder what to discard on dummy's fourth club.

Should you discard the ten of hearts and rely on one red queen or the other to bring home the bacon? Or should you discard the queen of diamonds and try two heart finesses?

ACADEMIC QUESTIONS

As the cards lie, these are academic questions. All finesses fail. Nevertheless the contract can be made.

Don't be in a hurry to discard anything at all. Just cash a second and third club and then finesse a heart. It doesn't really matter whether you finesse the ten or the queen.

END-PLAYED

West is end-played. He can win the heart trick but must return a heart or a diamond. Either suit gives you a free finesse. You then lead a trump to dummy and discard your only remaining loser on dummy's last club.

You could make the contract another way if you peeked. After drawing trumps, run the clubs to discard the ten of hearts; and then lead the ace or queen of diamonds. West would have to win and return a heart, giving you a free finesse. This plan would not work if East had the king of diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

You are not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, and partner opens with three diamonds. The next player doubles.

You hold:
♠ - 6
♥ - 9 7 5 2
♦ - 10 9 8 5 2
♣ - 9 4 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid five diamonds. If you are lucky, your jump may confuse the opponents into stopping at five of some suit. If so, don't bid any more. You will merely push them into a slam that they will make. If they double five diamonds, the penalty should be much smaller than the value of a slam.

Matzo Ball Soup Quality Untouched

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson says reports that the quality of some matzo ball soup has been reduced to avoid administration profit guidelines are untrue.

Grayson said Sunday that he bought 30 cans of matzo ball soup to check for himself. "And the matzo ball soup has four matzo balls in it. It has not gone down to three," he said.

FAMILY VISITING PROGRAM

A Togetherness Fills The Air

By MARY LEYDECKER

There was a honeymoon feeling in the air yesterday afternoon at San Quentin.

Several couples, who never left each other's touch, seemed unable to stop smiling. All the women wore corsages and their nicest clothes, and the men, although dressed in identical denim outfits, failed to fit the description that the word "convict" conjures up.

The occasion was the first anniversary of San Quentin's "family visiting" project — a program which is drawing raves both from inmates and prison officials.

The mechanics of the program (San Quentin officials wince when the words "conjugal visits" are used, saying it involves much more) revolve around two big old houses inside prison gates. They have been converted into apartments — one where whole families can gather and the other into pleasant bedrooms with a communal living room.

However, it's the people who fill the houses five days a week who make them come to life.

Yesterday's group included Steve, a cleancut looking young man who has a parole date in November, and his wife Lynn, who had come from Sacramento, taking time off from her job with the state.

She has been several times before — "the first time it was like we were strangers," Steve said. They had visited before that in prison visiting rooms, but it had been two years since they had touched each other.

The time spent together will make it easier to adjust again to married life when he is released, Steve said.

Another convict, Fred, seated nearby on the porch of the big house, with his arm also around his wife, agreed.

"You can't realize how quickly you adjust to being in here," he said, gesturing at the prison with its huge blocks of cells. "This (the family visits) helps prepare you for freedom," he added.

Fred, however, said ome men "feel visitors make their time harder to do," because leaving them after a few hours is so hard.

Also, he said, there are many men who have no families to come to visit. "I consider myself real lucky to have people standing behind me," he said. His parents once came from Los Angeles along with his wife for a 48-hour visit, he added.

"It's like when you check into a hotel," said another man, Ben, describing the facilities in the houses.

One contains four bedrooms — not elegantly but very comfortably furnished and each featuring a neatly made double bed.

There are no cooking facilities in this house, but visitors bring all the food necessary for the 19-hour visits allowed in this house.

"Kentucky fried chicken is the big item," said Lt. Robert West, the officer in charge of the visiting program. He also added that wives usually bring unaccustomed treats for their men — artichoke hearts, avocadoes and shrimp. One man, after his first family visit, said he "nearly died" of indigestion because he was unused to such rich fare, the lieutenant laughed.

Next door is another big house, converted into two complete flats with kitchens and extra bedrooms for children or other relatives.

Although the convicts want to spend every minute with their loved ones, they often get together with other families for shared fun, they said.

The barbecuing, done like all the other cooking with food brought by the families, takes place in a spacious, terraced flower-filled garden behind one of the houses.

Yesterday, Gigi, who is Ben's wife, proudly brought out the two thick steaks she had brought for their supper.

Two families yesterday accounted for what seemed to be at least a dozen children as they played in the garden and tossed a ball in front of the big house. Diane, mother of five of the youngsters, said she had had no problem keeping the children within the bounds set by prison officials.

"We've visited lots of times," Andrw, age 9, volunteered.

There have been absolutely no problems with the program, which is used by about 70 men a month, Lieutenant West said. No contraband has been brought in and no one has tried to walk away, he said.

One of the convicts pointed out it would be relatively easy to try to make a getaway from the hill behind the two houses at nighttime but he added, "Everyone knows that if anyone messes up, that's it."

Convicts who are considered to be lesser security risks and who have good behavior records may apply for the visiting program, West said. They can have repeat visits as space allows.

One of the first men who enjoyed a family visit told the lieutenant he "had forgotten what it was like to hold a loved one," when he was reunited with an 11-year-old daughter he had not seen since she was 6 months old.

Although the lieutenant praised the convicts who have made the program work, several yesterday also said they wanted to put in a good word for him. "He leaves us strictly alone —he's great," one said.

The men must report to the gate three times a day for head count but otherwise they are on their own.

Sonoma State Students Protest N. Viet Bombs

A dozen Sonoma State College students offered the college its first demonstration in more than a year yesterday in protest of the intensified bombings of North Vietnam and the presence of Marines on campus.

A Marine Corps recruiting table outside Stevenson Hall apparently sparked the demonstration as the handful of students carried signs and manned a table opposite the Marines to gather signatures for a statewide petition to place a peace initiative on the November ballot.

Protesters taunted the Marine recruiters, but drew no response. A Viet Cong flag led the procession as other students carried signs with anti-war slogans and one aimed directly at the Marines, saying, "Kill Women and Children — Join the Marines."

Recruiters from all branches of the military have visited the campus in recent years without incident. Campus officials said they believed the demonstration was caused by the bad timing of the Marines visit with the stepped-up air war.

Some students began circulating a petition to keep military recruiters off campus, but were reportedly getting mixed reactions from fellow classmates. A group of students argued with the demonstraters, saying the Marines also have the right of free expression.

Police Chief Hearing May Be Near End In Fairfax

The long-running hearing in Fairfax to determine whether outsted Police Chief James R. Orr will get his job back appeared last night to have an end in sight with only two more sessions scheduled.

Although last night's session was the 37th in a series which began last November, it drew a faithful audience of about 50 persons, many of whom knit or crochet during the proceedings.

The hearing sessions are quasi-judicial, with the city's board or review acting both as judge and jury, but the atmosphere is more that of a town meeting. There is always coffee and sometimes cookies — said to be supplied by the chief's wife.

Orr himself, tired, haggard and much thinner than when the hearings started, again last night recounted the differences between him and City Administrator Robert E. Crowe.

He spoke in a quiet voice as he said, "My opinion hasn't changed. He (Crowe) doesn't know a thing about police work —he's an administrator. I worked with what I had," the ousted chief said in reference to a department that Crowe claimed as badly mismanaged.

In an answer to a question by board member William T. Benson, Orr agreed to take a lie detector test, apparently in an effort to determine whether he or Crowe has told the truth in differing testimony.

The young woman, Marsha Kittelman, whom Orr is accused of having favored in her job as police clerk and of having shared a pacation with her, took the stand again last night, too.

Her hair piled regally atop her head, Mrs. Kittleman, whose husband sat in the front row, indignantly denied that she and the ousted chief had returned together from a vacation in the summer of 1971.

"I most certainly did not," she said firmly. Instead, she said, Orr and his daughter along with her husband came back from Lake Berryessa where the two families had gone three days earlier than she did.

She also told in a clear voice how Crowe had called her into his office last September, shortly after the vacation, and accused her of having forged time records. Because of his belief, she said, she was docked for seven days and five hours of pay.

Mrs. Kittelman said she did not forge the documents, which she said were merely records kept for the city council's benefit and not for pay purposes, but that she had filled in blank spaces going back about six months earlier in April.

Before that time, she said, she often had not filled in her hours because she always worked the same shift. In a department where apparently overtime was not paid, Mrs. Kittelman said payroll personnel only wanted to know if officers were on vacation or sick and Chief Orr made such reports.

The matter of the alleged forgery, Mrs. Kittelman said, had been the subject of a visit to her house last September by Councilman Francis J. O'Connell, who she said wanted to hear her side of the story.

She has never had the matter resolved, Mrs. Kittelman said, and has never received the pay which Crowe said was docked because she had taken too much vacation time in 1970.

What is supposed to be the next-to-last hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday. Monday has been tentatively set for final arguments by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers, a courtly man often compared to the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, and Leonard Shaw, a young former county prosecutor.

It is generally believed by those who have followed the hearings that the five-man board is split two-two with Chairman Freeman Blake, a neatly bearded high school teacher, due to cast the deciding vote.

Death Row Inmate Says State Errs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Quentin convict told California's Supreme Court yesterday that it erred when it replied to his appeal by abolishing the death penalty in this state.

Robert Page Anderson, a convicted murderer, declared in a petition that as a result of that error he should either go free or be resentenced to one to 15 years for manslaughter.

His petition contends that in its Seb. 18 decision the court not only abolished the death penalty but also wiped out all statutes setting other penalties for murder.

"This leaves the State of California completely without any statutes to govern and control punishment or penalty for the crime of murder," he held.

Anderson, who was convicted in 1965 in San Diego County, said the only penalty remaining is for manslaughter.

The convict cited the court's ruling: "Insofar as Penal Code Sections 190 and 190.1 purport to authorize the imposition of the death penalty, they are, accordingly, unconstitutional."

Federal Grants To Be Discussed

Applications for federal grants to expand its ferry and bus systems will be the subject of a public hearing by the Golden Gate Bridge District at 8 p.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

The applications are pending in the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, which asked for the public hearing to get public views on the proposed expansion.

One application is for a $12.3 million capital grant to pay for two-thirds of the $19 million ferry system. The other is for $1,085,212 to pay for two-thirds of the cost of 34 additional new buses, which would bring the fleet to 168 new buses.

The ferry grant would finance a system of three new 165-foot vessels serving Larkspur and Sausalito. The government has approved specifications for the vessels, but this approval did not extend to the grant itself.

Tiburon Woman Hurt In Accident

Alma Hilton Knubel, 63, of 4095 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes and chest pain received in an automobile accident Saturday, according to hospital reports.

According to San Rafael police, her car was eastbound on Second Street, San Rafael, when it ran a red light at 5:45 p.m. Saturday and hit a car northbound on C Street, driven by Larry Raymond Reynolds, 19, of 1122 B Street.

Two Hamilton Patrol Dogs Win

Two patrol dogs from Hamilton Air Force Base and their handlers won top honors recently in the Contra Costa County K-9 competition.

Sgt. Donald McNair and his dog "King," placed first and airman 1/c William Duncan and his dog also named King, placed second, according to the base information office. The handlers are from the 4661st Security Police Squadron.

They were in competition with working police dogs from police departments throughout Northern California. There were 32 dogs in competition.

Equal Rights To Assembly Floor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Caught in a crossfire between women liberationists and women laborites, an all-male Assembly committee has breathed new life into California's chances of ratifying the proposed U.S. equal rights amendment.

After a marathon hearing before an overflow crowd of more than 1,000 persons, the Judiciary Committee late Monday night endorsed the ratification on an 8-2 vote and ushered it to the Assembly floor.

Democratic presidential hopefuls Shirley Chisholm, Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern and Edmund Muskie each had thrown their weight behind swift approval of the amendment in separate messages to the committeemen.

Women's rights advocates told the committee that approval of the proposed 27th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution by the nation's most populated state was crucial in freeing "a supressed majority."

But women labor leaders said without protections the amendment would result in "equal exploitation" of both men and women by unscrupulous employers because current working protections for women would be voided.

"Equal rights should not mean loss of rights for women but an extension of them to all workers," said Ann Draper, representative of the Amalgamatee Clothing Workers.

She said it would be "scandalous and shameful" if the legislature ratified the amendment without preserving "every labor standard we sweated blood to get."

Luella Hanbury, another labor spokeswoman, berated the women's liberation movement, calling it a "white, upper and middle class crusade." She said if the amendment was not tied to guaranteed working conditions for all laborers it would mean a return of sweat shops.

Each labor representative said she or he wanted the proposed amendment to be ratified. But each said the amendment would be opposed vigorously by labor unless minimum working conditions now provided for women were extended to all workers.

Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, D-Sacramento, tried to meld the two women's forces into one by proposing an amendment to the ratification resolution.

His change would have hinged approval of the equal rights amendment on two bills currently before the Senate that would extend the laws on working conditions to men and set a minimum wage for all workers at $1.65 an hour.

But Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, author of the original resolution, said Z'berg was "loving the bill to death" and that such a move would be "attaching an impossible albatros around the neck of this (equal rights) amendment."

Coastline Protection Policy Clears Hurdle

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The conservation lobby's coastline protection bill today emerged virtually unscathed from a two-hour assault by builders, county supervisors and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The legislation, supported by more than 100 conservation groups including the Sierra Club, cleared a subcommittee of the Ways and Means Committee on a 7-1 vote and went to the full committee.

Approval by Ways and Means and the Assembly itself is expected, although no one is giving odds on Senate approval of a strong bill to preserve the picturesque coast from threatened over-development.

On a series of rollcall votes Monday, the subcommittee rejected amendments proposed by opponents. Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, the bill's author, protested the changes would damage or "gut" the legislation.

A provision empowering six regional commissions to approve or deny applications for construction along the coastline drew heavy fire from PG and E and the builders.

Paul McCarron, representing the California Builders Council, said the legislation would establish a "de facto moratorium" on building along the coast which threatened to extend inland across California and deny citizens a site on which to build a home.

He warned of a tumbling "domino effect" but John Zierold, representing the Sierra Club, replied, "We are not blindly opposed to progress. We are opposed to blind progress. On a narrow strip of the coastline, we are seeing blind progress."

Malcolm MacKillop of PG & E cited the state's increasing demand for pollution-free electricity and proposed amendments to exempt from regional commission control currently proposed nuclear power plants and distribution systems.

Badham, legislative sponsor of the PG&E amendments, asserted "We've got a power crisis in California" and warned if power utilities were delayed in their planning, blackouts and brownouts could occur that would take up to 10 years to correct.

The amendments were defeated 2-7.

Also turned down were amendments suggested by the County Supervisors Association of California to give locally elected officials the majority vote on the regional commissions.

Paper Reports Lobbyists Fighting Ecological Bills

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—With coastal protection legislation as its target, a group of lobbyists from business, labor and government reportedly have been meeting for more than a year to plan ways for blocking environmental measures.

The Sacramento Bee reported Monday that at least 34 lobbyists who are members of an organization called "Committee to Kill Ecology Legislation" have been meeting "secretly" in the Senator Hotel.

The newspaper said Jack Crose, a top aide to Jess Unruh when he was Assembly speaker, was described as the spokesman for the group.

Crose, now a lobbyist for a group of Santa Monica landowners, said in the Bee article that the committee "is only an informational meeting operation.

"We get together and we review bills," Crose said. "There is no solid position taken by the group on any bill."

But the Bee reported one lobbyist who was asked to join the group as saying, "We were asked if we wanted to kick in some money to kill some bills."

Crose denied that any money was solicited.

He said the organization is considering 10 or 12 issues this year but that its attention was focused on coastal protection legislation by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, Beverly Hills, and Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville.

Dead Body Is Identified

The body of a man found dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound on April 10 on Panoramic Highway has been identified through fingerprints as that of Gary Ray Allen, 24.

Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig said that Allen's family, including his father, Melvin Allen, lives in Glenwood, Ill. The father told Craig the last address he had had for his son was in Long Beach and he had no idea what his son was doing in Marin.

Allen, who had been seen earlier in the day hitchhiking in Mill Valley, had a note in his pocket telling of his intention to take his life.

A woman in Long Beach who was mentioned in the note was contacted, Craig said, and a check with Long Beach police turned up Allen's fingerprints.

Admission Day Bill Passes Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill changing Admission Day from Sept. 9 to the second Monday in September has narrowly passed the Assembly.

The measure by Assemblyman Peter R. Chacon, D-San Diego, was sent to the Senate Monday on a 54-14 vote, the bare minimum required. It contains an "urgency clause" that would permit it to take effect immediately after being signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Persons Working With Birds Risk Possible Parrot Fever

Psittacosis (parrot fever) is a disease of birds that may be passed along to man. Ornithosis is a more accurate name for the condition, because many nonpsittacine birds, such as pigeons and chickens, also harbor and transmit the disease. The causative viruses are found in the excreta of birds. On drying, the airborne dust is inhaled by humans and animals. One victim who ate robins became very ill.

PERSONS working with birds are at risk. One of the most serious epidemics occurred in Zulpich, Germany. Two apparently healthy parakeets infected everyone (26 people) who entered or passed the room where these birds were held. Ornithosis in man usually involves the lungs and produces a pneumonia similar to that encountered in many viral infections.

Seven to 15 days after exposure to an infected bird, the victim may develop chills and a fever ranging from 101 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit. Severe headache, weakness, loss of appetite, and muscle pains are the early manifestations. Cough follows within a few days and blood-streaked sputum may be brought up. Chest X-rays demonstrate a patchy pneumonitis. A specific diagnosis of ornithosis is based on a positive sputum or antibody blood test. The tetracyclines are the best remedies.

DURING the past decade, Dr. George C. Sutton and his colleagues at Northwestern University Medical School and Cook County Hospital (Chicago) have seen an increasing number of people with heart trouble caused by a related infection (chlamydia). Forty of 319 persons with a rare cardiac disorder had positive laboratory tests for this infection. Of these, 17 had been in contact with parakeets, canaries, pheasants, or pigeons; three with infected dogs, and one had kissed a person hospitalized with ornithosis. Our robin eater was also in this group.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

VASCULAR ACCIDENTS

Mrs. G. writes: My husband never overate, his weight was normal, he never lost his temper, and though he worked hard as a farmer, he got plenty of sleep. Yet he died at 61 of a cerebral hemorrhage. What caused this stroke?

REPLY

A weakened blood vessel in the brain. This may have been an inherent weakness or it could have been caused by arteriosclerosis. This weakness of the artery may have existed for many decades and he might have died 10 years earlier if he had not taken care of himself. Heredity plays a role and so does chance in how and when we die.

MENTAL STATUS

M. T. writes: How can a person determine if he is mentally competent?

REPLY

A short discussion with your physician, psychiatrist or psychologist will solve this problem. Much depends upon the person's appearance and the gist of the conversation. Psychological tests also are helpful.

KNEE REFLEXES

L. Y. writes: My knees do not jerk when they are tapped with a hammer. What is the reason for the absence of this reflex?

REPLY

Sluggish or absent knee jerk reflexes do no harm so long as both knees behave in this way.

Road Closing For Facility Is Endorsed

The San Geronimo Valley Association last night endorsed closing a portion of Castro Road off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Forest Knolls to provide for a new combination post office and library.

Association vice president Betty Gardner said landowner Fred Grange is planning the improvements.

The association made known its position in a letter to the board of supervisors.

In another letter to the board, the association called new county septic tank regulations inconsistent because of officials' failure to crack down on persons living in vehicles in scattered parts of the San Geronimo Valley, Mrs. Gardner said.

Flag Pledge Is Resumed

EXETER, N.H. (UPI) —The pledge of allegiance to the flag was resumed at Exeter High School today for the first time in a week.

Some students refused to salute because they believed there was no equality in America, Principal Burton G. MacArthur said. So MacArthur suspended the ceremony last Monday.

He said the teachers would rather drop the exercise than tolerate disrespect. "It's a frustrating experience for the teachers to see a student standing and not saluting and not be able to do anything about it," he said.

But the school board overruled him and ordered the ceremony resumed while a special committee discussed the problem.

City Cleanup Campaign To Start

Novato will hold its annual spring cleanup campaign, Trash Bash 4, with the collection point at Rowland and Redwood boulevards Saturday and on April 29.

Residents can bring their trash to the collection site from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Rodney B. Brown, city administrative assistant.

Trash must be bagged, boxed or bundled, he said. Dirt, gravel, concrete or car parts won't be accepted.

Persons arriving with loads containing loose material or items too large to fit into collection trucks will be given slips to deposit the loads at the Redwood Sanitary Landfill Inc. dump, north of Novato, Brown said.

The city will pay $1.50 of the cost of the loads taken to the dump, Brown said. The dump charge varies according to the size of the load.

A recycling depot will be manned at the Rowland Boulevard collection site by members of Beleaguered Earth and the San Marin High School Ecology Action Club. Bottles, cans and newspapers will be accepted.

Developer's Wife Seeks Dissolution

The wife of Kurt Heath, millionaire Tiburon developer, filed suit yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to end their marriage of 20 years.

Citing irreconcilable differences, Phyllis J. Heath asked the court to end the marriage and give her custody of the couple's two daughters, Claudia, 18, and Michele, 16.

She said her husband makes $7,500 a month on holdings worth approximately $2 million and asked $3,600 a month support for herself and the children.

Heath, who bought controlling interest in 212 acres of Tiburon hills in 1958 has built 36 apartments known as El Marinero and still controls the subdivision of that name. Some of the land, which offers a spectacular view of San Francisco and bay waters, has been sold for luxury home sites.

Heath, according to his wife's petition, also owns two office buildings on Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, heads the Heath Land Co. and owns lots throughout the United States.

The couple married in 1952 in Carmel, but separated Jan. 18. The Heaths live at 99 Sugarloaf Drive.

Community Dinner Celebrates Opening

The Kairos Community Development Council Inc. will celebrate its opening with a community dinner Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Cotati Veterans Memorial Building.

The council organized by Sonoma State College students acts as a switchboard and clearinghouse for persons with problems. The dinner will include ham, potato salad, green beans, French bread and dessert for 35 cents. Entertainment also is planned.

Sharp Fire-Call Dip, 1971 Study Reveals

The Marin County Fire Department responded to 494 fire calls and battled 219 grass, brush or forest fires during 1971, according to County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli's annual report.

Both figures reflect a sharp decrease from 1970 totals. In that year, the county fire department answered 634 calls and fought 357 grass, brush or forest fires.

Pedroli was unable to explain the drop in fire calls. "Our children-caused fires dropped from 59 to 22," he said. "I" guess they found something better to do than set fires. Otherwise, I suppose it was just one of those years that we didn't get many calls."

A total of 211 acres burned in 1971, compared to 759 in 1970 and 613 in 1969.

The two largest grass fires — on July 8 and August 16 — took place on the hillside area of Terra Linda, within the City of San Rafael. Each fire consumed 40 acres.

Airplanes from the state Division of Forestry were used by the county on July 14 to slow down the front lines of a grass fire near Forest Knolls. Four chemical drops were made from the plane to allow fire fighters to encircle the fire perimeter.

"The demand for the service of the Point Reyes Station Ambulance has proved to be a needed service for the West Marin Area," said Pedroli. A total of 114 calls were made by the Point Reyes station ambulance during 1971.

The largest structural fire was Dec. 25 at Santa Venetia Middle School causing an estimated $100,000 to building and contents.

The department in 1971 answered 275 emergency calls, compared with 328 in 1970 and 269 in 1969.

The department also responded to 50 false alarms.

SPORT NOTES

Girls Athletics Serious Business

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Girls sports at Redwood High School is really getting serious these days. Those of us in the fun and games department of the I-J normally greet the results of girls' sporting events with a smile, a friendly wave to all the women's libbers of America, and one paragraph of type.

But things are changing — at least at Redwood High.

For the first time, the Girls Athletic Association at Redwood will be presenting scholarships to two college-bound senior girls. The girls must have lettered in either varsity or junior varsity on one of the girls Marin County Athletic League teams during their senior year. The girls must have a 2.0 (C) grade point average to qualify for the scholarships, according to the three-paragraph release from the Redwood Student News Bureau.

KTIM'S ANNUAL Sportsman's Club Banquet once again will be open to the public after the success of last year's first try at opening the dinner to all comers. The banquet, honoring the two outstanding athletes from each of Marin County's high schools, will be May 9 at the Alvarado Inn, Ignacio, said the station's sports director, Bob Dinsmore.

Guest speaker for the prep stars will be forward Joe Ellis of the Golden State Warriors. Cost is $6 and reservations can be made by telephoning KTIM.

JOHN TADDEUCCI of San Rafael, promotions director of the Giants, will be out of action for a couple of weeks after undergoing back surgery yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco. Report from the hospital today was that all is A-Okay with John who is resting comfortably.

ALTHOUGH NAPA'S Ron Cerrudo didn't fatten his bank roll any after missing the cut in last week's Monsanto Open in Pensacola, Fla., he has already earned $12,360 to rank 62nd on the Professional Golfers Association money list. That's not bad pay.

IF YOU ARE a San Francisco 49er Ken Willard fan and see red when some unknowing people put the rap against him, here is a little rebuttal argument I'll pass along. Just say to the guy: "Ken Willard and Gale Sayers have eached played in the NFL for seven years. Which of them has gained more yardage? Which of them has scored more touchdowns?"

That will really get to the guy. Willard has gained 5,219 yards and has scored 40 touchdowns. Sayers has gained 4,956 yards and has 39 touchdowns.

Then the guy will start screaming about injuries. But that's just the point. Willard doesn't get hurt.

In Willard's first game of the year in the '72 season, he has a good chance to pass a guy named Hugh McElhenny on the all-time NFL list of ground gainers. Willard currently ranks 13th on the list, one notch and 62 yards behind the former 49er star. Willard has gained his yardage in seven years to McElhenny's 13.

Interesting.

Special Olympics Saturday

The Olympic Games are coming to San Rafael High School Saturday.

Some 200 students from Marin County Public Schools' special education classes, Marin Aid to Retarded Children, Cedar's Development Foundation of Ross, and Easter Seal Society Recreation for the Handicapped, will line up at the San Rafael High Athletic Field at 9 a.m. for the opening ceremonies. The inaugural festivities will include a lighting of the Special Olympic torch and participation of the Hamilton Air Force Base, Redwood and Novato high schools' color guards.

Following the pageantry, the age group divisions of 8-9, 10-12,

NBA Braves Sign Squire Pick McAdoo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) —It would appear that before Robert McAdoo sees any court action with the National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves he will see some court action of the legal kind.

The Braves announced Monday they had signed McAdoo, their number one draft choice, to a multi-year contract although McAdoo earlier had signed with the Virginia Squires of the rival American Basketball Association.

The Braves did not disclose the terms of McAdoo's contract at a news conference called to announce the signing.

Braves attorney Arnold Gardner announced that McAdoo, who played for North Carolina, filed suit in U.S. District Court here seeking to void a contract he signed with the Squires.

In the suit, McAdoo claimed the contract with the Squires should be declared void because he was 20-years-old and a minor when he signed the pact.

McAdoo's mother was also camed as a plaintiff in the action.

"We hope we can dispose of this matter amicably with Virginia," Gardner said.

Braves owner Paul Snyder and general manager Eddie Donovan said McAdoo signed with the Braves Monday but that the contract was negotiated Saturday in Los Angeles.

"I've always wanted to play in the NBA," McAdoo said, "Now I think I'll get my chance."

A's Defeat Cal, Face Kansas City

OAKLAND (UPI) — The union conscious Oakland Athletics hosted unbeaten Kansas City today in an American League headliner.

The A's, on strike themselves last week with other major league teams, declined to cross picket lines Monday at the University of California campus for an exhibition game with the Bears' varsity.

So the contest was moved to the Coliseum, where a scanty crowd of about 200 watched them defeat the college boys, 75.

Some 35 unions, representing the building and trades, were picketing on the campus, seeking wages comparable to those of workers outside the school system.

Most of the A's regulars were saved for tonight's series with Kansas City.

Joe Horlen, hoping for a spot on the A's roster, went five innings for the big leaguers and was touched for four runs, two unearned. Diego Segui and Jim Roland finished up, with Roland getting the win.

The Kansas City Royals bring a 3-0 Western Division record into the Oakland game. The A's are 1-1 on the young season.

Suns' Johnson To Undergo Knee Surgery

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Gus Johnson, nine-year veteran of the National Basketball Association seeking a comeback with the Phoenix Suns, will undergo knee surgery next week.

Jerry Colangelo, Suns' general manager, said the operation is for removal of cartilage on the inside of Johnson's right knee. Doctors were "very optimistic" Johnson could play again, he said.

MC CORMICK SIGNS WITH PHOENIX

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Mike McCormick, a Cy Young award winner in 1967 and cut March 29 by the San Francisco Giants, has signed with the Phoenix Giants of the Pacific Coast League.

General Manager Rosey Ryan of the San Francisco AA farm club, said, "Mike will pitch in regular rotation with out team. We're leaving on a road trip to Albuquerque, and he'll pitch in that series in about three days.

Mrs. Kuscsik Wins Marathon's Gal Go

BOSTON (UPI) —Nina Kuscsik started running four years ago because her bicycle had a flat tire. Now she's running for "personal satisfaction."

Mrs. Kuscsik, 33, the mother of three children, hit a new peak in personal satisfaction Monday as she overcame some troublesome leg cramps for an easy win in the tradition-shattering women's division of the 56th annual Boston Marathon.

Finland's Olavi Suomalainen, who had never before run in a marathon but needed the credits for a shot at making his country's Olympic team, captured the men's division.

In other Marathon highlights:

—Kathy Miller of Syracuse, N.Y., who stunned officials five years ago by entering under the name "K. Switzer" when the Marathon was still exclusively a man's race, finished third in the women's division and had a better time than nearly 400 men.

—Comedian Dick Gregory, who says he's down to 98 pounds in his year-long antiwar fast, ran about 25 miles but pulled a muscle in his right leg and failed to finish.

—The 64-year-old sentimental favorite in the race, John A. Kelley, competed in his 41st Marathon but was not among the first 700 finishers and his time was not recorded.

—The field of 1,081 starters was so crowded when the gun went off that hundreds of runners had to walk for the first eighth of a mile because there was no room to move.

Mrs. Kuscsik led from start to finish in the women's division, the first ever run as part of a Marathon sponsored by the Boston Athletic Association. She ran the 26-mile, 385-yard course in 3:08:58, finishing after 390 men, but bettering 682 other men and the other eight women in the race.

Mrs. Kuscsik, who delayed a news conference for 45 minutes because she "felt ill," said she was bothered by leg cramps at the 14-mile mark because she "went too fast for myself and should have paced myself better."

But she said she was spurred on by "excellent crowd support" among thousands of spectators who lined the route.

Mrs. Miller, the former Kathy Switzer, said she found the race satisfying. She completed the race in 3:29.50, behind Mrs. Kuscsik and Elaine Pederson, a stewardess supervisor from San Francisco.

It was on April 19, 1967 that "K. Switzer" became the first woman to be officially entered in the race, only to have Jock Semple, a member of the Marathon committee, try to push her off the road shortly after the start. She stayed in that race, however, when a group of male runners formed a wedge around her.

Suomalainen, making his first Marathon run, gained ground on "Heartbreak Hill" —where many other runners have faltered in past years —and fought off a late challenge by Colombia's Victor Manuel Mora at the finish.

The blond, 25-year-old engineer student said he "began to feel better" when he got on the hill. He overtook Mexican Jacinto Sabinal about 4 1-2 miles from the finish line, then outran the fast-closing Mora by fewer than 100 yards. Suomalainen finished in 2:15:39, 18 seconds ahead of Mora.

Rangers, Chicago Tonight

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Rangers, just getting healthy after a series of late-season injuries, now have another problem.

Ed Giacomin, who has played goal in all seven Stanley Cup playoff games this season, has a twisted knee and it may impair him when the Rangers take on the Chicago Black Hawks tonight in the second game of their best-of-seven semifinal series. The Rangers won the opener in Chicago 3-2 Sunday night.

In the other semifinal game tonight, the Boston Bruins, who swept past Toronto in the quarterfinals, entertain the St. Louis Blues. The Blues, who finished third in the West Division, made it to the semifinals with a sudden death victory over Minnesota in the seventh and deciding game Sunday afternoon.

Jacobs, Rodgers Lead Lamonica Golf Tournament

WALNUT CREEK (UPI)— Pros Johnny Jacobs and Phil Rodgers carded even par 72s Monday at Round Hill Country Club to tie in the fifth annual Daryle Lamonica Golf Classic.

They were part of a massive field of celebrants and amateurs and professionals taking part in the annual tourney that benefits the Contra Costa Youth Association.

Low amateur was Al Silverstein with a 72, followed by Oakland Athletics' pitcher Denny McLain who had a 76.

FUENTES FINED

Giants Lose To Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — It was not a very good day for the San Francisco Giants Monday.

First, second baseman Tito Fuentes was given a $100 fine for throwing his helmet toward the Giants' dugout after umpire Chris Pelekoudas called him out for running out of the baseline to avid a sixth inning tag by Houston Astro third baseman Doug Rader.

The Giants will lick their wounds and send Don Carrithers, 5-3 last year, to the mound in San Diego tonight, 7:30, against Padre righthander Tom Phoebus, 3-11 last year.

In the game last night, big Lee May signaled home Roger Metzger to break a 2-2 tie as the Astros exploded for the 7-2 win. May went two-for-four and drove in two runs.

Doug Rader, coming back after an operation on his left shoulder last September, shared hitting honors with May. Radar had a two-run homer for the Astros' first two runs in the fifth and a two-run triple to climax a three-run rally in the eighth.

Rader, despite his muscular 6-3, 215-pound frame, was powerless last season because every time he extended his left arm to swing, his shoulder came out of the socket he had to keep his arms close to his body and all he could do was punch at the ball.

"Everything has healed up perfectly," Rader said. "It'd have been all over if it hadn't. There is no comparison between this year and last year (in swinging the bat)."

After a frustrating season last year, it is quite satisfying to Rader to be able to have power again. He thinks he can hit 20 home runs this year without having to concentrate on them.

He hit 25 in 1970, but fell off to 12 last season.

Houston opens a two-game series in Cincinnati tonight with Ken Forsch, 8-8 last season, going against Don Gullett, 16-6.

Bunce, Musso Canada Bound

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Don Bunce, a late blooming quarterback who piloted Stanford to the Rose Bowl, has singed a three-year contract with the British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League.

The Lions also signed University of Alabama star running back Johnny Musso, who had been the No. 3 draft choice of the Chicago Bears. The Bears balked as his demand for a no-cut contract.

It was learned that Bunce inked the contract Sunday for two years, with the third year negotiable.

"I didn't want a no-cut clause because the way some contracts are designed this might mean you get less of a salary or bonus," he said. "I honestly didn't want one."

The contract is contingent on Bunce's acceptance to the university of British Columbia Medical school. If accepted, the Lions will pay part of his medical school costs, a spokesman said.

Bunce said he was "really happy with that part of it." He said he plans to apply this summer for the fall of 1973.

White Sox Bombed Lee

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Terra Linda's Bill Lee would probably like another shot at Tom McCraw.

Ironically, the spray-hitting McCraw was inserted in the sixth inning only after slugging Indian first baseman Chris Chambliss pulled a hamstring muscle running out an infield grounder in the fifth inning.

When McCraw came to bat with two on and two out in the eighth, he kept looking into the dugout for a pinch hitter. But manager Ken Aspromonte gave the lefty the go-ahead and McCraw responded by belting a one-two pitch into the right field stands.

In the only other American League game, Baltimore shut out New York, 4-0. In the National League, Houston drubbed San Francisco, 7-2; St. Louis edged Philadelphia, 5-4; and Los Angeles bombed Atlanta, 8-3.

Manny Mota and Willie Davis, who find it very comfortable batting back-to-back in front of Frank Robinson in the Dodger lineup, combined for seven hits and five rbis in the victory over Atlanta. Each hit a two-run homer while Mota added three singles and Davis hit two. Frank Robinson chipped in with two walks, one with the bases loaded, and a single. Hoyt Wilhelm made his 1,055th appearance and got the save for the Dodgers although Chris Cannizzaro was charged with three passed balls in the ninth while trying to catch William's knuckle ball.

The St. Louis-Philadelphia game had a frantic finish and Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst said, "we damn near blew that one and we've blown two already." The Cards took a 5-3 lead in the top of the ninth as Ted Simmons doubled in a run and scored on Dal Maxvill's sacrifice fly. But the Phils came back for a run in the last of the ninth and had the bases loaded before Al Santorini got Tim McCarver to ground out to end the game.

In an apparent reference to the number of Phils who complained about called strikes, Schoendienst said, "I've never seen so much griping as I have in the last five years on balls thrown right down the middle. The strike zone is so small now, you have to throw through a shoe box."

The Orioles, who don't seem to be missing Frank Robinson, blanked the Yanks on Dave McNally's four-hitter. Brooks Robinson, who wasn't booed this time, triggered a three-run seventh with a run-scoring double. The Orioles, going for their fourth straight 100 victory season, will have more difficulty reaching that goal in a shorter season. But manager Earl Weaver said, "98 to go, right! It's going to be more fun than doing it in a longer season."

Bengals Sign Cal End White

CINCINNATI (UPI) — All America defensive end Sherm White of California has signed a contract with the Cincinnati Bengals.

White, 23, who led the Bears in tackles in 1970 and 1971, was the second player selected in the 1972 draft of the National Football League. He is considered an outstanding pass rusher because of his height and speed.

Loose Triumphs, 8-0, In Softball Contest

Sam King pitched a two-hit shutout and Loose rallied for five runs in the third inning to defeat Cain's Tires, 8-0, last night in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball league play at Albert Park.

Don Rump, playing well enough to get a team named after him, drove in the winning run as Don Rump Golf Shop defeated Mike's Bar and Grill, 3-4. Rich Carrol threw a three-hitter to give Marin Supply a 15-3 romp over M&S Brokers.

Redwood, Novato Golf Teams Win

The Redwood High School Giants and the Novato Hornets continued undefeated yesterday in Marin County Athletic League golf action, but the surprise award goes to the Drake Links squad, which carded the best score of the day in trouncing Marin Catholic.

Redwood dropped Tamalpais with a 206-222 decision at the Meadow Club in Fairfax, while Novato took San Rafael, 205-210, in a rescheduled match of last week, at Peacock Gap.

Drake, which had been winless in two unspectacular MCAL starts this year, belted the Wildcats by carding a sharp 204 to Marin Catholic's 241 at the Meadow Club.

In a non-league match yesterday, the Terra Linda Trojans defeated Pinole Valley High School at Franklin Canyon, 3½-2½ in match play.

PREP OF THE WEEK

Quiet Powell 'A Competitor'

By LEW CODDINGTON

For somebody who starts slowly and finishes "coasting," Joe Powell III doesn't do badly at all.

Last Friday, for example, the Novato High School sprinter won the 10-yard dash, the 220, and the long jump, and anchored the victorious 440 relay team, as the Hornets forced undefeated Redwood down to the final two events before losing, 75-61.

"Joe is a real competitor in his own quiet way," said Novato's interim track coach, Craig Bond. "He's not a gung-ho, scream-and-yell type. He's well-liked by the other athletes on the team.

"He's a natural athlete. He's got all the talent. He probably would be a standout in whatever he tried."

One of the things he's tried is football, and as a split end he finished sixth in receiving in the Marin County Athletic League last year. Another thing he's tried is basketball, and he has started as a forward two consecutive years, although he missed half of his sophomore season with a broken knuckle.

He seems to reserve his best qrformances for track, though, despite some difficulty in starting. "I have trouble getting out of the blocks quickly," y admitted, "and sometimes at the end of the race I coast." In the middle, there appears to be no stopping him.

"He needs to get lower at the start," said Bond. "Asqit is, he's standing straight up after three or four strides, and this cuts down on his time."

Powell's best time in the 100 is10.1 seconds, achieved twice, including the Redwood meet. It's the best in the MCAL this year. He has done 23.4 in the 220 and 20-8 in the long jump, despite a curious problem involving his take-off foot.

"During my whole sophomore year, I took off on my left foot," he said. "Then Ed Nissen (Novato's triple jumper) showed me how to jump off my right foot."

JOE POWELL
Novato Sprinter

Powell developed soreness in the back of his right thigh for a while, but now is jumping better. The soreness led to an incident after which, he says, he nearly quit the team.

"We had a meet against Tamalpais and coach Patterson (Bob, who resigned last week) sat me down in the long jump because of the leg. He said we wouldn't need the points to win. But it came down to where we needed the points, and he didn't use me. I was on the verge of quitting because of this." Tam and Novato tied, 68-68.

This was an ironic twist, because it was Patterson, along with sprinter Gary Allison, who persuaded Powell to come out for track in the first place last year. "I wasn't going to do it until they talked me into it," he said.

Powell is the son of a carer Air Force Chief Warrant Officer currently stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base, and a member of an athletic family. Two sisters — Rene, a freshman, and Brenda, an eighth-grader — run track at San Jose Junior High School in Novato. A brother, Carl, a freshman at San Jose, does "everything I do," Joe says. Their father, Joe Powell Jr., has played basketball and baseball.

The Powells may not be around next year. The elder Joe will retire in October, and the family will be looking around for a place to settle permanently, and may go back east.

As a result of the general uncertainty, Joe hasn't made up his mind yet about such things as college, or even a possible profession. He carries a C average in classes, enjoying Black Literature the most, and was disappointed he could only take one semester of it.

Joe has little time for any activities outside of athletic practice. "I play basketball constantly, because it's indoors," he said. "In my spare time, I sleep."

Costello spoke from a position of strength after the Bucks walloped the Lakers 114-88 at Milwaukee Sunday.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

It was a great weekend for abalone, clam and poke pole fishermen. I checked with the game wardens who worked the Marin County and Sonoma County abalone beds after previously asking them to keep an accurate count of the number of people checked and the number of abalones taken.

Here is the report for last Saturday. At the old Palamarin ranch, now part of the Point Reyes National Seashore near Bolinas, I checked 16 abalone pickers there with 65 abalones for an average of four per fisherman. On a small bed near Point Reyes, eight fishermen had 33, checked by wardens Russ Ild and George Nelson. Again the average was four abalones per person. Department of Fish and Game Capt. Robert Bradford and his crew checked the parking lot at Pierce Point. I had not contacted them early enough, but their estimate was 80 people with almost all limits.

ABOUT TWO weeks ago, the Sonoma County wardens reported a take of 380 or so abalones by 100 or so fishermen from Pedotti Reef. The tide then was a minus .5, or just a fair low tide. Saturday with a -1.4 tide, the 338 abalone pickers took 1,191 abalones as reported by Warden Joe Peelan of that area. That averages out to three and one-half abalones per person. An early report from Fort Ross was 150 carloads of people, generally all taking limits or near limits of abalones. These figures give a final result of approximately 700 people checked taking approximately 3,000 abalones for a 4 plus average.

But getting back to the Pedotti Ranch, the abalone pickers there have been doing this for years. The ranch owners charge for access, so all are welcome. My point is that abalones can take a lot of pressure if the beds are properly used. By this I mean that care must be taken to leave undersized abalones alone. These are the spawners. The wardens at Pedotti only made three citations for undersized abalones. There is no pollution, illegal diving with scuba gear is kept at a minimum and overlimits are a rarity. I think it was a great weekend, especially Saturday with those calm seas, which permitted many anglers to take home a feed of abalones. I hope you were one of the lucky ones.

MY SON, ANDY, and wife, Mary, tried it Sunday at Palamarin. Mary got two, combing the shoreline rocks, and Andy got five, working offshore in a wet suit. He had no competition. There wasn't another diver within two blocks of him. He worked offshore, probably 200 yards out in an untouched area. It was rough, and he had his problems, but everyone felt that they had a great outing. A lot of rugged people were happy doing their thing and hurting nothing. Next year those abalones will be back and it will be done all over again. It would be a shame to close these areas and to waste such a great resource.

There were nine "out of the county" clam diggers noted in Bolinas Lagoon digging away. It's closed by the Health Department, so we just warned them away.

OTHER NEWS: Howard Goerndt and his son, Mike, reported taking two bass, 20 and 12 pounds, at Sausalito using live anchovies near the anchovy pens there. Stanten Nash of the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary says that he took his 15-year-old son on their first rockfishing trip together a week ago on the Blue Horizon. His son, Stan, caught a 35-pound ling cod which was the fishing thrill of his life. He says, "Thanks for the recommendations!"

Frank Spencer Keeper of the Marin Rod and Gun Club Pier, says, "bass fishing is getting hot!" From April 9 to April 14 some 21 stripers, averaging eight pounds, were taken from the pier. Top fish was a 14½ pounder taken by Ray Swanson.

Mike Brennan, the recreation director of Nicasio Lake, says the bluegill fishing was slow but many of the 100 anglers there last Saturday had black bass. Marty Medin of Woodacre got two last Friday, fishing most of the afternoon, using plastic eels.

Now, I'm going to cook some abalone steaks!

Lions' Lineman Parson Traded To Cardinals

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Lions Friday acquired defensive lineman Joe Schmeising from the St. Louis Cardinals in a straight plaer swap. The Lions sent offensive lineman Ray Parson to the Cardinals.

Schmeising, 27, is a five-year veteran in the National Football League. He is 6 feet 4-½ inches tall, weights 260 pounds and plays both defensive tackle and defensive end. He was drafted in 1967 by the Cardinals from New Mexico State where he played middle linebacker.

Parson, 25, played last year on the Lions' special teams. He missed his entire rookie season in 1970 because of knee surgery. Parson was drafted in 1970 on graduation from University of Minnesota where he played tight end.

coach, was equally optimistic about the signing.

"I think he'll increase the potential of this club considerably," Ramsay stated. "For a 6'9 player —to be as quick and agile as he is and to play the kind of defense he has played — I envision him being able to play a small forward, and to do a good job of it."

Ramsay, who has set goal of getting the Braves into the playoffs next season, said he thinks the addition of McAdoo will give Buffalo one of the toughest front lines in the NBA.

"With players like McAdoo, John Hummer, Bob Kauffman and Elmore Smith, this gives us a very tough front line. I think it's competitive with any in the league," said Ramsay.

Solar Salute's Albany Arrival Set Wednesday

ALBANY (UPI)—Solar Salute, the West's leading candidate for the Kentucky Derby, will arrive at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday for the $100,000 California Derby three days later.

Winner of the $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby in his last start for his seventh straight victory, Solar Salute is the favorite for the mile and an eighth.

In Thursday's featured purse, Pink Khal ($10.40) scored a one and a half length victory over favored Win For Me Only.

Terra Linda Nine Stymied By Moroski

The three-hit pitching of Novato High School's Marty Moroski tripped up the devil-may-care baserunners from Terra Linda High yesterday, as the Hornets squeezed out a 4-3 Marin County Athletic League baseball victory.

Moroski made the Trojan run total seem misleading, as none of the three runs were earned. The senior hurler picked up his second victory in MCAL competition as the Hornets captured their third straight triumph and moved into undisputed second place at 3-1, half a game behind Redwood (3-0). Redwood and Novato were to collide today at 4 p.m. at Novato.

Stan Conte belted a single and a double for the Hornets, picking up a pair of runs-batted-in with the third-inning two-bagger.

Terra Linda was at the mercy of Moroski throughout, and only got the three runs on smart baserunning (the Trojans had an amazing total of nine stolen bases) and Novato miscues.

Dennis Stanley hit safely twice for Novato, and Bill Busher also collected a pair of hits. The duo combined in the bottom of the sixth to get the winning run, as Busher followed Stanley's double with a base hit, to plate the key tally.

Terra Linda got its runs on a single, hit batsman, and a two-base error in the first, and added the last score in the seventh on a Moroski wild pitch.

Brian Wall had three stolen bases, pinch runner Huey Williams added two more, and Steve Withers also had a pair of thefts for the speedy Trojans.

By MARION LADEWIG

It may seem strange, but if you are consistently getting Brooklyn (1-2) hits, you should change your starting position a board or so to the left. There will be nights when you are getting too much hook, and this may be necessary. It's foolish to live with the out-of-pocket hits when you can do something about it.

Insurance Firm Moves To Marin

Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co., which will open a huge data processing plant at Lucas Valley Road and Highway 101 in 1974, will not wait that long before moving to Marin.

The company's San Francisco processing center, which handles policy entries and accounting for 11 branch offices in the Western states, will move into Northgate Industrial Park this year, about Sept. 1. It will take temporary space in the Margarita Office Building now under construction at Mitchell Boulevard and Paul Drive, then move across the Highway when the $12 million computer center is completed in 1974.

The processing center in San Francisco is moving this year because of space demands at Fireman's Fund home office at California and Presidio.

Fireman's Fund said the move will create a number of job openings, and an employment office will open soon at Northgate Industrial Park to accept job applications.

LARKSPUR ISLE APARTMENTS — This 186-unit townhouse project is just about completed at Larkspur Plaza near the Disco Wonderworld store. Almost 50 units have already been rented and 30 families have taken up residence in the new units.

2 Developments Nearly Complete

Two large townhouse developments, with rentals ranging from $190 to $330, are just about completed in Marin County.

One is Larkspur Isle Apartments, located on Larkspur Plaza Road near Disco Wonderworld. The other is Channing Heights, a 254-unit project atop a hill at the end of Professional Center Parkway in the Northgate area of San Rafael.

Developers are the Shareholders Real Estate Group, which flourished in Southern California and more recently in Phoenix. The two Marin County projects are the company's first ventures in Northern California. Two others under way are 414 units at Scotchhollow in the San Mateo foothills and another in Daly City.

Rentals and management are handled by Capital Real Estate Management, headed by executive vice president Ted R. Lennon. He can be reached at Larkspur Isle Apartments. Capital Real Estate Management is a Shareholders' subsidiary which manages the apartments built by the parent company.

About 50 of the Larkspur Isle Apartments are already rented, and 30 families have moved in. All 186 units should be completed in a month or two. It is a water-oriented housing development, with the winding Corte Madera Creek forming its eastern boundary.

Units come in one bedroom, one bedroom with den, and two bedrooms. Furnished and unfurnished apartments are available.

Units at Channing Heights come in singles, one bedroom, one bedroom and den, two bedrooms and one bath, two bedrooms and two baths, and two-bedroom townhouses. Channing Heights also will have a clubhouse with all recreation amenities, plus a private meeting room which can be reserved by tenants.

Kaiser Spokesman Predicts Increase

OAKLAND (BW) — In response to queries regarding recent price actions in the steel industry, a spokesman for Kaiser Steel Corp. said, "for the past several years the steel industry has been plagued by unsatisfactory earnings due to rising costs and unsteady demand.

"The industry faces another 7 per cent increase in labor costs this summer. Unless productivity increases by a like amount it is difficult to see how any steel company can pledge not to raise prices this year.

Wall Street Spirits Are High Today

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market moved sharply higher in active trading during the first two hours today with investors brimming with confidence from corporate earnings reports.

Of the 1,583 issues crossing the tape, 748 advanced and 385 declined. The two-hour volume amounted to more than 7,170,000 shares.

The major thrust of the market stems from glowing first quarter earnings reports, analysts said. Also, most economic reports coming out of Washington have reflected improving business health.

The market has been virtually ignoring news developments, particularly the Vietnam war escalation during the past week.

The same pattern was true on the American Stock Exchange where prices were higher in fairly active trading. Ozark Airlines was the most active issue, up 3-4 at 11 7-8 on 128,700 shares.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Maybe It's Time To Have A Fling

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 5000 MIF Fund, reinvesting all capital gains and income dividends. I am retired on pensions of $550 per month, have savings equal to invested capital. There are just two of us and I do not think we will ever need these shares for living expenses. Should we take our distributions, which last year amounted to $2,500, and invest elsewhere or what? Is this a good place for my money? — C.J.

A. Your conservative fund has performed in line with the averages in recent periods, although its longer-term record is better than average. In 1971 the return from income and capital gains combined amounted to a modest 5.8 per cent. A larger return could be achieved, with safety of principal guaranteed, in bonds or bank certificates of deposit.

If, however, you are primarily interested in gradual growth with moderate return, a portfolio of high-quality growth stocks would be more suitable. In this category are: American Express (OTC), Bristol-Myers (NYSE), Nabisco (NYSE) and Tampax (OTC).

A 3-for-1 split has been proposed for the first issue and a 4-for-1 for the last named. From what you write, your financial situation is secure and heirs are not a consideration. Why not use the $2,500 realized last year from MIF for a vacation trip?

Q. I bought DCA Development at $28. What is your advice?

A. Announcement of a $3 million to $4 million loss for 1971 dropped these ASE shares 50 per cent in two sessions. The anticipated deficit reflects the stricter accounting methods recently adopted by realty companies.

Lack of working capital forced the closing of one tile plant and production cutbacks at another. Liquidity problems also resulted in the default on an institutionally held debt obligation. Switch to a healthier situation.
